HUE — NOT KHE SANH — SEEN REDS' NEXT OBJECTIVE

THE NEXT OBJECTIVE for the Communist in South Vietnam's northern zone will be the city of Hue instead of the American fortress at Khe Sanh, a senior officer of the U.S. Command said yesterday. Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said he agreed with this prediction and said he expected new fighting in Saigon. "In my opinion, Hue is his next objective, his next big battleground," the senior American officer said at a briefing for newsmen when asked where he thought the enemy would strike. "I don't rule out an attack on Khe Sanh, but I think he has more interest in Hue than in Khe Sanh."

Ky said in an interview he believed the Communist strategy was designed to tie up Allied troops with harassing tactics on the cities so North Vietnamese and Viet Cong armies could "regain control" of the countryside. "I think the Communists will concentrate efforts on Hue and Saigon—the two major cities—while continuing military pressure on Hue and the DMZ," Ky said. "I have some doubts they are really going to attack Khe Sanh."

47 GI'S DIE AS REDS DOWN KHE SANH TRANSPORT PLANE

NORTH VIETNAMESE GUNNERS dug into the hills shot down a U.S. Air Force C-123 plane approaching embattled Khe Sanh yesterday, killing all 47 Americans aboard, in a day of heavy bloodshed from one end of South Vietnam to the other. Allied troops reported killing 335 Communists on several battlefields in the Central Highlands just below the Khe Sanh fortress in South Vietnam's extreme north-west corner and in the streets of Quan Long, the nation's southernmost province capital.

The C-123 "Provider" was hit by a flurry of groundfire as it was on the final approach leg of a flight to Khe Sanh from the U.S. Marine troop and supply base at Phu Bai. It was one of the worst air crashes in the war. Witnesses said the Communist anti-aircraft shells and bullets tore into the wing of the twin-engine craft and sent it spiraling to the ground in flames several hundred yards short of the Khe Sanh landing strip. It exploded into a ball of fire, and there, were no signs of survivors in the smoldering wreck.

JOHNSON ASKS $500-MILLION RIGHTS PLAN FOR INDIANS

PRESIDENT JOHNSON asked Congress yesterday for what amounted to a $500 million civil rights-welfare program for American Indians. The White House said their plight "dwarfs the situation of any other Americans in the worst ghettos . . ." In a special message Johnson asked for funds to give Indians improved economic, social and educational opportunities, a greater voice in their own affairs, and tribal rights to determine whether state criminal and civil laws shall apply on their reservations.

But without waiting for Congress to act, Johnson issued an executive order creating a National Council on Indian Opportunity, headed by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and including six cabinet members, to seek improved living conditions among the nation's 600,000 Indians.

HEAVY SMOKE PERILS 27 TRAPPED IN SALT MINE

TWENTY-ONE MINERS were trapped by fire and thick black smoke at Morgan City, La., last night in a quarter-mile-deep shaft in one of the world's largest salt mines. Desperate rescue workers rigged a two-man "cage" to drop down the shaft and try to pull the stranded men to safety.

A spokesman for Cargill, Inc., operators of the mine, said there was no danger of cave-in because of the structural soundness of the salt which formed the walls of the 28-by-28-foot cubicle in which the men were imprisoned. The peril was asphyxiation, and mine workers said there was no way of telling whether the plumes of smoke which billowed from the mine shaft 12 hours after the fire broke out had reached the trapped men.

TOP CZECH ARMY OFFICIAL DEFECTS TO AMERICA

THE TOP POLITICAL OFFICER in Communist Czechoslovakia's army has defected to the United States where he seeks permanent residence, the State Department said yesterday. The defection of Maj. Gen. Jan Sejna, who fled his homeland 10 days ago, was seen as a valuable windfall for U.S. intelligence officials. Sejna, 40, is hidden away somewhere in the United States, apparently undergoing thorough briefings with U.S. officials.

PATRICK NUGENT TRANSFERS TO ACTIVATED RESERVE UNIT

PATRICK NUGENT, President Johnson's son-in-law, has transferred back to his recently mobilized Air National Guard Unit in hopes he will be sent to Vietnam. The Air Force confirmed yesterday that the 24-year-old reserve Airman 1-C had requested and received permission to transfer from his Texas unit to the 113th tactical fighter group stationed at Andrews Air Force Base, Md. The Air Force announcement came after reliable sources reported that Nugent asked to rejoin his old outfit, recalled to active duty Jan. 26, so he could perhaps get to the war zone in South-east Asia.

SENATE VOTES TO CRACK DOWN ON GHETTO RIOTERS

THE SENATE voted yesterday to crack down on ghetto riots by prohibiting abuse of policemen and firemen and restricting the transportation and use of weapons. But it refused to make it a federal crime to instigate a riot. In a series of votes the Senate adopted and rejected amendments to the civil rights bill offered by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the assistant Democratic leader. By a 72-23 vote, the Senate approved an amendment making it a federal crime to transport or manufacture for transport in commerce firearms, explosives and incendiary devices intended for use in a riot.

REISCHAUER CALLS NIXON'S VIET PLAN UNREALISTIC

FORMER AMBASSADOR to Japan Edwin O. Reischauer said in Boston yesterday he thought Richard M. Nixon's apparent plan for ending the Vietnam war was "unrealistic" and, as Reischauer understood it, it showed Nixon "doesn't understand anything." Reischauer, now a professor at Harvard University, said Nixon "is talking about economic, political and other pressures. Obviously he had in mind that we could put pressures on Moscow that would force them to force the Viet Cong and Hanoi to give up the war. Well, if that's what his understanding of the situation is, he doesn't understand anything, because obviously Moscow cannot do that. These Vietnamese are fighting the war because they want to fight the war and not because Moscow is instigating it."

JUDGE REJECTS DEFENSE PLEA IN PATRIARCA CASE

A FEDERAL JUDGE in Boston yesterday denied for the moment a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal of three men charged with conspiracy to murder William "Willie" Marfoe of Providence, R.I., to further gambling aims. U.S. District Judge Francis J. W. Ford said he would reserve judgment on the motion to acquit Raymond L. S. Patriarca, 60, of Providence; Henry Tameleo, 66, of Cranston, R.I.; and Ronald Cassesso, 35, of Somerville, until later in the trial.

MILITARY EXERCISE MAY CAUSE SONIC BOOMS TODAY

THE AIR FORCE said at Bedford yesterday a military exercise over a large section of the United States and parts of Canada may cause some sonic booms this morning. A spokesman at Hanscom Field said that B-52 and B-58 jet bombers from the Strategic Air Command will take part in a joint training exercise with units of the North American Air Defense Command. Fighter interceptor aircraft from Otis Air Force Base will fly from the base on Cape Cod to intercept the bombers.

Move To Transfer Some City Work To Contract

Mayor Monte G. Basbas is seeking a $30,000 appropriation to finance a proposed study by management consultants to determine whether the city should change its method of performing certain important public services.

One of the questions to be answered by the survey is whether the city should arrange to have such work as rubbish removal and snow plowing done by private contractors rather than by municipal employees.

Only an emergency crew of municipal workers would be maintained by the city if a change were made to the system of contracting out the work.

Other matters to be studied and questions to be resolved are whether the city under present conditions should continue to maintain its own garage system and whether it would be advisable for the city to purchase or lease the automotive equipment it needs.

Mayor Basbas declared that the survey he contemplates would not conflict with a study being made by the Board of Aldermen but would supplement it.

The Mayor also stressed that any change to a different method of performing major services would not involve the discharge of any city employees.

Such a change, if decided upon, would be made gradually, he asserted, adding that when city employees retired their jobs would not be filled. By this process the city's own work force could be reduced in time to the size of an emergency crew, Mayor Basbas stated.

Mayors of a number of cities throughout Massachusetts have decided that some municipal services can be performed more efficiently and economically by private contractors than by municipal employees, he said.

Members of the Board of Aldermen at their meeting Monday night tabled the Mayor's request for $30,000 to pay for a Public Works Study.

Politics To Palette Exhibits At Library

The Newton Free Library's new Mini-Talk series got off to a lively start last week in February.

Attorney General Elliot Richardson, whose watercolors will remain on display at the Main Library, 414 Centre Street, through March 8, opened the new series before a maximum and totally responsive audience on the evening of February 27 in Chaffin Hall of the Main Library.

Speaking on the "Difference Between Painting and Politics," the Attorney General confessed that he had never heard of a Mini-Talk.

He said that so far as he knew, Mini-talk went with-skirt, and he knew that meant short. So he took his cue from Mini-skirt and chatted briefly, opening the discussion to informal questions.

His capacity audience wanted to know more about his cartooning, and he responded with an anecdote

Charges Mayor "Playing Politics With Safety"

A grave charge that Mayor Monte G. Basbas has been "playing politics with public safety" was made this week by Alderman H. James Shea, Jr., who called on the Mayor to begin action at once to "secure solutions to Newton Corner's neglected traffic and pedestrian problems."

The Newton Corner Alderman called on Basbas "not to use the local newspapers to explain why he thinks traffic solutions inadvisable, as he did recently with the pedestrian light at Centre st., Newton Corner, near Hubbard's Drug Store."

He further urged the mayor to "use the resources of his office to secure viable solutions to the neglected traffic and pedestrian problems in Newton Corner."

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

First Tests Next Tuesday For Nixon, McCarthy, LBJ

New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation Presidential Primary next Tuesday lost some of its political significance when Governor George Romney withdrew because of the overwhelming defeat which appeared to await him in the Granite State.

Political pundits, however, will be closely watching the outcome of the unusual fight between former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

That is a contest which Nixon is considered certain to win. But in winning he could lose prestige. And Rockefeller, in losing a write-in drive in New Hampshire, could conceivably take a big stride toward the GOP Presidential nomination.

Nixon undoubtedly would feel much more comfortable if Romney had remained in the Presidential

Newton Baptists Assist With Missionary Congress

Edwin Hancock of Newton, is serving as general chairman for the evening meetings of the World Missionary Congress being held at the Boston Ruggles Street Baptist Church this weekend, 18 Missionaries from Indonesia, Vietnam, Africa, Russia and Japan will be among the speakers.

The missionaries are being entertained at a luncheon in the home of Mrs. Harland Bradley of 180 Summer street, Newton Centre, today.

The 18 speakers representing mission boards from every continent will address the evening meetings held at 7:45 and also the 10:45 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. Sunday services. The Rev. John DeBrine, pastor, and the Rev. Richard L. Parker, associate pastor, will preside. Ed Lyman, RCA's recording artist, will be the guest soloist.

A highlight of the five-day program will be a report on mission work in Vietnam by Dr. Sidney Correll, Fellow of the Royal Geographic Society, missionary journalist, and president of United World Mission who has just returned from the Chu Lai Air Base where he ministered to U.S. troops and visited refugee camps, orphanages and medical centers. He will also show his film, "The Untold Story of Vietnam."

Among the keynote speakers will be Dr. Robert Finley, president International Students; the Rev. Peter Deyneka, assistant general director, Slavic Gospel Association, who was recently in Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia, and Miss Mabel Francis who has served many years in Japan under the Christian Missionary Alliance.

Several workshops and a panel discussion of the subject, "Are Modern Missions Missing Their Mark?", will be held Saturday afternoon. There will also be a special program for teens and young adults at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday.

The public is invited to the lectures, the nightly color films at 6 p.m., and to visit the 30 international and Boston area mission exhibits.

Hold Move To Add Four More Police Officials

A recommendation by Mayor G. Basbas for a change in the city ordinances to permit the addition of a deputy chief and three lieutenants to the Police Department was held on Monday night for further information by a narrow 10 to 9 vote of the Newton Board of Aldermen.

Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell asked for further clarification of such things as what the captain's job would be in the future and who currently acts as chief during absences of the Police Department head.

Legislation and Rules Committee Chairman Melvin J. Dangel said that in a discussion with Captain William Quinn, who is in charge of Police Department administration, his committee was told that there has been an increase in the number of policemen on the force and there will be a further increase after the next Civil Service examination.

The new lieutenants are needed, he said, to assure adequate day and night coverage by higher echelon men.

Alderman Paul J. Burke who chaired the board's Police Study Committee said his group's report indicated that additional lieutenants should be concerned with work with youth. Burke wanted to know just what the jobs of the new lieutenants would be. Dangel pointed out that his was an administrative, not a legislative matter.

Burke also argued that there was no rush in making the appropriation since the lieutenants could not be appointed, in any case, until the next Civil Service exam is given and the results are known. This could take several months, he said.

Alderman H. James Shea, Jr., called the request "untimely," declaring it had been submitted just prior to the release of the study being conducted by the Aldermanic Public Works Committee.

"The timing of the request certainly has the prospect of clouding the public dialogue on our study and it seems to be a challenge to the independent, legislative function of this Board," Shea remarked.

He asked that the Board refrain from approving and funding the mayor's request until at least two weeks after release of the aldermanic study.

Alderman Louis I. Egelson, Acting Chairman of the Public Works Committee, pointed out, however, that the study envisioned by Mayor Basbas would encompass all aspects of the Public Works Department and would be much broader in scope than the study being made by the aldermanic committee which is dealing solely with snow and rubbish removal.

about his post-Harvard days as a cartoonist for a Fore River labor union newspaper.

Painters in his audience asked about his techniques, his subjects, media, his opportunities to paint.

And when the first Mini-Talk was over, a lively crowd took a second look at the exhibition of water colors of the Attorney General of the Commonwealth, Elliot Lee Richardson, and concluded, in the words of Edgar Driscoll, that it's "not bad, not bad at all. Very good, in fact, considering . . . that the man who painted them has lots more on his mind than palette and brush."

In the second Mini-Talk of the Library's new series, Bascha Snyder and Mildred Miller, Newton authors of the Kosher Gourmet and unharried, unhurried hostesses, entertained with morning coffee at the Main Library on Monday, the fourth of March at ten-thirty a.m.

"While they skillfully demonstrated how to make their raspberry bars, the audience enjoyed their crisp apricot strips with steaming cups of coffee provided by Miss Siroon Gayzagian of the Library staff.

The new authors say that their book is geared to the needs of the woman who is interested in kosher cooking, the woman who wants to entertain those who are, and the woman who is seeking a guide to gourmet cooking and party planning.

By special permission of the authors, the recipes for apricot strips and raspberry bars were distributed to an appreciative audience.

Browsers were also treated to a fresh display of unusual cookbooks from the Library's collection, such as "Just Desserts" by McCully and Noderer; "Fisherman's Wharf Cook Book" by Wood; "The Jack Sprat Cookbook" by Leary and DeGre; "A Taste of Portugal" by Sarvis; and the House and Garden "The Art of Carving."

The third Mini-Talk, on March 25 at seven-thirty p.m.

(414 Centre Street) will feature the expressive dance photos of Harriet Klebanoff and a brief dance workshop by Norma Canner of Newton.

Mrs. Klebanoff and Mrs. Canner are new authors of the photo-essay book, "And a Time to Dance," a book concerned with dance therapy for retarded children.

ed "passing-the-buck," Shea demanded that "all parties concerned cease ignoring this menace . . . end this rhetoric of delay and commence meaningful action designed to secure solutions to . . . the longstanding community traffic problems."

Shea stated: "It was with particular amazement and regret that I recently read in the Newton Graphic of Mayor Basbas' view that a pedestrian light at Centre Street, Newton Corner, near Hubbard's Drug Store is inadvisable."

"I am further appalled at his statement purporting that he has 'for some time now been anxious to have a pedestrian operated traffic light on Centre Street at Hubbard's Drug Store to enable our Newton residents to cross this busy intersection.'"

"This sudden approach on Mayor Basbas' part amounts to nothing less than playing politics with the public safety," Shea said. "He is using the Newton papers to cover up for his own inattention to the longstanding community traffic problems in Newton Corner."

Shea further declared: "I sponsored, supported, and eventually achieved passage early in 1967 of Board of Aldermen docket item No. 875-66 calling for the installation, even if only on a temporary basis, of a traffic light at Centre Street from Hubbard's Drug Store to the Library. Support for this light was evidenced by more than 250 citizen signatories on the petition accompanying this item."

Mr. Pratt, our Director of Public Works, has pigeonholed this item for more than a year now, refusing to send it to the State Department of Public Works or to the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority.

"When I recently appealed to Mayor Basbas to help with this item that Mr. Pratt was holding, the Mayor's only response was to release to the papers a statement claiming that for sometime now he has been anxious to have this pedestrian operated traffic light installed."

If this was actually the Mayor's feeling, I am certain Mr. Pratt would not have pigeonholed this measure for more than a year and I am sure the resources of Mayor Basbas's office could have helped secure this pedestrian light by now."

Shea continued: "Since the opening of the Massachusetts Turnpike extension in the fall of 1964, Newton has not done enough to work for solutions to the problems of Newton Corner. Now Newton has even gained legal control over this intersection from the Turnpike Authority and we are still ignoring these threats to the public safety, and convenience."

"Since I took office in April of 1966," Shea said, "I have submitted numerous items designed to improve the traffic situation in Newton Corner. Everyone of them has come back from the Traffic Commission with the disposition that we should do nothing until the Wilbur Smith Traffic Study is completed. For almost four years we who use Newton Corner have had that temporary solutions to

A reception at the Rose Art Museum on Wednesday evening (March 27) for the benefit of the League will follow the opening night performance of "Paradise Lost" by Clifford Odets at the Brandeis Spingold Theatre.

League Of Women Voters To See "Paradise Lost"

Newton's League of Women Voters invite members and friends to the opening night performance of Clifford Odets' play, "Paradise Lost" to be presented at the Spingold Theatre, Brandeis University on Wednesday (March 27). A champagne reception for guests of the League will be held following the performance at the Rose Art Museum.

This traffic mess are 'inadvisable' and now we are told to wait for the Wilbur Smith report — a report which was funded by the Board of Aldermen in 1966.

"Our Director of Public Works, Mr. Pratt, tells me that we do not even have a contract with Wilbur Smith. He blames the Law Department for the situation. I have also appealed to the Mayor on this matter and he tells me that Mr. Pratt has much of the information on Newton Corner from Wilbur Smith and that a contract is unnecessary. As the proverbial buck is passed, so also do the years that we have to live with the dangers in Newton Corner."

"I conclude," Shea stated, "by calling upon all parties concerned, particularly Mayor Basbas and Director of Public Works Pratt, to end this rhetoric of delay and to commence meaningful action designed to secure solutions to Newton Corner's neglected traffic and pedestrian problems. For almost four years we have lived with the danger and inconvenience of these Newton Corner traffic patterns. I further call upon all parties concerned to cease ignoring this menace, to work cooperatively to get the Wilbur Smith report, and to effectively implement its desirable recommendations."

Lee Loumos Says:

The most frequent question I am asked is "Which is the best color TV or stereo?" When people have a copy of Consumers' Reports in their hands, I am generally in for a long answer, but right now with Sylvania and Magnavox enjoying such high ratings in the industry, I am in the fortunate position of being able to show either one in depth. Depending upon the screen size and cabinet style desired, I am sure to satisfy any request between these two excellent makes. Remember, my decision on relative quality must be made far in advance of the receipt of ratings, and that is where my twenty years of experience in TV and Hi-Fi are invaluable to my customers. May I add you to my ever-growing list of satisfied customers?

In announcing the first Whitehead Fellows, Dean Theodore Sizer of the Graduate School of Education at Harvard said:

"Educators, under increasing pressures, must find opportunities, freed from day-to-day demands, to explore new ideas and to devise new approaches to their work. While each Fellow will be concerned primarily with pursuit of his special interest, the program will enable each man to provide his colleagues — as well as his student and Faculty associates in the University — with new perspectives on their particular enterprises."

In naming the Fellowship program for Alfred North Whitehead, philosopher and mathematician, Dean Sizer said, Harvard recognizes Whitehead's distinguished contributions to modern educational thought. Professor Whitehead taught at Harvard from 1924 to 1936.

The nine Whitehead Fellows were selected by a committee made up of scholars and educators from Harvard and elsewhere. The director of the program is Assistant Dean Joseph Young of the Faculty of Education.

Headlights And Highlights From Newton High School

By KATE SOLOMON

We swung into March with the snow. Before March skirts away, Newton High will set into operation many activities.

March always connotes scheduling time and March 14 students will fill out registration cards, indicating the courses they would like to take next year. Registration ends in April.

March 15 and 16, the Rhinoceros, the senior class play will be presented. Tickets will cost $1.25.

March 14, the new staff of the Newtonite will put out its first issue. The old staff, having worked since last March has temporarily severed its journalistic career.

The Student Council has planned two exchange days and one big dance for March.

The last week in March, The National Honor Society will announce its new members.

Saturday, March 9, juniors will take the National Merit Scholarship Exam.

New Courses

With scheduling around the corner, the new 1968 courses have been announced.

The Math Department plans to offer two new courses, one in the history of math, the other in logic. Both courses will meet twice a week for the entire year and will merit two and a half credits toward graduation.

The Math History course is only open to juniors and seniors. It will introduce the students to famous mathematicians and their discoveries. The Logic course will concentrate primarily on mathematical proof.

Next year there will be two honors math courses instead of just one. One of the courses will move slightly slower than the other but both will use the same texts. Students will have to be invited to take both of them.

The Math Department decided to discontinue the Matrix Algebra course.

The Science Department will offer a new half-year biology course which will focus on laboratory work. To select this course, students will have to have completed a full year of biology and will have to obtain both a of general interest to the public.

Its officers are: Mrs. Albert E. Burgess, president; Mrs. John D. Fox, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Charles S. Butler, 2nd vice-president; Miss Helen L. White, secretary; Mrs. Dwight Colburn, treasurer; and Mrs. John B. G. Palen, asst. treasurer.

recommendation from their previous teacher and the approval of the present teacher of the course.

An "Advertising Workshop" will be offered next year by the Industrial Arts Department. This course will introduce students to advertising concepts, language, and reproduction procedures, and will afford them the opportunity to create their own ads.

The History Department will offer independent study courses next year for students who desire to study a subject not offered at Newton High. The student will be able to earn as many as five credits, depending on the amount of work he does.

This year's "Problems of Democracy" course is being revised and next year will be entitled, "Problems of Contemporary Society."

Two linguistic courses will be offered next year. One will attempt to answer the question, "What do we know when we know a language," and the other will attempt to answer, "How do we know what the sentences of a language mean."

Rhinoceros

The time is not far away when one will be able to witness the unique and startling sight of a man turning into a rhinoceros. In fact, such an experience is only a little over a week away — March 15 or 16.

The cast members of the senior play have been rehearsing every day after school and for four days during vacation. The Rhinoceros will be a master production. As a publicity measure for the play, the Senior Class Committee decided to offer rhinoceros buttons. They have not yet decided whether to sell or give away the "ornaments."

The Senior Class Committee also selected various chairmen for the play:

Jimmy Weaver will be the general manager for the Rhinoceros. Jimmy is also first vice-president of the senior class.

Ginny Schulman and Linda Salomone were chosen Ticket Committee chairmen. Tamara Shapiro and Roni Sherman will be publicity chairmen and Barbara Case and Judy Sudhalter will be in charge of the Refreshment Committee.

Amy Cohen and Neil Silen will be in charge of ushers and Karen Schpeiser and Jon Shuman will design the programs for the play.

New "Newtonite" Staff

Thirty Newtonite staff editors and assistants were recently chosen by Editor-in-Chief Sam Scheffler, Managing Editor Jim Hirsberg and Business Manager Paul Blazer. The staff will put out its first paper March 14.

There are eight literary staffs: news, editorial, feature, sports, art, photography, forum and copy, and five business staffs: budget, circulation, correspondence, publicity, and advertising.

The new News Editor is D'Vera Cohn, who was previously assistant news editor. Her assistants are sophomore Barbara Nemetz and Evan Carton. Patti White and Hillel Kieval are the two Editorial Editors. They are assisted by Andrea Estes and Randy Forman.

The feature staff is headed by Randy Averbach and Suzanne Sullivan, with Jocelyn Greene, Mary Morris and Judy Tarutz as assistants. Randy was an assistant feature editor on the 1967-68 staff.

Tom Graves is the Sports Editor. He has two assistants: Jeff Grossman and Mike Shelby.

Dietz. His two assistants are Steve Klayman and Harold Kobrin.

The editors of the newly created forum staff are Maureen Kneeland and Andy Stern.

Steve Salter is the Copy and Proof Editor with Jim MacDonald as his assistant.

The Budgetary Manager is Andy Berezin, the Circulation Manager is Ethel Roibein, Phyllis Paul is the Corresponding Editor, Gary Furst is the Publicity Manager and Bobby Snyder and Sallyanne Cole are the Advertising Managers.

Student Council

Not all Newton High students always attend Newton High School. Some visit other schools. Eleven members of the Student Council are this type of student. They will spend an entire day either at Manchester High School or at Randolph High School on March 11 or March 16.

The exchange day is sponsored by the Massachusetts Department of Education. Its purpose is to allow Student Council members to compare another school with their own: the size and consequent set-up, the courses, the student government; and secondly to observe the way the town government works.

Both Manchester High and Randolph High are small schools situated in small town communities. The NHSers participating in the exchange will report back to the Council the differences between Newton High and the school they visited.

Bruce Baltimore, the Student Council president, chose the eleven students who would participate. "I chose those students who have been the most active this year and who I felt deserved the experience the most," he explained.

Bruce, Joanne Glickman, Ellen Laskey, Laura Mersky, Ted Bloom, Neil Cohen, and Andy Levin are the seniors who will participate in the exchange day.

The juniors are Carol Shapiro, Barbara Myerow, Marsha Howland and Chester Proshan.

The Student Council members will attend morning classes at the respective schools, will go out for lunch at a restaurant in the town, then in the afternoon and evening will see the town's "points of interest." The students will also attend a town meeting, to see how the town is run.

Each NHS student will have a private escort. Then, when Manchester and Randolph students come to Newton, they will already know the person who is to show them around.

NHSers will show their visitors such places as Echo Bridge, the museum at city hall, various Newton schools, and Newton industry. The high school students will also attend an alderman meeting to see how a city, as opposed to a town, is run. Last year, the visitors were brought to Mill Falls restaurant. The restaurant for this year's exchange has not yet been decided.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society met Thursday, February 29. They discussed the Attleboro exchange and a modified induction ceremony.

March 20, fifteen students from Attleboro High will come to Newton and will go to classes with members of the National Honor Society. Later, NHSers will go to Attleboro. Paula Stone, Debbi Bovarnick and Marcia Cohen compose a committee to plan the entertainment for the visitors.

After the Attleboro discussion, Gretchen Mueller, the Society president, told the group what was said at the National Honor Society faculty meeting. One teacher from each of the six houses, Mr.

Flag Given To Scout Pack 243 By DAR Chapter

On Monday evening, February 26, Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter, D.A.R., presented an American flag to the Webelos Den 1, Club Scout Pack 243 of Hyde School, Newton Highlands, at a meeting in the home of Den Leader, Mr. John Gay.

Fourteen Webelos, with the assistant Den Leader, Mr. Andrew Stielman, were present when Mrs. H. L. Walen Sr., vice-regent of Lydia Partridge Whiting Chapter, and Mrs. Thomas M. Desmond, treasurer, made the presentation.

Following it, Mrs. Walen gave a short talk on the history of the flag, and on flag etiquette.

Mechem, and the four officers of the society (Gretchen, Paula, Debbie, and Marcia) were present at the meeting.

The induction ceremony for new members will be modified this year. There will be no candles and no speeches explaining the four ingredients of the National Honor Society: leadership, scholarship, citizenship and service.

Instead, Gretchen will deliver a short introductory speech and then the other officers will talk about the type of student who is inducted into the society. They will tell of various students' achievements but will not use names.

The speaker for the ceremony has not yet been chosen and various other details have not yet been decided upon.

The induction ceremony will be held April 9 and the fifty new juniors and one hundred new seniors will be announced last week in March.

Parents of the new members are invited to the ceremony.

National Merit

Qualifying Test

Ten Newton High seniors have become National Merit Finalists. They all are eligible for scholarships up to $6,000 if they are selected as Merit Scholars. Merit Scholars will be named in April.

To become finalists, students had to obtain scores of 146 or higher in a National Merit Scholarship Test given last spring. They then had to submit an application and have the school's approval.

Being a finalist means that one is in the upper one-half of one percent of all graduating seniors. Twenty per cent of the finalists become Merit Scholars.

The Newton High finalists are Deborah Bovarnick, Ann Carten, Ann Harrer, Robert Houghteling, Andrew Levin, Harold Lichten, Gretchen Mueller, Marvin Olasky, Lawrence Samet, and Robert Weiss.

Juniors take the National Merit Qualifying Test Saturday morning March 9. Mr. Mecham said of the test in the daily school bulletin:

"The National Merit Test is a highly selective test and those students whose records indicate that they might be successful in this competition have been invited to participate. We do not recommend that other students take the test, but any junior who thinks it might be worthwhile should check with his guidance counselor about it."

Profile Of An Athlete:

Mark Young Of Yale

By BRUCE KOPELMAN and LEWIS FREEDMAN

champion Mark Young, the IC4A 600 and 440-yard champion Mark Young, the finest athlete ever produced by Newton South High, earned a first-place medal competing in the Eddie Farrell 500-yard run in the 42nd annual Knights of Columbus track meet, January 13.

Young, now at Yale, edged out Walt Fitzgerald of Central Connecticut at the wire with his winning time of 57.4 seconds. The former South student, running anchor man on the Yale relay team received the baton in third place. With only 100 yards of his 440 to go, he sprinted out, just nipping his opponent at the finish line. His 47.9 leg enabled Yale to run the fastest, 3:10.7 mile relay of the night.

On February 17 Young ran the greatest race of his life, speeding home in the 600 in 1:09.5 only one-half second off the world's record.

Mark Young is the owner of four Newton South outdoor track records. He sprinted to a 21.9 in the 220, and a 49.3 in the 440. In addition, he ran a 4:25.1 mile and a 9:58 2-mile. Young ran anchor on the Lion 880-yard relay team which set the school mark of 1:31.

After the Knights of Columbus meet, we interviewed Young. He began his track career as a 7th grader at Meadowbrook junior high. He was not an immediate sensation. In fact, during his junior high school career, he was unsuccessful.

In addition to track, Mark was a participant in both football (in high school and in his sophomore and junior years at Yale) and basketball (in high school).

This year, his senior year, Mark did not go out for football. He commented: "I didn't feel that I was contributing anything significant to the team." He also wanted to concentrate on getting in condition for the Olympics. The first set of the summer Olympic trials will be held in June, while the second one will be held in September.

When asked about his Olympic future, Mark modestly said: "My chances at best are those of a long shot. I'm not counting myself out, but it takes a lot of ability, hard work, and some luck to make the Olympic team. But I'm definitely going to try." His times of 46.6 in the quarter and 1:09.5 in the 600 give him a good chance.

We were interested in his future. Would he be willing to forego track after October (the Olympics, hopefully) for something else? What are his plans? Would he like to coach a track team? His reply was: "My career plans are anything but concrete at this stage. In the near future I would like to teach at the secondary school level for a couple of years. Needless to say there is also the military service to be considered at this stage in my career as well, but I would like to teach next year. I would like to continue in track, but have no particular goals after the Olympics."

We were curious as to how college track practice compared to a high school workout. He thought it over and replied, "I was always trained by Mister Sutherland (former Newton South coach) to be in shape for anything from the 220 to the 2-mile. Hence, I did much more distance work than I do now. In general, my workouts at Yale are run over shorter distances, with shorter intervals." He paused and then added, "220 men in college are trained to be able to run a 440 in order to make them strong. Sprinters tend to be lazy and think that they don't need to be in as good as shape as distance men; they do! Thus, college men do longer workouts than high school runners, whereas other distances train shorter but more concentrated." All of this is of course limited to his experience at Newton South and Yale.

At Yale, Mark Young is captain of the indoor and outdoor track teams. Knowing that in college there is no limit to the number of events in which a trackman can compete, we were curious as to which ones Young runs. He replied, "In indoor meets I participate in the 600, the mile relay, and occasionally the 2-mile relay. Outdoors, the 220, 440, and mile relay."

When asked if he has any individual records he responded, "I have no personal records as yet, but I am a member of both the indoor and outdoor mile relay record-holding teams. The indoor mark is 3:18, while the outdoor mark is 3:09.7. Mark ran anchor on both teams.

(The situation of personal records has since changed with his 1:09.5 600.)

Young has never really thought of track in the form of a career, but he just liked the running. When we asked him why he liked track, he said: "I don't know exactly. Perhaps, it is because it is one area where an individual can compete and be judged on the basis of his ability alone. There is little luck involved. It is a case of an individual battling against other individuals; you win or lose on the basis of your own merit. This is obviously sort of an ideal situation compared to many of the situations in life where an individual is judged on the basis of other criteria. There is no chance of someone getting first-place because he is the starter's son or the coach's son.

Nominations To GOP Ward Com. Are Completed

The eight Ward Committees of the Newton Republican City Committee have completed their nomination papers to meet the statutory time limit as to filing, according to an announcement by William A. Lincoln, chairman of the Newton Republican City Committee.

Those nominated to places on the several Ward Committees, will after certification by the Secretary of State serve for a term of two years.

The newly designated members will meet for organizational purposes in their wards in May as required by law. Thereafter, added Chairman Lincoln, the GOP of Newton will be off to an aggressive program in support of GOP candidates.

The procedures for the nomination of members and the processing of the papers were conducted under the general direction of Mrs. Michael G. C. Bucuvalas, a vice-chairman of the Newton Republican Committee. Ward chairmen who participated are Miss Adelaide B. Ball, Ward 1; William R. Horner, Ward 2; Julius L. Masow, Ward 3; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walsh, Ward 4; Joseph I. Weinreb, Ward 5; William B. Dockser, Ward 6; Miss Mary P. Cunningham, Ward 7; Alan S. Barkin, Ward 8. The chairmen were assisted by Henry J. Wilson who served as coordinator with State Committeewoman Mrs. William L. Bruce.

Irish U. Alumni Festival Ball on Friday, March 8

The Chestnut Hill Country Club is the place chosen for the 11th annual festival ball of the Irish University Graduates Association to be held Friday (March 8).

Working on this event from the Newton area are Dr. and Mrs. Michael Gill, Mrs. Maeve O. Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scipione, Dr. Simon Devine, Mr. Michael Nagle and Mrs. Trude Dillon.

The Association's Scholarship Fund is designated to receive proceeds from this ball. The Group, in cooperation with Boston College, is sponsoring a graduate student, John Hogan from Ireland, who is currently studying for his Master's Degree in Business Administration at B.C.

Membership in this organization includes people from Poland, Italy, Germany, Israel, Canada, Hawaii and other countries as the only requirement is that graduates have attended any of the five Universities in Ireland. This scholarship is an effort to stop the brain drain from Ireland as the scholarship recipient must return to Ireland at the end of the 2-year period.

Taxpayers' Assoc. Lauds School Comm.

The Newton Taxpayers' association this week congratulated the School Committee for its "instruction" to the School Superintendent to change the school budget format. The action, the Taxpayer's Association said, marks an important break-through for the long-term campaign of the Association for program budget-accounting in the School Department.

Warning that accounting changes do not mean the schools will cost less, Lorenz P. Muther, Jr., the Association's executive director, said: "It took several years of persuasion, but the Taxpayers' effort, aided by other changed circumstances, finally brought it about."

He forecast "at least two important results can be reasonably anticipated now. "First, the citizens should be able to know much more readily in detail and by activity what, why, how and in what order of priorities the department acts—and each activities cost."

"Second, the department should be able to present changes in its programs in an improved relationship to its total effort, visibly balancing the educational results to be hoped for against their financial impact," Muther asserted.

"Moreover if, as we hope," Muther continued, "the Superintendent's recommendations for the total school budget-accounting operation reflect an approach somewhat similar to that presently being used in the building maintenance, cafeteria, athletic and federal grant programs, a planned program budget backed up by thoroughly itemized accounting can both

Mr. Kelly died Saturday in the Veterans' Hospital, Jamaica Plain, after a long illness. A veteran of World War II, he was a taxi operator in the Newtonville Cab Co. founded by his father, the late Michael T. Kelly, Sr.

He is survived by a brother, William J. Kelly, of Newton, and five sisters, Miss Agnes R. Kelly, of Newtonville, Mrs. Margaret C. Kelly, of Jamaica Plain, Mrs. Mary T. Lyons, of Brighton, Mrs. Alice R. Tatten, of Brighton and Mrs. Elizabeth R. Flynn, of Newtonville.

Dr. Harold M. Frost
FRIENDSHIP, Me.—Funeral services for Dr. Harold M. Frost, 79, formerly of Newton Centre, were held yesterday in the Friendship Methodist Church.

Dr. Frost died Saturday of cancer. He had become Friendship's only physician in 1955 upon retiring to the town 50 miles up the coast from Portland. He previously had a medical practice in Newton Centre and was a former medical director of New England Mutual Life Insurance Co.

After moving to Friendship, he went back to work as a general practitioner. The town had been without a doctor for two years. He was soon working harder than he ever had before, and continued until May, 1967.

Dr. Frost reportedly charged only 50 cents for a visit. When he insisted that he must retire again, the little town of 800, as well as residents from nearby Waldoboro and Cushing, honored him for the numerous times he answered calls in the early hours of the morning, something unusual in modern medical care.

A "Dr. Frost Recognition Fund" was started and a dispensary was named for him at Knox County Memorial Hospital in Rockland. He is survived by his wife, Lois, and two sons, Richard of New Orleans and Harold M. Jr. of Detroit.

Maria Magni
A solemn Mass of requiem will be said tomorrow in Our Lady's Church for Mrs. Maria Magni, 62, of 140 Adams street, Newton, who died Wednesday in Newton-Wellesley Hospital after an illness of several weeks.

She is also survived by a brother, Dominic Pescosolido; two sisters, Mrs. Katherine Patriacca and Mrs. Anna DiMezza, both of Italy, and 22 grand children and seven great-grandchildren.

Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Funeral Rites Here For Sr. Mary Alice Regan

A Mass of Requiem was celebrated Thursday morning (February 29) at the Newton Country Day School on Centre street for Sister Mary Alice Regan, R.S.C.J., a founder of Newton College of the Sacred Heart, who died on Monday after a long illness. She was 85.

Sister Regan's life-long interest in education was not confined to the classroom, nor was it ended by her retirement.

Ramona Sera
A requiem Mass was celebrated in Our Lady's Church last Saturday for Mrs. Ramona Sera, of 36 Rustic st., Newton, who died Wednesday Feb. 28 after a short illness.

150 Youngsters Taken On Community Vacation Trip

Children from Newton, and surrounding communities, were enthusiastic participants in the Newton Community Center's Holiday Trip Program, Part II, held during the February vacation week.

One hundred and fifty children joined the trips (on four different days). The kids represented 18 different schools in Newton including Angier, Ward, Pierce, Cabot Davis, Carr, Mason Rice, Underwood, Bowen, Claffin, Countryside, Hyde, Emerson, Hamilton, Horace Mann, Beethoven, Park and Spaulding.

Highlight of the week was an exciting day planned for the children at the Charles Playhouse, and at a Bubblegum Factory. Kids were thrilled with an unusual performance of "Davy Crockett and the Mule Men" and tickled with watching the complete gum making process — from gum base, to pack.

Children went home with pockets stuffed with gum, and a clear understanding of how gum is manufactured.

Another popular trip was to the State House and Children's Theatre, where the youngsters witnessed a lively production of "The Merry Pranks of Tyl." The State House tour was made more meaningful through the efforts of Rep. Theodore Mann and Rep. Irving Fishman.

Both men greeted the groups and helped the children toward a richer understanding of government in a mock session of the Children's House of Representatives. (Kids debated and voted on whether the government should pass a bill requiring all children to drink milk three times a day.) Half-day trips were particularly exciting for the younger children. In an examination of the food industry, children in Kindergarten through Grade 3 were treated to a behind-the-scenes look at New England's largest supermarket.

Obliging meat cutters severed racks of beef and lamb before the wide-eyed kiddies into chops, steaks, etc. The children also enjoyed shopping for dinner themselves, with a wide variety of results. (Many mothers told the director of the program, Mrs. Murray Janower, that the kids actually cooked their choice for the evening meal. Peanut butter and pizza may not complement each other according to an adult, but to a 6 year old they sure made sense!)

Completing the understanding of processed foods, the children were brought to a potato chip factory where they watched raw potatoes turn into luscious treats in a matter of minutes. Other half-day trips for the older grades (Grades 4 through 6) included trips to the Christian Science Monitor newspaper and Mapparium, and to the weather bureau. At the Monitor children followed news releases from a reporters typewriter to the printed page.

Kids were tremendously impressed by the effort and time needed in producing a paper, and, of course, by the huge printing presses (some as large as a train car).

The weather bureau appealed to the scientific minds of the group, and thanks to the courtesy of the weather bureau staff detailed explanations were provided.

Plans are now being formed for Easter vacation by Mrs. Murray Janower, program director and leader. Mrs. Janower urges businessmen and parents with suggestions for children's activities to write to her at the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry St., West Newton, Mass.

Parents who are interested in receiving notification of the next program should call the center and ask to be placed on the Holiday Trip Mailing List. (244-2260).

Shea Urges Passage Of Competitive Bid Law

Open competitive bidding in the sale of municipally owned real estate was urged by Alderman H. James Shea, Jr., last Thursday at the State House in testimony before the Joint Legislative Committee on Local Affairs.

Shea appeared at a public hearing in support of his bill which would require auction to the highest bidder of municipally owned real estate.

The present practice in Newton, and in other cities and towns in Massachusetts, is for the city to negotiate the sale of real estate without public notice or competitive bids.

Shea's bill is similar to a proposal submitted by Alderman Joseph McDonnell to the Newton Board of Aldermen, and was filed in the House by Newton State Rep. Irving Fishman.

In his testimony before the Committee, Shea declared: "The present practice of negotiating sales of municipally owned excess real estate results in inadequate notice to the public of such sales and the appearance of abuse of inside information. 'Further, negotiated sales just do not result in the highest price the private market could reasonably be expected to produce for such real estate."

The sale of excess municipally owned real estate by public auction to the highest bidder would afford greater notice to the public, would remove the cloak of secrecy and the abuse of "inside" information surrounding negotiated sales, would follow more closely the principle of "full disclosure" and would maximize the revenue derived from such sales of municipal real estate."

Shea concluded: "To enhance public faith and confidence in the procedures used to dispose of excess municipally owned real estate and to maximize the revenue derived from these procedures in this era of municipal fiscal crisis, I urge passage of this legislation."

Representative Fishman and Aldermen Shea and McDonnell are hopeful of favorable action from the legislature on this bill.

Bachelor Cop Delivers Tot In Police Car

A Newton bachelor Police officer was forced into the role of midwife last Monday morning while enroute to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton.

Patrolman Robert Antonelli, 22, delivered Mrs. Elizabeth Antonelli, 32, of 181 Lexington st., Auburndale, of a girl who weighed in at 6 pounds, four-ounces. The youngster was born in the back of an auxiliary ambulance near 678 Washington st., in Brighton.

Antonelli, no relation to the mother, made the delivery after he and three fellow officers, George Kelley, Charles Goodale and John W. Kiley, responded to take the woman on what otherwise would have been a routine hospital run. The woman's husband, James, was also present.

Fine For Impeding Snow Removal Raised To $15

Newton residents who leave their cars blocking sidewalks or on streets so as to impede snow plowing will be fined $15 plus towing charges from now on.

The Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night approved a change in the city ordinances raising the fine from the present $4 to $15.

Public Works Director Wilard S. Pratt had pointed out before this action that cars parked on streets or in driveways blocking sidewalks were a major cause of snow plowing headaches this winter, particularly during the year-end storms.

In other action involving street traffic, the Board approved a change prohibiting parking on both sides of Grove St., Auburndale, from a point 1860 feet north of the State Highway, taking at Route 128 northerly to Hancock St., all day Saturdays only.

This action is designed to help solve congestion problems created during Jordan Marsh Warehouse sales.

The aldermen denied a request by Legislation and Rules Committee Chairman Melvin J. Dangel that West Newton Square be eliminated from a Wilbur Smith Study of traffic problems in the city.

Dangel argued that it would be a waste of money since the presence of police officers and the creation of the Massachusetts Turnpike had solved traffic problems in the area.

City Laborers Again Reject Pay Offer

The pay dispute between city laborers and the administration appeared headed for a fact-finding committee after members of Local 800 again rejected Mayor Basbas' eight per cent pay increase.

The Mayor last week offered the same package he had proffered in previous negotiations and, in addition, time and a half for two holidays, Christmas and New Year's Day.

But the local overwhelmingly rejected the latest offer. Joseph Greco, president of Local 800, said his group is looking for about 12 per cent.

Two other labor groups, the Foreman's Assoc. and the Wire Inspectors have not settled either.

Greco said the laborers thought the mayor's new offer insignificant and added that the local "won't settle until something decent comes along."

All other labor groups in the city took the eight per cent hike plus some adjustment in sick pay upon accumulation.

No money has been entered into the budget for the three Newton labor groups still unsettled. Those appropriations will be entered in the city budget separately when a settlement comes.

The meeting will be chaired by its president, Mrs. Spencer F. Deming of Newton Highlands. Luncheon co-chairmen are Mrs. L. Fabian Bachrach of West Newton and Mrs. Dutton Van Alstine of Auburndale. Devotional services will be led by Miss Dorothy E. Kellogg, of West Newton.

PTA Council Names Experts For School Building Study

Bernard Kaplan, president of the Newton Council of PTAs announces the appointment to the Council Building Committee of Professor Donlyn Lyndon, chairman of the Department of Architecture of MIT, and of Michael McKinnell, associate professor of the Harvard Graduate School of Design, and member of the firm of Kallmann and McKinnell, designers of Boston's new City Hall.

As Newton residents, they will serve on the Committee which is studying present and future school building needs in Newton.

The Committee was formed last September in response to the concern of the Council. It was asked to study current school building plans, including the urgently needed buildings for Newton High School and Day Junior High School, as well as the additions to Newton South and Angier.

In addition, the Committee was to concern itself with long-range school building needs and their place in the total capital improvement program of Newton. It was hoped that the results of this study might point up ways of expediting the program, and of financing it.

With the encouragement of Mayor Basbas, the committee has met with the architect for Newton High, with Dr. Charles Brown and Mr. John Gilleland of the school administration, and with others involved in school planning.

In its study, the committee, like the community, has considered the question of retaining one or more of the high school buildings. Consideration has been given to the fact that lower construction costs through the rehabilitation of old buildings may be offset by reimbursements available for new buildings, lower maintenance costs for new buildings, the longer life of new buildings, and educational space specifically designed for newer methods of education.

The committee has also been concerned with the necessity for including sufficient space in any new school building to serve as meeting places and recreation facilities for the community. The lack of such space has been noted over the years by all segments of the community.

A preliminary report of the committee will be presented to the Council at its meeting tonight, Thursday, March 7. Original Committee members include the chairman, Dr. Gilbert Friedell, past-President of the Peirce School PTA; Mr. Kay Alexander, architect-planner and Associate in the firm of Sakaki, Dawson and Demay Associates, and Vice-President of the Mason-Rice School PTA; Mr. Mark Gordon, president of the Day Junior High School PTA; Mrs. L. Tillman McDaniel, president of the Mrs. Gershen Rosenblum, past-president of the Carr Saldinger, former officer of the PTA Council; Mr. Norman White, president of the Angier School PTA, and Bernard Kaplan, ex-officio. Any interested Newton resident is invited to contact Committee members.

Mann Demands Rented Auto Insurance Norm

Rep. Theodore D. Mann of Newton recently urged favorable action on a bill to require uniform insurance policies for rented cars.

"The car-renting public should be protected from unknowingly assuming liability they believe covered by insurance," Rep. Mann told the joint Legislative Committee on Insurance. He said that in some instances persons renting cars and then authorizing others to drive, including members of their immediate family under 21, are not covered by insurance agreements contained in leases.

"The Legislature has a responsibility to educate the public and to make certain there is uniformity in lease agreements," Rep. Mann stated. "The small-size print in the usual agreement makes it extremely difficult for the layman to understand."

Two Traffic Proposals Are Filed By Shea

Two important traffic measures, one to prohibit commercial vehicles from Ward St. and another to relocate Turnpike directional signs from Ward St. and Waverley Ave. to Commonwealth Ave. and Centre St., were filed last week with the Board of Aldermen.

The traffic proposals were entered on the Aldermanic docket by Ward 7 Alderman H. James Shea, Jr.

He said: "While Ward St. and Waverley Ave. have for some time now been subject to dangerously heavy traffic volumes, the recent erection of Turnpike directional signs have superimposed an especially dangerous volume on these streets."

"Many parents of Ward School students have expressed their concern to me, and Aldermen Hopkins and Small have joined with me in calling for prompt action on these proposals to restrict commercial vehicles from Ward St. and to relocate the Turnpike directional signs."

Middlesex Hams See AF Films At Waban Library

The Middlesex Amateur Radio Club held their regular meeting at the Waban Public Library on Friday (Feb. 23). Club members were shown two fine Air Force training films.

The Air Force training films were extremely informative. One was an introductory film on transistors. This film described the physical construction of the transistor and also how it performs in an electronic circuit. The film explained the difference between the PNP and NPN transistors. The other film was about diodes. The film on diodes was very successful in explaining the theory and principles behind the use of diodes. Both films were easy to understand and started explaining the use of semiconductor in today's space age circuits at a very elementary level.

Guest speakers are planned for the future, but for the time being the club will continue with the Air Force training films. The films are going to progress from an elementary explanation of semiconductor to higher technical understanding. These films should help many members obtain their FCC advanced class licenses soon. The next film in the series is going to further explore the use of PNP transistors. It will be shown at the next meeting which is to be held on March 8.

The M.A.R.C. meets the second and fourth Fridays of each month at the Waban Public Library at 8:00 P.M. Weekly sessions of the Pi-Net are held Wednesdays at 8:00 P.M. on 28.90 megacycles. Any member or non-member is welcome to participate in our Pi-Net and is cordially invited to come visit us at a meeting.

Mother, Four Children Flee Burning Home

A Newtonville mother and her four children fled to safety Wednesday when fire broke out in a three-story, 13-room house at 87 Madison ave., causing $10,000 damage.

The home is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Nolan. Mrs. Nolan and four of her nine children were at home when the fire broke out in the kitchen.

The blaze was discovered by five-year-old Claire when she entered the kitchen at the rear of the first floor.

Mrs. Nolan tried to enter the kitchen to call firemen but was driven back by flames and smoke. She sent Clair and Carol, twins, out of the house then ran upstairs to arouse her daughter, Mary, 17, and son, John, 21. All escaped without injury.

Flames broke through the kitchen ceiling into the second story but firefighters brought the blaze under control shortly after their arrival. Heavy smoke damaged the rest of the house.

KENNEDY and McCARTHY MEET IN WASHINGTON

A FACE-TO-FACE meeting of Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy was held yesterday afternoon in Washington after Kennedy had announced that he was reassessing the possibility of running against President Johnson for the Democratic nomination for President. McCarthy said the meeting was requested by Kennedy in the office of his brother, Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

McCarthy, whose strong showing as a peace candidate in the New Hampshire primary was believed to have prompted Kennedy's action, said the New York senator told him he was "re-examining his position" but did not say when he would make a decision. "He did not ask me to do anything and I didn't ask him to do anything," McCarthy said. The Minnesota senator repeated he would not withdraw and added, "I plan to go everywhere I am committed."

HOUSE FIGHT ON CIVIL RIGHTS BILL EXPECTED TODAY

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS have decided to try to get the House to approve the Senate's open housing civil rights bill without any changes, and Speaker John W. McCormack said he would start the bill through the legislative process today on its way to a vote that would either pass it or defeat it. There were many misgivings about the intentions of Republicans to resist the Democrats' plans.

Sources close to House GOP Leader Gerald Ford said he would personally vote against the bill on the floor. Ford would prefer that the bill go to a Senate and House Conference Committee to work out a compromise.

SENATE GOP BACKING LBJ TAX INCREASE

SENATE REPUBLICANS, warning that the world gold crisis cannot be checked without a U.S. tax increase, supported an income tax surcharge yesterday — but less than the 10 per cent levy proposed by President Johnson.

The GOP support came during debate on a bill to free $10.5 billion in U.S. bullion to meet a renewed wave of gold purchases in London and Paris. The House-passed bill eliminates requirement that 25 per cent of the U.S. currency be backed by gold, and the Senate defeated 45 to 40 yesterday an amendment to reduce it to 12.5 per cent rather than eliminate it.

INJURED CARY GRANT REQUIRES OXYGEN MASK

ACTOR CARY GRANT who was injured with a 24-year-old German baroness in an auto accident, required an oxygen mask to aid his breathing for a few hours yesterday but was reported in fair condition.

The 65-year-old actor's cut lip was puffed and his bruised nose and chest were aching. The oxygen mask on his million dollar face was almost more than Grant could bear. "It's like a grade B movie," he complained to a friend who visited him in St. John's hospital.

ALABAMA'S GOV. WALLACE IN SERIOUS CONDITION

GOV. LURLEEN WALLACE of Alabama, battling recurring cancer and its complications, was reported in "serious, but not critical," condition yesterday following her second operation in three weeks.

The nation's only woman governor underwent surgery Tuesday at St. Margaret's Hospital to permit drainage of an abdominal abscess which doctors said was brought on by her weakened condition and months of cancer treatment.

HYMAN SAYS MASS. DEMS. UNSWAYED BY N.H. RESULTS

STATE CHAIRMAN Lester S. Hyman said yesterday when Eugene J. McCarthy's showing in the New Hampshire primary gave a "tremendous psychological boost" to his supporters but will not sway pro-Johnson forces in Massachusetts. Hyman said the meaning of the 42 per cent Democratic primary vote for the Minnesota senator was unclear.

But, he said, "certainly the New Hampshire results will change any plans we have here in Massachusetts. We will do everything we can consistent with resources to inform the citizens of the commonwealth how they can write in a name if they so desire at the April 30 primary."

BROOKLINE WOMAN SUES ESTATE OF SLAIN PRODUCER

A MASSACHUSETTS WOMAN yesterday filed an $8,000 damage suit in Connecticut against the estate of Jack Landau, the former producer of the Shakespeare Festival Theatre in Stratford, Conn., who was murdered in a Boston apartment in March, 1967.

Mrs. Bernadine C. Clarke of Brookline filed the suit in Bridgeport Superior Court, seeking $4,000 for damage to the apartment she rented to Landau and additional damages for loss of income. Landau, 42, maintained a legal residence in Newton. He was found stabbed and strangled in the apartment a month after he rented it.

TWO YOUTHS GET LIFE IN WOMAN'S MURDER

TWO YOUTHS CONVICTED of the 1967 murder of Mrs. Pasqualina Natoli, a Framingham storekeeper, were sentenced yesterday to life in prison. Middlesex Superior Court Judge Vincent Brogna also handed down several concurrent sentences on seven other charges against Ronald Vallee, 17, of Sturbridge, and Alfred Therrien, 21, of Framingham.

Vallee and Therrien were convicted of the gunshot death of Mrs. Natoli, 41, during a holdup of the store she and her husband operated on Rte. 9 in Framingham.

SHRIVER MUM ON FRENCH AMBASSADORSHIP

SARGENT SHRIVER, head of the Office of Economic Opportunity, yesterday refused comments on reports he will become ambassador to France. "These reports were issued from Paris and I have no comment," Shriver told a Boston University press conference after he received an honorary degree at a Founders Day convocation.

Shriver leaves Thursday for Europe to receive an award in Spain. He denied the trip has any bearing on reports of a possible ambassadorship for him.

EUROPE GOLD RUSH HITS FEVERISH PACE

JITTERY SPECULATORS feverishly traded U.S. dollars and British pound notes for gold yesterday in what officials termed the heaviest turnover this year. Informed financial sources estimated between 150 and 200 tons of gold were sold on the London Exchange during the day.

The French led the buying spree. The Paris gold market, buzzing with rumor of "something in the wind," reported a record 16 tons of gold changed hands.

REDS ROUT LAOTIANS FROM FORTRESS

COMMUNIST FORCES used bamboo ladders to scale the steep sides of a tabletop plateau in northern Laos and drove government defenders from the key fortress of Thakhe River town of Thakhek in central Laos and Lao Ngam in the south. An estimated 40,000 North Vietnamese troops are reported operating with Communist Pathet Lao forces. In the face of the worsening military situation, however, the Laotian government firmly rejected Thailand's offer of intervention to meet the Communist threat.

Newton Reunited Into Two Districts

The Middlesex County Commissioners this week announced that the city of Newton was reunited into two, two-man representative districts, with Wards 1, 2, 3 and 7 comprising one, and 4, 5, 6 and 8 the other.

The Commissioners said the decisions are final, notwithstanding any court action taken by a legislator.

Ward 6 in Waltham, once aligned with Newton Wards 1, 2 and 3, has been placed back in Waltham.

In Newton's 5th Middlesex District, Reps. Theodore D. Mann and Irving Fishman will lose Ward 7 and pick up Ward 4. Paul F. Malloy a representative in the 4th Middlesex District, will lose Waltham's Ward 6 and pick up Newton's Ward 7. Joseph G. Bradley, the other representative from the 4th Middlesex, is not seeking re-election, but rather, seeking election to Congress.

Bradley's vacancy throws open the field to what will prove to be a gang of hopefuls, and the addition of Newton's Ward 7 will surely swell that list.

County Commissioner Chairman Frederick Connors said a "lot of thought and hard work went into this reapportionment and the commissioners think it's fair."

Connors added that a look at the history of past reapportionments indicates there is a tendency to gerrymander, "but there is nothing like that here."

He said that because of the new law (one man one vote) that the older cities have lost

School Board Queried On Newton Bus Safety

Questions concerning safety on school buses, open enrollment and curriculum changes were brought up by parents during the first open discussion period held at Monday night's meeting of the Newton School Committee.

The 10 minute discussion period, approved by school board members at their last session, will not be a regular part of School Committee meetings.

Chairman Manuel Beckwith asked residents attending the meeting to sign their names, addresses and topics they wished to discuss on a sheet of paper during the meeting, and on this basis he called on people after the regular, open session business of the committee had been attended to.

PTA Council President Bernard Kaplan, the first speaker, presented a resolution passed by the Council last Thursday night and asked for immediate attention to the matter by the School Committee.

The resolution requested that the School Committee investigate promptly and report on school bus safety precautions.

Beckwith said the subject would be discussed at the next meeting of the committee in two weeks.

Kaplan noted that the PTA Council was concerned since five fatalities in Massachusetts and 50 across the country occurred during the past year involving school buses and children.

He said that while none of these accidents had happened in Newton, the time to act was now before tragedies do occur.

The PTA Council president pointed to studies of a similar nature being conducted by the state legislature and congress.

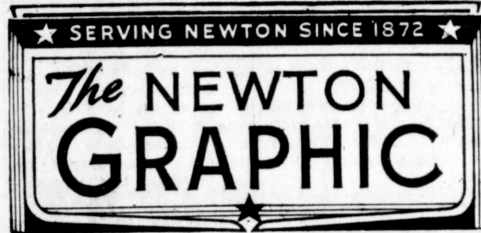

In other matters one mother whose children now attend Countryside School in Newton Highlands asked why no open enrollment policy existed for students not desiring to participate in the continuous learning program at Meadowbrook Junior High School.

Supt. Dr. Charles E. Brown commented that a philosophically open enrollment may be desirable, but that practically it would be a very difficult policy to administer.

With five junior high schools in the city and the possibility that parents in all areas of the city might find various kinds of reasons for wanting their children in one school or another, it would be extremely difficult to make practical decisions, Dr. Brown said.

Another parent, concerned with curriculum revisions, asked whether long range goals were established before changes were made. He referred particularly to the science program which was under discussion Monday night.

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Bobby Kennedy's Decision On Challenging LBJ Awaited

Senator Eugene McCarthy's strong showing in New Hampshire's Presidential Primary is politically important for several reasons which have little to do with McCarthy himself.

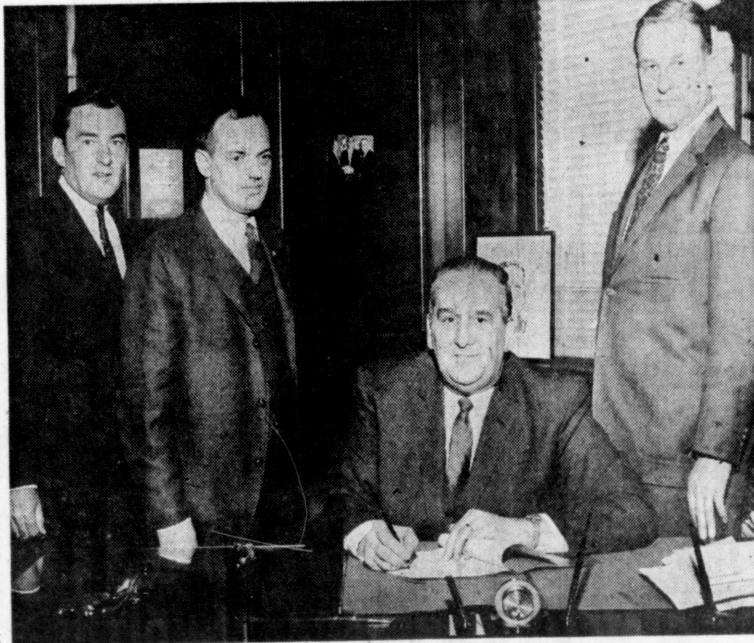

It primarily reflected President Johnson's political weakness since McCarthy in his own right has no great vote-pulling appeal.

It may prompt Senator Robert F. Kennedy to challenge Lyndon Johnson for the right to run as the Democratic candidate for President next autumn.

A slim possibility exists that it might discourage President Johnson from seeking another term.

The Granite State returns exposed an anti-Johnson sentiment which presumably is widespread and left a doubt in the minds of many political analysts whether LBJ can be reelected

Advanced First Aid Course Completed By Police Force

The Newton Police Advanced First Aid refresher course was completed recently and was highlighted by the issuance of certificates by Robert Julien, Executive Director, Newton Chapter American Red Cross to Chief Philip Purcell and Captain William F. Quinn.

Prior to the awarding of certificates Frank B. Holland, national representative of American Red Cross congratulated the class and mentioned the Newton Police Department was the first police unit in the country to demand each member of the department be certified as advanced first aiders over twenty years ago. Since then, it has become a standard police practice.

The accent for the final program was on resuscitation, both mechanical and mouth-to-mouth methods.

First Aid Officer Gilbert J. Champagne mentioned that untold numbers of lives were saved by prompt use of these various methods and that due to increased education and better First Aid methods that non-traffic accidents showed a decrease in 1967.

Captain William F. Quinn, program director, announced that men who do not have an opportunity to maintain proficiency in any First Aid technique may request brush-up instruction from time to time and Officer Champagne has volunteered to offer periodic brush-up sessions for any individual in the department.

Quinn went on to say that resuscitation is the First Aid that can be used anywhere by any member and at any time and constant practice is necessary to successful care.

Mayor, School Board Member Discuss Costs

The Newton Republican City Committee heard Mayor Monte G. Basbas and School Committee member Edwin Hawkridge in a frank discussion of the cost of city government and the impact on the tax rate. Hawkridge was pinch hitting for School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith who was not able to attend.

Stating that he "supported whole heartedly the educational program of Newton," Mayor Basbas explained the impact of the annual increases in the cost of carrying on city functions. He noted that Newton was caught up in the same upswing of costs that were affecting other cities and towns.

"The situation is so serious," Basbas commented, "that we must redouble our efforts to make all possible savings wherever possible so that we can give the Newton taxpayers the maximum benefit for their tax dollars."

Taking up the Capitol Improvement Program, the Mayor felt that "this program must be flexible if we are to meet the community's needs." He advocated constant review of needs and plans to assure this.

In an exchange that followed his talk, Mayor Basbas observed that "the best solution to the rising cost of city government — one that would lift the burden off of real estate and the homeowner — is that one in which Federal and State funds would be provided with no strings attached." He felt that the "no strings attached" proviso was advisable if we are to safeguard local options.

School Committee member Edwin Hawkridge, in discussing the current school budget, held out little promise for the taxpayer. "Despite great diligence in paring budget figures," he stated "we now have the biggest percentage increase ever." He felt that the pressures responsible for the increases would continue to exert their influence on costs of education in Newton.

He agreed with Mayor Basbas in the need for "developing better sources of taxes for educational purposes."

In the business meeting that preceded the program, Alderman Louis I. Egelson, Jr., Vice-Chairman, who presided in the absence of Chairman William A. Lincoln, announced the issuance of a Charter by the Massachusetts Republican State Committee to the newly formed Newton Hilo-American Republican Club. The Club, he informed the group, was already functioning with Francis (Tony) Tambascio as its head.

An address memorializing the late Wilfred Chagnon, a former member and Officer of the City Committee, was delivered by Alderman Robert

In other business taken up by the Committee, Ward Chairman reported on the completion of Nomination papers for membership on the various Committees. Reports were received from Mrs. Michael G. C. Bucuvalas on City-wide registration programs and from newly appointed Finance Chairman William B. Dockser.

Nutrition is like a chain in which all of the essential items are the separate links. If the chain is weak or is broken at any point the whole chain fails. If there are 40 items that are essential in the diet, and one of these is missing, nutrition fails just as truly as it would if half the links were missing. The absolute lack of any item (or of several items) results in ill health and eventually death. It is not necessary that every item be furnished in required amounts at every meal or every day, because our bodies always carry some reserves. But as soon as the reserves are lost they must be replenished.

It is absolutely essential to us to have the finest, tastiest food on our menu. You can expect every meal we serve to be the finest at THE HIGHLANDS RESTAURANT, 1114 Beacon Street, Newton, 332-4400. Choose from a wide variety of entrees including choice beef, seafood and poultry.

A CONSTRUCTIVE SUGGESTION FOR FRUSTRATED REPUBLICANS

Are you a Hawk or a Dove? Do you think the U.S. should stay in Viet Nam until the job's done? Or do you think we should pull out as quickly as we can with grace and honor? How would you like to make your own choice really count?

Ordinarily the foreign policy of the country is made up by a very few people and our own personal preferences are inconsequential. But now, be we Republicans, Democrats, or Independents, we have a chance — a duty — to speak up.

And we owe this opportunity to Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota. In choosing to run... he is giving every voter... a chance to choose between staying in Viet Nam or pulling out... This primary is equally important to the supporters of Johnson as it is to his critics.

If a large vote turns out for McCarthy it could have explosive effects on... Washington's Viet Nam policy. If a very strong (write-in) vote is registered for Johnson... it will show that, despite protest marches, a vast majority of the public backs the President's overseas policy.

Nixon and most other Republican leaders endorse our military stand in varying degrees, and a strong Republican vote for any one will show a dissatisfaction with Johnson's handling of the war, but an approval of the overall Viet Nam involvement.

If McCarthy did not run in the primaries we would not have such a clear cut issue on which to vote; and I think it is high time that the average citizen had his chance to be heard at the ballot box on this matter of life and death.

In case you are not clear about primaries, this is when, as a Republican or a Democrat, you select the man you prefer your state party delegates to nominate at the National Convention in August.

If you are a Republican and want to vote for Eugene McCarthy or President Johnson... just visit your city or town hall at least thirty days before Primary Day (March 30 deadline) and ask that the party designation be taken off your name. As an Independent you can vote in either primary you wish, and then after voting you can have the party designation taken off your name again by just visiting your town or city clerk and requesting it...

But you should vote... April 30... and make it clear whether you support the war or want out. You may not have such a chance in November.

The persons signing below have been affiliated with the Republican Party. While they do not advocate crossing party lines as a general principle, they believe the special circumstances prevailing at present justify the action suggested above.

Many citizens and some elected officials appeared before the commissioners urging Ward 4 be put back into Newton. Some, however, would have preferred a setup comprising Wards 1, 2, 3 and 4; and Wards 5, 6, 7 and 8, a separation that would have given the city a north-south split-up.

The commissioners said that in this suburban area, the changes are definitely complete and final.

The same subject was discussed by a mother who expressed the opinion that students suffer from experiments or changes which don't prove to be successful. She pointed to the reported high number of failures in Curriculum II courses before recent changes were made.

Vincent J. Siliuzzio, chairman of the Science Department at Newton South High School, responded that changes were worked out gradually and only in response to specific needs or problems.

He said they were made in a responsible, not radical fashion. He pointed to revisions in the school's biology course which have been worked on for the past three years.

William D. Geer, principal of Newton South High, said that changing college demands as well as competition for college entrance often creates confusion about just what the highest possible level of course work or achievement should be.

Students are sometimes caught in the squeeze, he said, in an effort to take the most difficult courses, sometimes

Chides Herald

Editor of the Graphic:
As one who has long criticized the CL program and who had agreed to speak to Miss Alice Burke of the Sunday Herald Traveler, I was quite unprepared for what I read in her recent article about Meadowbrook. I consider her story to be largely a presentation of innuendoes and, for my own part, material assembled out of context and misquoted or used improperly in combination with someone else's statement. Any conviction of mine expressed to her lost its meaning in the total lack of objectivity of her article. There is a difference between articulating a reasonable principle, backed by legitimate example, and what was presented by Miss Burke in her story.

Political Highlights

next November — a doubt which would be much stronger if the Republicans had an outstanding candidate to carry their party banner into the Presidential campaign.

Political experts are in virtual agreement that Senator McCarthy has no chance whatever of wresting the nomination away from President Johnson. Bobby Kennedy would be a much more formidable adversary and is the candidate to whom the Democratic party might turn if Mr. Johnson were to decide not to run again.

The New York Senator is now reappraising the situation before reaching a decision as to whether he will enter the Presidential lists this year.

He will undoubtedly be seeking the answers to two questions before he settles on his course of political action.

One is whether it would be possible for him to defeat an incumbent President of his own party at a national convention. The other is whether he would have any real chance of achieving election if he did gain the nomination.

Most political pundits probably would answer "no" to both questions.

On the basis of past experience a President holding office has the political power to beat back any challenge and win renomination. That is true even if he is considered to be facing probable defeat.

Harry Truman appeared to be in a weaker position in 1948 than Lyndon Johnson is today. But Truman still controlled the '48 Democratic national convention in Philadelphia.

Few Democratic politicians at that conclave had any real expectation that Truman could win reelection. But, except for the Dixiecrats who walked out of the convention hall, they stood by him.

Truman later was to score an upset victory because the voters never did warm up to Thomas Dewey who seemed like a man behind a mask in that campaign.

History could repeat itself.

There are some definite inconsistencies in the New Hampshire returns. The vote for McCarthy is generally being interpreted as an anti-war vote.

It seems more likely to this observer that it was a vote of dissatisfaction with the credibility gap and other phases of the Johnson administration.

Nixon polled approximately 80 per cent of the Republican vote, and his views on the Vietnamese war actually are not basically much different from those of President Johnson. Even though he has promised to end the war in Vietnam he certainly cannot be listed as a peace candidate.

Whether the New Hampshire Primary will have any long-range impact on the Presidential campaign remains to be determined. However, it has added a lot of interest to it at an early stage.

Only Weak GOP Candidate May Save LBJ From Defeat

Things could look worse for President Johnson and the Democrats.

And matters would look a lot bleaker and gloomier for them if the Republicans had a strong candidate to match against Mr. Johnson next November.

But with the likelihood that the GOP Presidential standard-bearer will be either Richard Nixon or Nelson Rockefeller, Mr. Johnson probably can go on making political blunders wholesale and still have a chance of winning reelection.

Another reason the future doesn't look darker for LBJ is that the Republicans generally do a better job of losing elections than do the Democrats.

That, plus the fact that there are more Democrats than Republicans in the United States, could save President Johnson from defeat next November.

In the meantime, Mr. Johnson appears to be doing just about everything he can to turn the White House over to the GOP.

Mounting public opposition to the war in Vietnam,

Answers Freedman

Editor, Newton Graphic:

Open letter to Mr. Haskell C. Freedman

Mr. Haskell C. Freedman
15 Ashmont road
Newton, Mass.

Dear Mr. Freedman:

Ever since I learned that my son could neither read nor write I have been an active opponent of the Newton system of education, its superintendent, where the buck stops, and the Newton School Committee which has defended the school department steadfastly.

I was not present at the erection of the Tower of Babel, but could it have been built from the top down?

My understanding of the theories of education fostered by Dr. Brown are supposed to create, in the subject child, a desire to learn. The fallacy is that by the time the desire is recognized, the ability to learn has been destroyed. Is this the cart before the horse?

My concept of "basic education" is the building of the base from which all education must stem. This is the ability to read and write, but more important, the ability to read and write correctly. No one, I repeat, no one can read nor write back ground. Background does not start with Chaucer but with Webster.

I do not advocate any downgrading of Newton School programs, but I do espouse the cause of adequate preparation, which can only result in the fulfillment of the aspirations of all for our children. Adequate preparation in Newton should start with the first day of school and not end until the receipt of the meaningful high school diploma.

I am sending you a letter from Mr. William E. Webster, Principal of Weeks Junior High School which contains the essence of the school department policy in the following paragraph:

In answer to your question, (Ed. — Is grammar taught?) the teaching of grammar is a part of the curriculum at every grade level. There are grammar books available to all teachers and pupils.

Generally speaking, however, grammar books are not assigned to students but used during the teaching of grammar. The bulk of research proves that the teaching of grammar has little or no influence on a youngster's writing ability. Therefore, what we would consider the teaching of grammar is handled informally as a part of our composition and literature programs.

I believe this statement typifies the philosophy of education as it is administered today. Let those who wish have and the rest be damned.

For every Newton citizen who indicates support of Newton's dynamic educational program I will present two who are disillusioned. May I remind you that Newton citizens voiced their opinion when your endorsed candidate was recently defeated at the polls.

May I say that in addition to happiness, money will not buy education. Your use of the oft repeated expression "quality education" does not make it so. Drawing on your own analogy between the United States with its unlimited funds and Newton with its unlimited funds, you appear to be advocating a "sky's the limit" policy and the devil take the recalcitrant.

When the disenchanting rise to be counted, I wish to be first.

Harold I. Singer of course, is one of the big factors which is costing the President voter support.

Another one is the arrogance and the lack of humility in the Johnson administration.

This is reflected in many ways. Unswerving pledges of loyalty to President Johnson are being demanded from party members by old-line Democratic leaders close to the President, and in many instances they are not forthcoming.

A split with Senators Robert and Edward Kennedy is hurting LBJ.

But the popularity of the Kennedy brothers, especially that of Bobby, has dropped to such a degree that the political damage to President Johnson has been largely nullified.

Between Lyndon Johnson and Ted Kennedy they have made a shambles of the Democratic party in Massachusetts.

President Johnson's decision against allowing his name to go on the ballot in the Bay State Presidential Primary was a blunder of monumental proportions.

The explanation from Washington that Mr. Johnson didn't care enough about the Massachusetts convention votes to spend the time and money seeking them made bad matters worse and pointed up the arrogance which is rubbing many people the wrong way.

A new feud erupted between Edward J. McCormack and Ted Kennedy during the pulling and hauling over the makeup of the Bay State's delegate slate to the Democratic national convention.

McCormack encouraged some Democratic leaders to resign from the slate. Ted Kennedy impudently then stayed on the ticket. McCormack, in the opinion of some political observers, would have served the interests of President Johnson by remaining a delegate and persuading other Johnson backers to do so.

This was indicative of the chaos and confusion within the Democratic party in the State, and the Kennedy-McCormack beneath-the-surface row was only one phase of the Democratic disarray.

President Johnson, Senator Robert Kennedy and Senator Ted Kennedy are supposed to be men of great political ability and talent.

Nothing which has happened recently, however, would indicate that to be the case for any one of the three.

Bobby Kennedy acts like a man who is edging toward an open fight with President Johnson for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

That probably will not prove to be the case since Bobby undoubtedly realizes the Democratic party would be inviting defeat and disaster if it were to reject Lyndon Johnson and repudiate his administration.

Ironically, Bobby wants to be elected President in 1972. His prospects of achieving that hope will wane if President Johnson is defeated this year.

Both Bobby and Ted Kennedy have criticized the conduct of the war in Vietnam, and in recent weeks a vast number of people have swung over to their way of thinking.

But what is their solution for the mess in Vietnam? Ted Kennedy appears to be on sound ground in charging widespread corruption of public officials in Vietnam. That practically seems to be a way of life in Vietnam.

An increasing number of persons believe Bobby is right in what he says.

So how does Bobby Kennedy propose that we end the fighting in Vietnam and get out of there?

If any political analyst were to attempt to pick the next President of the United States, he unquestionably would name either Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon or Nelson Rockefeller.

He might conceivably consider Senator Eugene McCarthy, but if McCarthy were nominated, the election of a Republican President would be almost inevitable.

Nixon appears to be a better campaigner than he was in 1960 or 1962. He has developed a sense of humor, and he projects better than he did in the past.

But as this writer listened to Nixon when he appeared recently on William Buckley's television program, the realization of Nixon's conservatism struck suddenly with great impact.

As Nixon agreed with much which was said by arch-conservative Buckley, he sounded very much like a man who would turn back the clock.

This is what some of those supporting Nixon desire. It's doubtful, however, that a majority of the American people want Nixon's brand of politics even though he himself claims he can end the war in Vietnam.

Surveys indicate that Nixon is only a handful of delegate votes away from clinching the Republican Presidential nomination.

How such a report can be made by a national news magazine isn't entirely clear since some of the delegates haven't yet even been elected.

Nixon, however, does stand close to victory within his own party.

His big potential challenger is New York's Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

Four years ago the women in the Republican party turned on Rocky and knocked him out of the race for the GOP Presidential nomination because of his divorce.

Many political pundits believe that the ladies who vented their wrath on Rockefeller back in the late winter and early spring of 1964 have since forgiven and forgotten.

That may prove to be the case that he may be there for case. It's also quite possible months.

What he is likely to do is that a substantial number of them may be waiting for the harden opposition among sight of Rocky's name on the members of Congress who al- ballot to demonstrate that they ready are against him.

Washington officials declare that some turmoil in their city in inevitable from the King march, and they are apprehensive that some riots may erupt.

A new civil rights law should be going through Congress about that time. But it is not likely to mollify King and his marchers.

White House Observers Worry About President Some Washington observers express concern at the pace at which President Johnson has been working.

They point out that the President seems visibly more tired. This, of course, is recognized by virtually anyone who has watched LBJ on television.

But Mr. Johnson has not cut down his work day and still puts in from 15 to 18 hours a day on his arduous, taxing job.

That is not a realistic work schedule for a man who has suffered a massive heart attack. President Johnson obviously King says he will remain in Washington until he gets strain which is taking a heavy toll.

A New Relationship

A milestone in the relationship between landlord and tenant was reached last week at an extraordinary meeting at the Huntington ave. YMCA in Boston. The tenants were occupants of Boston Public Housing Authority projects. The landlord was BHA Administrator Ellis Ash and aides.

Present were 104 elected tenants representing 50,000 persons living in the Hub's 15,000 housing units, members of the BHA, project managers and representatives from the departments of education, health, welfare, police, parks and community service.

The tenant-representatives were elected at meetings held recently in the projects. They set up various committees and elected chairmen and co-chairmen.

The gripes of the tenants were many and varied but were generally graded into four specific areas — management, rental policies, community services and physical upgrading.

Ash said the major complaint is the lack of communication, pointing out it was one reason for the meeting. "This has never been done anywhere before since public housing started," Ash said. It is only the beginning and it is never going to stop.

The BHA is undertaking a modernization program and next month will seek $2.5 million in federal grants. Total funds at stake for Boston over the next five years is $20 million. In order to become eligible for the federal grants, the BHA must prove it has a modernization program, that it has sat down with tenants and discussed mutual problems and is willing to do something about changes needed in physical plants.

Ash, in a memorandum to the BHA staff, made it plain he intends that the BHA be eligible. He told them, in part: "If you don't agree with the goals and principles (of the modernization program), then you don't belong on this team. Should you be unwilling or incapable of full commitment to the socially-oriented goals and principle, I suggest that you look elsewhere for employment. Otherwise, I can only conclude that your existence here will be happy and unrewarding."

In the light of the recent report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, the action of Ash and the BHA may go a long way toward alleviating some of the tension, frustration and anger generated when communication is lacking.

The new tenant-landlord relationship will be watched closely, hopefully and prayerfully.

Real Estate Activity Up

Increased real estate activity in the Newtons reflect a general trend in the metropolitan area this year over the same period last year as reported by Trend.

January, 1968, as indicated by the number of deeds recorded, showed an increase of 21 percent over last year with construction of new dwelling units up 46 percent. 68 percent of these new units were in apartment buildings or two-family houses and 32 percent were single homes.

The Newton area's 169 deeds in January were 13 percent more than a year ago. The 46 new dwellings in the general area included 4 apartment houses with 44 units in Newton.

Dartmouth School Official Answers Article In Herald

Editor of The Graphic:

I read with interest the Boston Sunday Herald article of Sunday, March 3, by Alice Burke or the "Newton Schools: The Revolt of the Parents."

She very carefully and cleverly wove the quotations of several anxious mothers into a glaring expose of Meadowbrook Junior High School and the "myth of Newton's superiority in public education." According to her reports, scores of parents are so up in arms that private schools are unable to meet the demands of student applicants fleeing from the irresponsible experimentalism of Meadowbrook.

I seriously question the validity of the entire article. I do not know Miss Burke personally, but from the trend of her article it is obvious that she is reflecting a total lack of objectivity and one-sidedly relating a gossip session between several highly emotional, disgruntled, and disappointed parents. I say disappointed parents because that is just what they are — disappointed in themselves and in their children. They are caught up in a competitive struggle, a struggle for personal, political, and material identity. In Meadowbrook, they have a springboard from which to vent their frustrations. Now suddenly, it is not mother or father's responsibility for Jimmy's lack of success in school; it is entirely Meadowbrook's. The big difference lies in the fact that the innovative school is easier to attack and blame, it is more exposed and susceptible to criticism. The embittered vocal minority of parents becomes more embittered and more vocal. Their children, they claim, would be successful in the traditional school which teaches the "three R's" and gives letter grades. This is questionable. However, the excuse for themselves and their children is now readily available and readily used.

Miss Burke was so duped by a group of housewives that it makes you wonder who approved such an article for publication. Behind the headlines — perspective is supposed to be a critical analysis of a basic issue, where is the counter-argument? Where is the intelligent probing into whether the 60-student drop in enrollment is directly a result of transfers to private schools or the fact that growth in the Meadowbrook district has subsided and enrollment is decreasing anyway? Where are the teachers who left Meadowbrook last year? Did all leave because they were dissatisfied with Continuous Learning? Isn't turnover in Newton a surrounding towns high anyway (for reasons which are quite obvious)? What about the majorities — both parents, students, and teachers? Why aren't they reported? It is not difficult to find the disturbed and the irrational — they are usually the loudest. No one objects to an expression from the minority; however, when that expression is based on questionable statements by five or six ladies, a selected photograph, distortion of statistics, and the complete elimination of the opposing points of view, you wonder about the workings of the free press. You wonder particularly about a newspaper's responsibility to the other 900 students and parents of Meadowbrook. Shouldn't an investigation of a public issue such as Meadowbrook be done quite comprehensively and objectively, free from the "scandal sheet" approach of some movie magazines?

I hope equal space is given for a rebuttal to Miss Burke's article by other people close to the Meadowbrook situation. If the Herald Traveler is truly concerned with the direction of education, it should take a closer look at Meadowbrook — it has a responsibility to do so. Involved in this issue is the basic question of whether twelve, thirteen, and fourteen-year-olds should be given a real and meaningful role in their own lives — probably a role that many parents are reluctant to give their children at this age (although they must). Meadowbrook feels that many of its students can handle decision-making on real issues and that this is what true learning is all about. It also realizes that close, sensitive, and intelligent guidance is necessary because junior high youngsters are at vastly different levels of readiness and need unstructuredness is just as bad as the teacher-dominated rigidity of the traditional classroom. To deny the creation of a framework with a strong and modern curriculum in which the student can assume and develop responsibilities for his own education is not logical. In our changing world, this is exactly the type of behavior we have a responsibility to teach our young, not deny. Meadowbrook is committed to this philosophy. It has made several mistakes in implementing its philosophy, mistakes it readily admits. The result, however, is and will be far better than other immobile school organizations which daily make (and will continue to make) more serious mistakes in the way it "educates" its youth.

As a past tutor, I proved such an article for publication. Behind the headlines — perspective is supposed to be a critical analysis of a basic issue, where is the counter-argument? Where is the intelligent probing into whether the 60-student drop in enrollment is directly a result of transfers to private schools or the fact that growth in the Meadowbrook district has subsided and enrollment is decreasing anyway? Where are the teachers who left Meadowbrook last year? Did all leave because they were dissatisfied with Continuous Learning? Isn't turnover in Newton a surrounding towns high anyway (for reasons which are quite obvious)? What about the majorities — both parents, students, and teachers? Why aren't they reported? You wonder particularly about a newspaper's responsibility to the other 900 students and parents of Meadowbrook. Shouldn't an investigation of a public issue such as Meadowbrook be done quite comprehensively and objectively, free from the "scandal sheet" approach of some movie magazines?

Five local men will be among more than 100 who will attend Wentworth Institute Alumni Association's kick-off dinner in their appeal for support for the Institute's Curriculum Center to be held tomorrow in Beatty Hall on the campus at 6:30 p.m.

Class agents Nunzio Donato, 109 Albert road, Newton; Carl M. Stiles, 43 Irving street, Newton Centre; Arthur C. Frechette, 21 Milton avenue, West Newton; Joseph A. Papa, 154 Auburndale avenue, West Newton; and Joseph G. Salah, 26 Meadowbrook road, Chestnut Hill will attend.

The Curriculum Center was founded by a $500,000 grant from the Ford Foundation, who will match all funds raised in the campaign. It was established to serve all technical institute education in the country in developing new courses, curriculum and teaching aids.

Cake Decorating Course Begins At Community Ctr.

A six week course in cake decorating will be conducted at the Newton Community Center, 429 Cherry street, West Newton, beginning on Wednesday (March 20) at 7:30 p.m. according to announcement by Anthony J. Bibbo, Director.

Mrs. Ruth Lucas, of Newtonville, formerly with Schrafts of Boston, will direct the course. Widely known for her creative "conversation type" cakes, she has had many years experience specializing in birthday, wedding and Bar Mitzvah cakes.

She will continue, as in previous classes, the practice of giving the decorated demonstration cake to one of the lucky individuals in the class for the first session. Mrs. Lucas contends that a homemaker with little or no experience can easily learn decoration, starting with the simple steps and graduating to border work with life-like flowers, lattice work, basket weaving, scenic and special cake arrangements.

Emma Lazarus Chapter Has 10th Birthday Party

A capacity group of well-wishers thronged the Newton Highlands Women's Club recently in honor of the 10th anniversary of the Newton-based Emma Lazarus Chapter, Women's Division, American Jewish Congress.

Highlight of the event was a talk by National Women's Division President Mrs. Charles Snitow of Scarsdale, New York, on "The Status of Women."

Introduced by Emma Lazarus Chapter President Mrs. Leonard Kogos, Newton, Mrs. Snitow cited the multiplicity of women's roles in present and bygone cultures; their social limitations; the inequities they have encountered and their potential once sociological barriers are removed.

"Let us remember," Mrs. Snitow told men and women of the New England Region, American Jewish Congress, "that studies have shown the only way in which the sexes differ is biologically."

Mrs. Snitow had previously been feted at a sherry hour at which A. J. Congress luminaries had gathered for the evening.

Among them: Miss Esther Kolatch, New York City, the organization's National Women's Division Executive Director; Mrs. Robert Berns, Newton, and Mrs. Marcy Channin, New York, National Vice Presidents; Mrs. Harold Silverstein, Suburban Region President, Newton; Laurence S. Locke of Weston, New England Region President; Daniel D. Levenson, Newton, Chairman, New England Region Governing Council; George Samansky, Executive Director of the Boston offices, A.J. Congress; leaders of the Metropolitan Region, Women's Division; Mrs. Gregor Burstein, President, Suburban Region's Louise Waterman Wise Chapter, Newton; many past presidents of the 10-year-old Chapter, including Mrs. Ralph Fishman, first President and founding member.

Surprise news of the evening was announcement of a summer music theatre gift trip for recently-retired Boston Executive Director M. Jacob Joslow, West Newton, and his wife.

Evening refreshments under the guidance of Mrs. Max Sorota and Mrs. Harold Lewis, West Newton, concluded the festivities.

Fashion Show On Monday, March 25

Infantidings

Of interest here is the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Barry M. Bograd of Saxtonville, formerly of Newton Highlands, of the recent birth of their first child, a son, Jeffrey Neal, at the Richardson House in Boston.

Sharing grandparent honors are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wollock and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bograd, all of Newton Highlands. Great-grandmothers are Mrs. John Bograd of Newton Centre and Mrs. Norman Serer of Mattapan.

Voice of Women Support Resisters At Dinner Sat.

160 guests attended a supper held at the Eliot Street Church in Newton on Saturday (March 2) under the sponsorship of Voice of Women, New England — a non-sectarian, non-partisan group whose goals are "a world without war."

The 25 member committee in charge donated home-cooked food and designated the entire proceeds of the affair to be used to give financial help to draft resisters, pay legal fees and help them and their families through jobless periods resulting from their stand on the war.

Voice of Women does not advocate, recommend or encourage civil disobedience because they believe this to be a very serious act of individual conscience, but do support those persons such as draft-resisters who, in their own conscience, cannot take part in the Vietnam war.

Key speakers for the evening were eight resisters who represent two main resistance groups. They told of their experiences as draft resisters. Rev. Harold Fray, minister of the Eliot Street Church and chairman of Concerned Clergy and Laymen for Peace in Vietnam, opened the program.

Among the guests was Howard Zinn, Professor of Government at Boston University, and Irene Johnson, who was jailed following the march on the Pentagon in October.

A question and answer period was followed by folk-guitar and singing by Alice Aranow, Dina Decker, Paula Belsey and Sylvia Mars.

Chairmen of Voice of Women, New England, are Kay Stein, Rohna Shoul and Harriet Avery, all of Newton.

"SWIMMING POOL IN A WOODLAND SETTING" designed by Jay Berkson of the Oak Hill Nurseries in Westwood, will be on view at the New England Spring Garden and Flower Show, March 16-24 at Suffolk Downs.

Oak Hill Nurseries To Have Display At The Flower Show

Jay Berkson, owner of the Oak Hill Nurseries in Westwood and one of the area's outstanding landscape designers, has revealed his plans to enter the 97th New England Spring Garden and Flower Show to be held March 16-24, 1967 at Suffolk Downs. This will mark Mr. Berkson's fourth consecutive Flower Show entry.

In keeping with his past policy of presenting Flower Show

visitors with "a completely different and original display," Berkson this year will create a "Swimming Pool in a Woodland Setting."

"With more and more suburban homes adding swimming pools, I felt that there was a real need to show the home owner that his pool need not necessarily destroy the informal, woody feeling of his property," Berkson said recently.

"Instead of wide concrete or redwood aprons and adjacent brick or tile patios, we at Oak Hill have brought the woods right down to the pool's edge. After all, it is quite a natural horticultural circumstance to find a natural pool in the woods so why not make the residential swimming pool an attractive addition to the residential property rather than an ugly eyesore?"

Slater also presented Stone with a President's Trophy Citation as the company's runner-up district manager. It marked the second time that Stone had been honored by the John Hancock as its runner-up district manager.

Nearly 300 district agency sales leaders joined home office officials of the John Hancock at the Americana Hotel for the four-day business meeting, at Bal Harbour, Florida.

Headlights And Highlights From Newton High School

By KATE SOLOMON

Newton High is a liberal institution. Its two factions: Students and teachers are planning to combine their diverse abilities in a Student-Faculty Talent Show. The two groups will perform both separately and in skits together.

The purpose of the Student-Faculty Talent Show, according to Joanne Glickman, the vice president of the Student Council, is twofold. First of all, the Council wants to involve a large number of N.H.S. in an all-school function. Second, the Council desires to show students that "Teachers are people, too, and are a lot of fun to work with."

The theme of the Talent Show is Vaudeville, and the program will probably consist of songs, dances and skits. It is estimated that it will take from 2 to 2½ hours.

The Council is planning two full weeks of auditions for the Talent Show, starting Mar. 20. Originally, the show was scheduled for Friday night, April 5, but has been rescheduled for Saturday night, May 4.

Refreshments will be served after the show. The cost of the night will be 99 cents per person.

Joanne Glickman is student director of the Talent Show. Bruce Baltimore, the Council president, and Mr. Richard Howland, the school assistant principal, have tentatively been named as co-emcees.

Massachusetts Government

How would you like high school students to govern Massachusetts entirely on their own? In the near future, the State is sponsoring a Student Government Day where high school presidents become senators, members of the house of representatives and administrators, and one student even assumes the role of governor.

The positions are chosen by means of a lottery. The names of high school presidents all over the state are placed in a big hat. Governor Volpe then takes one name out at a time and assigns it to a position. Bruce Baltimore, the N.H.S. Student Council president, is Commissioner of Employment Security.

In the morning of the Student Government Day there is a combined Congress which all the students attend. The student governor, this year a girl, begins the session by delivering a speech. Then the Congress is open to discussion. The morning session will be televised on Channel 2.

The bills before the student government legislation pertain to student concerns. For example, last year the Congress debated a bill to lower the voting age to 18. The "real" legislators listen earnestly to all the debates.

THOUGHTPRINTS

The Newton High literary publication, "Thoughtprints," went on sale Monday, March 4. The 19-page publication contains poetry, art work, two short essays, one photograph, and a teacher section.

Warren Feldberg, the assistant editor of the publication commented that "The poems in the magazine are really fine; better in fact than those in past issues." "However," he continued, "we unfortunately had a tremendous shortage of short stories."

According to Warren, "The Thoughtprints" staff was deluged with possible material and they spent three to four weeks choosing which copy would be printed in the magazine. The initial step of collecting and reading the material took approximately two months. The magazine spent two weeks at the printer.

Because of the large success of the last issue of "Thoughtprints," the editors decided to order 800 copies instead of the usual 500. This year there will be three issues of the magazine instead of two. The third issue will come out shortly before school closes.

In order to include a teacher section in the magazine, the editors sent a form letter to every faculty member in the school, asking for illustrations of their work. The teachers were given complete latitude and could pass in whatever writing they pleased.

Warren said that the editors were very frustrated and disappointed at the teacher response. "We even went around and talked to some of the teachers in person," he said. "But we received answers like, 'I don't have time,' 'I don't write,' 'After correcting papers, I am all written out.'"

Mr. David Hall, a Newton High history teacher, Mr. William Clark, head of the guidance department and Mr. George Bower, an English teacher and the "Thoughtprints" advisor, all submitted poems. Mr. Livingston, a history teacher, submitted a short story-essay about the problems of students at Newton High and the possible solutions.

The other writers for the magazine are John Furbush, Ellen Zimbel, Henry Beeuwkes, Charles Raffel, Jeff Crosby, "Maggie," and Warren Feldberg. One student submitted an anonymous poem.

The art work was drawn by Jay Gentile, Janet Medalia, March Menitove, and David Fleishman. Bob Smith took the photograph, which is a picture of a small boy in an army jacket lying on the ground, an American flag on the grass beside him. Mike Ware was in charge of publicity for the magazine and set up posters around the school.

The "Thoughtprints" editors include Marjorie Goldsmith, Warren Feldberg, Jeff Crosby, John Furbush, William Tomb, Janet Medalia, and Lise Rubin.

Ellen Morrice, Ann Nowak, Debbie Medalia, Janet Medalia, Jo-Anne Turner, Dale Partoll, Paula Rubin, Cindy Saltzman, Debbie Zamcheck, and Henry Beeuwkes are the staff members.

Mr. Bower and Mrs. Arovas are the advisors to the magazine.

Murray Road Discussion The Newton High Debating Society sponsored a Murray Road discussion on Thursday, March 7. The purpose of the discussion was for Murray Roaders to answer the questions Newton High students had about the school.

The officers of the club felt, "there is a great deal of antagonism generating around between the two schools." "Better communication," they continued, "may be very beneficial."

There were 10 Murray road students and 15 or 20 N.H.S.ers present at the meeting. Some of the questions asked were 1) Exactly why does the antagonism persist? 2) Is the 16-year-old responsible enough to wisely use the complete freedom given him at Murray road? 3) Do some students use their freedom to get out of doing work? and 4) Is the purpose of Murray Road to develop an educational system for the entire country?

Career Assemblies Newton High students have numerous opportunities to explore or at least learn about several different careers during three career assemblies taking place this month.

An assembly on the Peace Corps and dista was held on Tuesday, March 12. At the assembly, volunteers who have returned from the programs spoke to students about their experiences and the opportunities offered them.

Tuesday, March 19, an assembly on social work will be

BADMINTON EXERCISE—Janet Corbett is poised to whack the shuttlecock during a game of badminton at Newton South high school last week, part of a demonstration staged by the Physical Education Department for parents and students. Janet is also a member of the girls' varsity basketball team, notching high-scoring honors with 104 points, a 13.0 average. Miss Barbara Gilmore, head of the girls' phys-ed department, is shown in background (over Janet's hand) watching the action. (Roger Belson photo)

Girls And Boys Demonstrate Ability In Gymnastics Exhibit

A co-ed physical education demonstration was presented at Newton South high school last Thursday for interested parents and students.

The spectators and participants were welcomed to the demonstration by William D. Geer, Jr., principal of the school. George Winkler, faculty manager for the department, and Barbara Gilmore, head of the girls' phys-ed department, explained the program of the evening as it progressed.

Badminton was demonstrated first, with Lenor Hersey, a gym teacher, describing the movements. An easy underhand volley type of game was expected, but the girls surprised all with their overhead slamming of the shuttlecock.

A student teacher from Springfield College, Robert Chrusz, took the floor next, with a group of boys demonstrating different weight lifting exercises. Mr. Chrusz explained that weight lifting was for the good athlete who wanted to keep in shape during off season as well as for the boy who couldn't pass his physical fitness test.

Girls fencing was next on the agenda with Marie Strojny, phys-ed teacher, supervising. While the participants donned masks and protective vests, she explained scoring and moves. A bout was held with girls showing much grace and skill.

George Winkler conducted the wrestling demonstration with varsity wrestlers. After the moves were shown, Lou DeFazio, captain of the team, wrestled Ned McDonald for 30 seconds so the spectators could see what a real match was like.

Barbara Gilmore took charge of the girls gymnastics. First free exercise was demonstrated. Free exercise (as it is called), is a dance and exercise routine made up by the girl done on the floor to music. "She must show grace not strength because that wouldn't be lady like," is how Miss Gilmore described the objective. Debbie Wolfson, a junior, gave an excellent demonstration. The balance beam, a four inch wide beam of wood, about four feet off the floor was used next. A girl's balance is tested in her ability to walk the length of the beam while performing various tricks. Finishing off the girls gymnastics was a demonstration on the uneven parallel bars. The girls swung from one bar to the other doing hip circles and spread eagles. It was the most spectacular of all the demonstrations because the movement was fast and sweeping.

The boys' gymnastics was the last part of the demonstration with Warren Bechtold, boys' gym teacher, explaining the moves. Stunts were performed on the side horse, the parallel bars and the horizontal bar. A favorite move on the latter was the airplane spin in which the person straddles the bar and spins around it like a propeller. Different types of climbing were then shown on the ropes. The final event of the evening were the still rings, an apparatus that requires and tests great strength. Harry Yaghmourian performed an "iron cross." To do this stunt one must lower himself into a "T" formation with his arms parallel to the floor.

Girl participants were as follows: Ellen Anderson (GAA president), Janet Corbett, Janet Green, Janet Mason, Marsha Rosen, Vicki Aghababian, Debbie Herman, Lori Shanon, Debbie Wolfson, Kathy Altman, Trudy Canelos, Chris Aries, Denise Wiest, Barbara Levison, Sue Miranda, and Barbara Feinstein.

Boy participants were: Robert Freeman, Barry Kessler, Harry Yaghmourian, Gerald Lewis, Kirk Pantos, George Tsumis, Gary Frechette, John Hall, Stephen Hall, Larry Hymen, Benjamin Maleson, Chris Schuff, Peter Fraenkel, Tom Inman, Lee Unterman, William Goldberg, Alan Miller, Michael Tighe, Jon Becker, Din DiCarlo, Ed Geraci, Jeff Goldman, Robert Kirsch, Charles Roth, Peter Shepherd, Frank Signore, Lou DiFazio, Marty Leventhal, Ned McDonald, Dan Mendelson, Frank Vespa, and Fred Virgilio.

Newton South Winter Sport Season Not Bad

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times," that mostly it was the best. Newton South sports fans found many things to cheer about this past winter season.

The hockey team, of course, drew the most applause, finishing with its finest record ever, 11-2-1, and in third place in the Dual-County League. The pucksters fell only one point short of second place and two short of the league championship. Nevertheless, the squad qualified for the state tourney; the first time a Newton South team has been so honored.

Junior forward Tom Rezzutti and 6-6 defenseman Jack Dunnigan earned places on the Dual-County 1st-team all-stars. Senior Jim Spinks and goalie Dave Roberts (1.14 goals against average) earned places on the second team.

The Lin grapplers also collected an imposing number of honors after compiling a 10-3 slate during the regular season. Captain Lou DeFazio and Marty Leventhal each sported 13-0 marks while Neil Applebaum was nearly as perfect at 11-1-1. South copped the sectional title at Brookline High, just edging out Melrose, 94-91, and finished 8th (of 39) in the state meet at Wayland High.

Lou DiFazio was named the outstanding wrestler in the sectionals for the second consecutive year as he topped his 14-pound weight class. Marty Leventhal, Ned McDonald and Frank Vespa also dominated their division, while Neil Applebaum and Russ Brooks finished second.

DiFazio grappled his way to the third position in the states, while Brooks and Applebaum earned fourth places.

The jv cagers also suffered through a dismal campaign of 5-15, but high scoring guard Bill Starr, 112 points, 10.1 average, also found time to tally 35 varsity points for a total of 147.

Newton South's indoor trackmen found success hard to come by this year in the tough Metropolitan Track League, as the Lions were dropped seven times. Captain Stan Dolberg, however, ran wild this season, so to speak, piling up 57 points. Dolberg won six consecutive 600-yard MET races and one 1000-yard run. In addition, Dolberg, capturing three medals, streaked to third place in the BAA, second in the MET League All-Star Meet, and second in the Class A championships. Senior Dolberg set a new school standard of 1:15.5 in the 600, breaking his own record. He also owns the NSHS mark in the 1000, 2:27.0.

Newton South gathered a multitude of awards and honors this winter season, and the student body is looking forward to the spring season with great anticipation.

Junior Aid Of Hospital Meets Next Thursday

A unique cooking demonstration will be given by the Newton-Wellesley Junior Aid Association at their meeting on Thursday, March 21 in Alen Riddle Hall at 9:30 a.m. Performing with fry pans, beaters, bowls and skilled hands will be Mrs. Jean Ambuter and her attractive daughter, Mrs. Robin Longstreet.

For several years this popular mother-daughter team, sponsored by the First National Stores, has been entertaining and informing housewives with clever suggestions for shopping, preparing and serving delicious foods.

Their program is called "Heritage Cooking" because many of their recipes have been selected for association with American history.

Each person attending will receive printed copies of all recipes used in the program, and door prizes will be given, including the dishes prepared in the demonstration.

Refreshments will be served before the demonstration by the hospitality chairmen, Mrs. Edward Galligan of Waban and Mrs. Robert Fulton of Wellesley. Mrs. Edward H. Rogers of Wellesley Hills, president of the Association, will conduct a short business meeting and then introduce the speakers.

State Aid Bill Backed By Board

The Newton School Committee went on record Monday night in support of a bill before the Legislature dealing with cut-off levels on which state financial assistance is based.

The bill would have the school-aid percentage applied to the total school expenditures of a city or town.

Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of schools, says the bill presently in force works to the disadvantage of a city like Newton, where much exploratory work is done.

The Committee discussed the bill which would remove the 80 per cent restriction on sales tax revenue and would apply the full 100 per cent to the local aid fund.

Chantal M. Moreau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jules D. Moreau of 15 Hammeil place, Chestnut Hill, is among 37 undergraduates named to the Dean's Honor List at Newton College of the Sacred Heart.

Swamped By Melrose, 10-0

Lions Ice Tournament Debut Is A Debacle

By NED MORSE

Second seeded Melrose gave the Newton South pucksters a rude initiation into State Hockey Tournament play. The Lions who had qualified for the first time in the school's history were trounced by the Middlesex League's top team, 10-0.

South goalie Dave Roberts, a superb two-year varsity starter, played an excellent game despite the 10 goals in recording a tourney record of 45 saves. The Red Raiders, a perennial powerhouse, outshot the Lions, 65-5. Jim Spinks took South's first shot on net near the outset of the third period.

Roberts made a number of spectacular saves especially with his glove hand. Unfortunately, many of his great efforts were wasted as alert Melrose forwards tipped in rebound shots. The failure of the South defense to clear their defensive zone was a key factor in the rout.

Three-year varsity letterman Biff Wisner ended his career by leading the Lions in scoring. His 14 goals and 13 assists placed him among the Dual County League's top scorers.

Coach William Jesdale will lose 13 of his 15 varsity lettermen to graduation. The only returning regulars will be high scoring forward Tom Rezzutti and hard skating wing Jim O'Connor. Jesdale will have to completely rebuild his defense which did such an outstanding job this season. Help must come from the junior high level if South is to finish near the top of the Dual County League.

Looking ahead to spring sports Newton South boasts a possible Suburban league winner in its baseball team. The Lions strength will come from a strong and experienced pitching staff. Four varsity starters return from last year's staff.

Hockey captain Jack Dunnigan will be one of Coach Linscott's top hurlers. Last season Jack was the author of a no hit game against Rindge Tech. In the contest won 1-0 by the Lions, Dunnigan struck out eight Tech batters while allowing only one walk.

Senior Warren Ross, a two year varsity starter, will see action on the mound and at third base. Ross, a fast ball pitcher and a solid hitter, turned in a number of fine performances last season. In his best game Ross threw 6 innings of no hit ball against Cambridge Latin. Over this stretch he fanned five batters and hurled outstanding baseball.

Junior's Jim Gamble and Frank Hurvitz round out the very capable staff. Gamble, a southpaw, made a number of strong relief appearances last season. Hurvitz, who plays second base when he is not pitching, proved to be a competent starter and reliever.

In a game halted by rain against Rindge Tech last season, Hurvitz struck out 7 of the 9 men he faced in three innings.

Offensively the team will depend on its big first baseman, Dave Roberts, the hockey team's flashy goalie. Last season Roberts led the team in hitting and home runs.

Defensively the team must tighten up to back up their pitchers. Returning regulars include infielder Tom Rezzutti, catcher Ken Stuart and outfielders Mith Freedman, Dan Mendelson and Ron Nelson.

The team could be bolstered by the return of outfielder George Tsumis, a starter as a sophomore. Tsumis passed up baseball last spring for track.

Newton South is the defending state champion in tennis. Last season the team recorded an outstanding record losing only one match. Experts predict a repeat performance of last season and an excellent chance for an undefeated slate.

Led by captain and first singles player, Bucky Adams, the squad boasts 7 returning lettermen. Adams enjoyed an outstanding year last spring, losing only one match.

Returning at second singles, will be hockey star Gary Mescon. Playing in the third singles position will be holdover Andy Cornblatt, a very aggressive performer on the court.

Heading the contenders for the doubles positions are varsity lettermen Bruce Cornblatt, Noah Bronson, and the Starr boys, Al and Bill. Paul "Cuddles" Cohen, a part-time varsity starter, will also be vying for a position.

"Cuddles", a dedicated player, is involved in a pre-season training program to shed a few pounds before the season opens. Doubles partner Al Starr is supervising the daily exercises.

At the conclusion of the evenings program a coffee hour was served by the Mothers Auxiliary of the Newton Boys' Club.

Aisner Jumps At Intercollegiate Meet In New York

A Newton boy is among the five Colby College track men to qualify for the Intercollegiate Amateur Athletic Association of America Track and Field Championships held at New York's Madison Square Garden last week.

Bob Aisner, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Aisner, Jr., of 1471 Beacon Street, Waban, a senior majoring in economics is a high jumper.

Aisner, runnerup in the New England Championships last May, leaped to a new Colby record of 6'8" at the Colby Invitational. That height put him in a tie with four others for a third place rating.

Custer Is Sergeant

Profile Of An Athlete:

Villanova's Ervin Hall

By BRUCE KOPELMAN and LEWIS FREEDMAN
(The second in a series of interviews of famous trackmen in the United States today.)

Ervin Hall is one of the principal reasons that Villanova University is the reigning track power in the east. Hall is the Villanova record-holder in the indoor 60-yard hurdles, in 7.0 seconds, and the outdoor 120-yard hurdles, run in 13.5.

He is regarded as one of the leading timber-toppers in the United States today. In addition, Hall has placed in every major meet in the east this season, in two events, the dash and the hurdles. These include Boston's Knights of Columbus and BAA meets and the NYAC track meet. In the NYAC and K of C meets he was beaten only by record-breaking performances. In New York, a new meet record was set, erasing his old mark, and in Boston a new world record was set. In both instances Hall's nemesis was the commonly regarded best hurdler in the world, Earl McCullough of USC.

Ervin Hall is currently a junior at Villanova University, majoring in marketing. As a career he plans to go into business, hopefully establishing a firm for either public relations or advertising. Mister Hall plans to continue running after his graduation, and if the opportunity presents itself, hopes to eventually become a track coach.

In outdoor dual-meets for Villanova, Hall participates in the hurdles, the 100-yard dash, and occasionally the 220. When asked how he stays in shape out of and in-between seasons, Hall replied, "Out of season is generally used for strength work. Over-distance is stressed to give background for regular season workouts."

"For dashes, I would recommend repetitious 150-yard runs (about 10) at 3 speed, keeping in mind high knee action. (Do 5), then 5 minutes rest, then 5). 220s are also good, varying the number you do with the speed you do them in (around six in 27-30 seconds)."

In comparing the college workout to the high school level Hall stated, "College workouts actually aren't too different from those in high school, although they are a little more accelerated. More work is done, that is, more of the same distance is run each day."

Ervin Hall was rather a late starter in track for one who has come so far. He recalls, "I became interested in track around age 16, my junior year in high school, when I went out for the school team." He has stuck with it because he likes "the personal value it has, and the competitive spirit it generates."

Hall is now working towards realizing his goal of making the United States Olympic team. When questioned on the proposed Negro boycott of the Olympic games he responded with, "I am not in favor of an Olympic boycott and plan to attend if I am so able."

Termite Test

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Scientists at Michigan State University these days are importing termites from Florida. Dr. Elton A. Behr, a forestry products researcher, said the termites are being shipped in to test new mixed wood products that may be resistant to the pests.

He said the termites are brought from Florida because they are plentiful there and easier to collect. He is experimenting with a combination of woods in a "mix" that may result in an artificial wood that will not be attractive to termites.

Art Exhibition By Amateur Painters At Free Library

The Newton Adult Evening School Art Class will exhibit a refreshing group of paintings at their once-a-year showing beginning this week at the Newton Free Library on Centre street.

In conjunction with the Newton Library display of books about painting and painters, four teachers have teamed up to present this collection of their students work. The exhibit will begin today (March 14) and continue through March 29.

This annual showing of the evening classes reveals how skillful the hobby painters have become and their successes have inspired many of the Library viewers to try their own hands at expressing themselves through creative art experiences.

Mrs. Mildred Kingbury, liaison for the students and teachers, is a graduate of B.U. and has also done graduate work at B.U. and Columbia University Teachers College. A former art consultant in the Wyland Public Schools, she now teaches in Brookline as well as in the Newton Evening School.

Mr. Donald Smith, whose students also exhibited at the Newton Free Library last year, is a graduate of the Massachusetts College of Art, and now teaches art at North Junior High in Waltham.

The third teacher is Mr. Ronald Previor, who studied at the Museum School and did graduate work at Massachusetts College of Art and at Assumption College. Mr. Previor employs in his own work what is called a calligraphic approach, and his

Our Moves Toward Peace Checkmated, Says Philbin

"There is no way we could possibly intensify our efforts to secure the peace in Vietnam that would be too great," said Congressman Philip J. Philbin of Clinton, talking before the Newton Rotary Club at noon, Monday.

"Unhappily, every move we made in this direction is checkmated and rejected," he said.

Philbin pointed out that: We cannot unconditionally withdraw from the area without having clear understandings concerning many important questions, including the security of our own forces and the area, our pacification program, and the machinery necessary to carry out any agreements that are reached.

"This means, of course, that our adversaries must of their own volition come to the peace table, and enter into a general discussion with an honest, whole-hearted view to establishing and preserving the peace," he said.

"I think the record clearly shows that our government has made every possible effort, many of them, to bring about a peace conference, and is prepared to meet with the parties involved at any time."

Referring to violations of previous truces, he observed: It should be noted in this connection that we have had a rather unhappy experience during various truce periods we arranged with Hanoi, specifically, those of the Christmas, New Year periods of 1966 and 1967, and the Lunar truce period just passed.

These truces were designed to observe certain holidays but there is definite, irrefutable evidence that the enemy utilized all these periods, contrary to agreements, to move large numbers of men, weapons and material into several combat areas," he pointed out.

"I am not in a position to speak for the State Department, or the government, but I think that the door to the peace conference is wide open, and has been wide open, for anyone to enter, who is sincerely and honestly interested in establishing the peace."

"On the other hand, if the enemies are more interested in gaining propaganda advantages, that is quite a different matter."

"Regardless of the conditions facing us, it is of utmost urgency that this government should press for a just peace in every way that is given to it, and I am convinced we will continue to do so," Philbin said.

In this talk, Philbin touched on a number of other questions including Civil Rights, the gold imbalance and dollar gap, current trade policies and crime and violence in our communities.

This country is based on equality under the law for all people and these individual rights must be guaranteed to all in every respect, said Philbin. There has already been most regrettable delay in this area.

Congress has done a great deal, insofar as the government can act, to insure civil rights across the board to all groups and all peoples, and we expect the enforcement officials of the government to implement these programs in every way necessary to achieve the ends of true equality for all.

The collapse of the British pound, said Philbin, had serious repercussions throughout this country and the world, which will be felt for some time.

"It should serve notice on this government that we must have a sound, monetary policy and, as soon as possible, a balanced budget," he stated.

"There should be an immediate re-evaluation of current, trade policies to assess and correct their current impact upon current gold imbalances and the threatened weakness of the dollar, and pending proposals to restrict and tax the travel of American citizens should be indefinitely deferred."

"Every thoughtful citizen is understandably concerned by the growing crime and violence on our streets these days, and by the shocking conditions that exist concerning the use of drugs and the behavior patterns of many Americans, young and old."

"These things are deplorable, and since they indicate largely a breakdown in basic American institutions pertaining to bringing up the young, they will not be easy to handle and could get much worse."

"The Congress will no doubt consider massive urban programs to provide training, guidance, jobs and necessary social and economic adjustments in our cities and these must not be delayed."

"I would make this observation, however, that law and order is a condition precedent to any kind of government, whether it be democratic or absolute."

"People must be secure and safe in their homes, on the streets and elsewhere in our society. And if we do not make sure that law and order is maintained, at all costs, in our local communities and every other place, we should not be surprised, if disrespect and contempt for the law grows and spreads in this nation and gravely compounds our current problems."

"To my mind, this is one of the most compelling issues facing the country today, and we must resolutely pursue it, until violence and disorder are banished from our streets and lawlessness of all kinds is discouraged and suppressed."

At the close of his talk, Congressman Philbin answered questions from the audience.

Dumping Investigation Is Set Off By Conservators

Benjamin F. Shattuck, president of Newton Conservators, Inc., asked for and received an investigation by the Metropolitan District Commission of a trespass over an MDC parkland strip involving dumping of snow and earth into Hammond Pond at the Chestnut Hill shopping center.

In a letter to MDC Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr. last week, Mr. Shattuck said, "I hereby inform the Commission that there is increasing concern among our members in the Chestnut Hill area over the bulldozing of fill into Hammond Pond over the MDC parkland strip between the northerly Shattman parking lot and the Pond edge. Has the owner of the parking lot been granted license by the MDC to cross this parkland strip and even alter it?"

"Two of our members, Dr. Augustus Thorndike and Mrs. Helen Heyn, estimate that this fill, whatever its composition, extends out about 30 feet into the Pond. The delta deposit can best be viewed from Stearns' customers' parking lot, looking from east to west."

"Although for some weeks, ever since last December, we have been under the impression that this is a snow removal operation, we now believe the time has come for a thorough investigation since recent thaws reveal a large amount of earth, none of which should be deposited, with or without snow, in any Great Pond of the Commonwealth without permission from the General Court."

"We are sending copies of this letter to the Department of Natural Resources and the Department of Public Works Division of Waterways so that all agencies will act immediately to have this deposit removed and the Pond shoreline restored," said Mr. Shattuck.

This trespass has been investigated by the MDC and a verbal order to cease and desist from further encroachment on Hammond Pond has been given Arthur Shattman, owner of the parking lot in question. He is also held responsible for removal of any deposits remaining in the Pond and on the MDC park strip after spring thawing.

Commissioner Whitmore has ordered that the entire matter be reviewed by himself and the MDC Associate Commissioners.

Still unresolved is the problem of the fill, blacktopping, and fencing which Mr. Shattman had put out into Hammond Pond behind Filene's last summer. The Conservators are of the opinion that this also is an illegal encroachment on the Pond.

The DPW Division of Waterways notified Mr. Shattman last July that any filling in addition to what he had a ready put into the Pond would be considered an illegal act by the DPW. However, the DPW takes the position that it must have evidence presented to the department that the fill which Mr. Shattman had already put into the Pond last June is illegal and should be removed.

The Conservators and the Newton Law Department will endeavor to inform the DPW further of this regard.

Newton Records New Building Low Last Month

Building permits in Newton for a one-month period were the lowest since 1955 during February, it was revealed last week. There were 32 issued for a total estimated cost of $152,790.

For the first two-months of the year, the total permit cost was $491,289, compared with a total for the same period last year of $1.6 million.

Only one permit was issued for a single home last month and that was for $14,000.

Three sign permits totaled $690. 20 alterations to residential buildings amounted to $73,000 and eight alterations to non-residential buildings totaled $65,100.

Building of single-residence dwellings has been sharply curtailed due to the lack of available land in Newton at a reasonable price.

The resource committee of County Government has the following members: Mrs. Solomon Fleishman, chairman; Mrs. Peter Jenney, vice-chairman; Mrs. Joseph Alexander; Mrs. Douglas Moran; Mrs. John Nihen, and Mrs. Richard Woodward.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON, repeating his call for a tax increase, asked Congress yesterday to earmark $500 million to help increase U.S. exports and strengthen the U.S. dollar.

CASUALTIES FORCE REDS' WITHDRAWAL AT KHE SANH

RECONNAISSANCE REPORTS yesterday said there were indications American firepower had forced North Vietnam to withdraw two regiments—2,400 men—from the Khe Sanh area. High-level intelligence officers said "fantastically high" casualties and improving weather now prevented Communist capture of the fortress.

UPI correspondent Richard V. Oliver in a report from field headquarters at Phu Bai quoted a top U.S. intelligence officer as estimating 4,000 to 5,000 of the 16,000 to 20,000-man North Vietnamese army surrounding Khe Sanh had been killed.

DEGAULLE TAKES ANOTHER SWIPE AT U.S. DOLLAR

PRESIDENT CHARLES DE GAULLE said yesterday that efforts to safeguard the U.S. dollar and British pound as the world's key currencies were doomed. He demanded they be replaced by a full gold standard as the cornerstone of world trade. In one of his strongest warnings yet, he said a continued monetary system based on the American and British currencies would plunge the world into a grave economic crisis.

Despite the French leader's statement, the dollar and pound surged to new strength on European markets and the price of gold continued to drop in free market trading.

CZECH PRESIDUM AIRS ANTI-NOVOTNY ACTION

THE PRESIDENT of Czechoslovakia's National Assembly met yesterday in Prague to discuss demands for a parliamentary vote of non-confidence in President Antonin Novotny to force his resignation from the post he has held since 1957.

Fighting for his political life, Novotny remained secluded in the state apartments in the presidential castle overlooking Prague. His weeklong silence on the political ferment sweeping Czechoslovakia has been criticized by politicians, press and public. He broke his silence, however, to say he had been suffering from gall bladder trouble "which later turned into the flu."

Tax Rate Jump Of $12 or $14 Sets Up Possible $90 Figure

Newton's tax rate this year is likely to jump between $12 and $14 over the 1967 figure of $76.20, experts on municipal finance predicted today.

That would mean that the rate to be announced next month would be somewhere between $88 and $90.

This estimate was made as members of the Board of Aldermen prepared to return to session tonight (Thursday) expecting to conclude their deliberations on the operating municipal budget for 1968.

It is based on the expectation that the Aldermen will follow most of the recommendations of their Finance Committee and cut—about $1 million from the record-high Mayor Monte G. Basbas.

The Finance Committee has recommended the approval of a budget totalling $37,124,827.

That would represent an increase of almost $4 million over last year's budget amount.

That includes a school budget of more than $17 million which the Mayor and Aldermen have no power to reduce. Proposed school expenditures are nearly $2 million greater than in 1967.

A big factor in the anticipated staggering increase in the tax rate is that Newton will receive about $1.1 million less from the State than it did last year.

Figures contained in—the State's 1968 Cherry Sheet show Newton receiving $5,450,278.83 from the State this year as compared to $6,525,704.36 last year.

This in itself would cause a hike of more than $3 in the tax rate.

A $4 million rise in the budget would be equivalent to a $12 hike in the tax rate.

This would be offset to a slight extent by the fact that the city this year will have $3 million in new taxable property on its tax rolls, broadening Newton's tax base.

However, there are still other factors which will play a part in determining Newton's tax rate.

Aldermen Vote For Meadowbrook Study

The Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night, by a vote of 11 to 10, referred to its Education Committee a resolution aimed at securing a state study of the controversial program at Meadowbrook Junior High School.

The resolution was introduced by Alderman Eliot K. Cohen.

It called for the board to request the School Committee to ask State Commissioner of Education Owen Kiernan "for an in depth study and evaluation report relative to the achievement and scope of the Meadowbrook Junior High School program."

Cohen said that while he is personally neither in favor of nor opposed to the Meadowbrook program the extensive concern of citizens communicated to him prompted the resolution.

The people want to know through an objective evaluation done by an outside, independent agency whether the continuous learning program is as successful as the School Department says it is, Cohen declared.

He reported that he has conferred with the State Department of Education and learned that a division of that department deals exclusively with junior high schools.

However, the study would not be made without a formal request from the Area Improvement Site Office Opened

The Upper Falls Improvement Area site office was opened officially this week by Mayor Monte G. Basbas and will be the headquarters for a three-year, $735,000 co-operative venture in neighborhood improvement.

In opening the office at 386 Eliot St., Basbas noted that the major purpose of the Upper Falls program is "to provide to residents of the community the technical and financial assistance to assure that each of the neighborhood's 877 housing units meets or exceeds the standards specified in the Housing Code."

To accomplish this goal in the Upper Falls, Newton has undertaken what is called a "Concentrated Code Enforcement Program." This program is to be partially financed by a federal grant of $557,000 with the remaining $178,000 to be contributed by the city, mostly in the form of street and sidewalk improvements, new traffic lights and other public works. Many of these public works improvements have not been completed in the past because of the prohibitive costs of construction and the betterment assessments which would have been charged to abutting landowners. With the federal assistance available, these improvements will be made without betterment assessments.

Unitarians To Swap Ministers Sunday

A pulpit exchange of ministers is nothing new. But when 41 churches exchange ministers at the same time, that is something new.

Next Sunday the First Unitarian Society in Newton and 40 other Unitarian-Universalist churches in the Massachusetts Bay District will exchange ministers and lay groups for a Sunday service.

Dr. Leslie T. Pennington, minister of the First Unitarian Society, will preach Sunday at the First Parish Unitarian Universalist Church in Saugus, while the Rev. Robert E. Gussner of the Saugus church preaches at the West Newton Church.

In the delegation attending the Saugus church with Dr.

Pennington will be Mrs. Leslie T. Little of Newtonville, Mrs. Charles Levy of Auburndale, Dr. Lowell V. Coulter of West Newton, Sanford Latner of Waban, and R. Eugene Bullock of Newtonville.

Massachusetts Bay District Executive Theodore A. Webb says the exchanges have been arranged to point up differences in size, location, theology, and style of worship. "The hope is to increase awareness of the larger fellowship," he explains.

Modified discussion group "happenings" will take place after the regular services in both visiting and host churches.

Bobby Poses Threat To LBJ; McCarthy Never Had Chance

If we were to pick a Presidential candidate from between Robert and Edward Kennedy, our choice would be Ted. A lot of Democratic politicians feel the same way.

However, we cannot see any basis for charges that Bobby Kennedy is a political opportunist because he stepped into the Democratic Presidential race after Senator Eugene McCarthy made a surprisingly strong showing in New Hampshire.

The cold fact of the matter is that the most important political effect of the Granite State Presidential Primary was that it caused Robert Kennedy to decide to challenge President Johnson.

McCarthy had no chance of defeating Mr. Johnson before the New Hampshire Primary, and he had no chance after it, whether Bobby Kennedy entered the contest or stayed out of it.

Dr. and Mrs. Adams will reside on the campus in the faculty apartment in the new Appleton-Chase House at Andover Newton.

His appointment to the faculty is a major step in the effort to establish an outstanding department of Social Ethics there.

He joins a former colleague, Dr. Max Stackhouse, Assistant Professor of Social Ethics, noted teacher, writer and lecturer. They will cooperate in formulating a long range program for their department.

A CONSTRUCTIVE SUGGESTION FOR FRUSTRATED REPUBLICANS

If you are a registered Republican, and wish to make a choice between the policies represented by Eugene McCarthy and Lyndon Johnson, you should go to the Election Commission at City Hall. Ask to have your registration changed to Independent. This means you can then vote for any candidate.

THIS MUST BE DONE BEFORE MARCH 30th!
After voting, you can re-register in the party of your choice by again visiting the Election Commission office, and so requesting.

OUR AIM IS TO GET OUT A LARGE VOTE ON APRIL 30th

— PLEASE READ —
(from a WCRB editorial, March 1, 1968, by Station President Ted Jones; used by permission.)

Are you a Hawk or a Dove? Do you think the U.S. should stay in Viet Nam until the job's done? Or do you think we should pull out as quickly as we can with grace and honor? How would you like to make your own choice really count?

Ordinarily the foreign policy of the country is made up by a very few people and our own personal preferences are inconsequential. But now, be we Republicans, Democrats, or Independents, we have a chance — a duty — to speak up.

And we owe this opportunity to Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota. In choosing to run . . . he is giving every voter . . . a chance to choose between staying in Viet Nam or pulling out . . . This primary is equally important to the supporters of Johnson as it is to his critics.

If a large vote turns out for McCarthy it could have explosive effects on . . . Washington's Viet Nam policy. If a very strong (write-in) vote is registered for Johnson . . . it will show that, despite protest marches, a vast majority of the public backs the President's overseas policy.

Nixon and most other Republican leaders endorse our military stand in varying degrees, and a strong Republican vote for any one will show a dissatisfaction with Johnson's handling of the war, but an approval of the overall Viet Nam involvement.

If McCarthy did not run in the primaries we would not have such a clear cut issue on which to vote; and I think it is high time that the average citizen had his chance to be heard at the ballot box on this matter of life and death.

In case you are not clear about primaries, this is when, as a Republican or a Democrat, you select the man you prefer your state party delegates to nominate at the National Convention in August.

If you are a Republican and want to vote for Eugene McCarthy or President Johnson . . . just visit your city or town hall at least thirty days before Primary Day (March 30 deadline) and ask that the party designation be taken off your name. As an Independent you can vote in either primary you wish, and then after voting you can have the party designation taken off your name again by just visiting your town or city clerk and requesting it . . .

But you should vote . . . April 30 . . . and make it clear whether you support the war or want out. You may not have such a chance in November.

March 30 Deadline For Primary Registrations

"March 30, the last day to register for the Presidential Primary election" is the reminder being sent out by the League of Women Voters of Newton. Anyone who is not registered by that date will not be eligible to vote in the primary on April 30.

"All Newton citizens are advised, too," said Mrs. Henry Gorman, chairman of the Voters Service Committee. "that if they wish to vote on the ballot other than the political party in which they are registered, they may change their party affiliation by going to City Hall, Election Commission, before March 30. The party in which they are now registered would be the one on which they voted in the last primary election. If registered as an Independent, they may request a Democratic or a Republican ballot."

In addition to voting for a presidential candidate in the primary, citizens will also elect delegates to the National Nominating Conventions; ward committee members; and two state committee members. The delegates to the National Conventions will nominate candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States, adopt a party platform, and elect two members from each state to the National Committee.

The ward committee organizes party activities at the local level, assists in state and national elections campaigns, helps with fund-raising, and selects delegates to state conventions. The state committee supervises local party committees, runs elections campaigns, raises funds and organizes state conventions.

The League of Women Voters of Newton urges every citizen to "MAKE YOUR VOTE COUNT." Be sure to register at City Hall by March 30.

More Than 700 Newton Cellars Flood In Storm

The two-day rainstorm that lashed Newton and other eastern Massachusetts communities left more than 700 cellars in Newton flooded, some of which were still being pumped today.

Most of the cellar-flooding occurred in Newton Highlands and some sections of Ward 8. Especially hard hit were homes adjacent to meadows and along the Meadowbrook. No evacuations of homes were reported, but many homes were without electricity and heat, due to failure of oil burners. A husband and wife, Carl and Mimi Brauner, 55 and 54, of 100

Selwyn road, Newton Highlands, were overcome with exhaust fumes while working a sump-pump in the cellar of their home. They were admitted to Newton-Wellesley Hospital for treatment.

The Newton Street Department had 28 portable pumps in operation and a huge backlog of cellars to be pumped out.

Mayor Basbas said the problem was acute but by no means disastrous. He said a nominal fee will be charged for cellars pumped by the Street Department.

He said that those deemed a health hazard were pumped first. He added that some residents are creating a health hazard by opening drains in the basements to let water out, and sewerage is backing up into the cellars from the overloaded drains.

Serious flooding hit homes built on lowlands and meadows.

George L. Hicks, chairman of the Public Works Committee of the Board of Aldermen told the board at its meeting on Monday night that the storm had been a serious one in Newton and that the next few days were expected to present problems.

City Hall received hundreds of calls from residents with flooded cellars. In fact, all through the aldermen's meeting the phone rang incessantly.

Hicks reported that many of Newton families were without electricity or telephones.

Several complaints were received from people in the Dedham St. area that the section was infested with rats. There is a swampy area there and rats seemed to come out of the meadow, Hicks said.

Street Commissioner Edmund Bolduc said 23 pumps were working all over the city helping to rid cellars and flooded areas of water.

McCarthy Cheese And Wine Party Is Success Here

A sizeable number of Newton residents rallied behind the candidacy of Senator Eugene McCarthy, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for President, at a wine-and-cheese party last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Pearlman. The party gave both a financial and moral lift to McCarthy's campaign.

McCarthy supporters at the affair watched an anti-Vietnam war film and heard an address by former CBS Far Eastern correspondent David Schoenbrun as well as brief talks by Alderman H. Jaems Shea and Professor Michael Walzer of the Harvard University government department.

Shea termed the momentum gathered by the McCarthy campaign "one of the most exciting things that has happened in Newton in a long time."

Professor Walzer declared that "one of the most frightening things in 1966 and 1967 was the utter absence in Washington of anyone willing to stake his career on the issue of the war."

"We owe an enormous debt to the man who first took the risk," Walzer told his listeners, informing them that it "is vitally important to maintain the anti-war movement even after the April 30 primary."

Guests at the wine and cheese party included Victor Kumin, Sue Berkeley, Harry Crosby, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Kantrowitz, Dr. and Mrs. Vincent Sweeney, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Levine, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Guttill, Mr. and Mrs. Noah Bielski, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kraft and Murray Falk.

The Gourmet Adventures of

MARIO OF THE HIGHLANDS

A century ago, many a housewife's worth was measured by the kind of bread that came out of her oven. It was laborious and time-consuming work that began with the "brewing" of the yeast and ended after a series of tiring, hour-long and monotonous kneading. But even as all that glitters is not gold, so all breads, that look good to the beholder, do not always sit easy on the stomach of the consumer. There are not too many housewives left today that bake their own bread. Perhaps we are all too diet conscious!

Buying good quality products and cooking them in the proper way is never tiresome for us. When you want to dine out think of THE HIGHLAND RESTAURANT, 1114 Beacon St., Newton, 332-4400 for the discriminating diner. Luncheons . . . Wednesday Fashion Shows.

Traveling with Dr. Stone will be Dr. Sylvia Krakow, chief social worker, Dr. Haskell Cohen, chief psychologist and James Elkind, staff social worker all from the Newton Mental Health Center.

Joining the Bowdoin College Glee Club on its annual spring tour is Robert B. Carpenter '71, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Carpenter of 16 Park Drive, Newton Highlands. The club will offer a variety of classical, popular and college songs in all the six concerts in five states.

School Committee, Cohen noted.

Aldermen Alan S. Barkin, Louis I. Egelson and Jason Sacks all argued that the matter concerns curriculum and the manner of teaching and does not come within the purview of the Board of Aldermen.

Barkin said that a recently elected School Committeeman from Ward Eight where Meadowbrook is located (he referred without name to Alvin Mandell) campaigned on issues dealing with criticisms of School Committee actions and was highly articulate and fully capable of introducing a similar resolution to the School board.

"Let the School Committee handle the problem," Barkin urged.

Mandell who was present at the meeting told The Graphic he intends to introduce such a resolution at the meeting of the School Committee next Monday night (March 25).

Alderman Harry Walen argued that it would be a grave error for the board to become "overaffected by emotions." Walen, principal of Needham High School, opposed the resolution.

The School Committee members are elected by the same people in the same election as the aldermen, he commented.

"I can't imagine the School Committee passing a resolution directing us on what to do about some matter of municipal business," Walen asserted.

"It is the voters' concern and if they are sufficiently concerned, they will act," he concluded.

The Education Committee will study the matter and report to the full board.

The continuous learning program at Meadowbrook Junior High has been the subject of two articles in Boston newspapers recently, one sharply critical, the other favorable.

in a book edited by Dr. C. Hobard Howrer, "Psychotherapy, Theory, and Research."

Nationally known for his work in Reading Improvement, Mr. Perry has received special recognition for his work on the Harvard University Reading Films, and he has invested considerable time in research in this field.

He is certified as a psychologist by the Massachusetts Psychological Association and is a member of the American Psychological Association, and in the Massachusetts Psychological Association he has been a Fellow, Director, Secretary, and Delegate.

Polish Anti-Semitism

When there are riots in the United States, they are page one news the length and breadth of Europe. However, it wasn't that way in the press of the United States last week when there were riots in Poland.

Yes! Polish students rioted, initially protesting the banning of a basically anti-Russian play. Then, the demonstrations evolved into riots in which the deeper, more meaningful cry of "freedom" was heard.

It was almost like turning the clock back some 30 years when Polish authorities blamed the riots on reactionary Jews. Nightmarish shades of Adolph Hitler and the Third Reich. That was how it began then, ultimately leading to the slaughter of six million Jews.

The spectre of militant anti-Semitism rising in Poland has caused grave concern in the American Jewish Community.

Dr. Joachim Prinz, chairman of the Commission on International Affairs of the American Jewish Congress, has demanded that the highest officials of the Polish government officially repudiate "these efforts to summon out of a bloody and brutal past, the myths, superstitions and prejudices that have cost so many Jewish lives."

"The world cannot allow government officials to incite Polish anti-Semitism as a weapon to terrorize and silence those who dare to speak out for freedom."

"We agree and believe that an official United States government protest should be delivered to the Communist government of Poland."

We also think the riots should have been better displayed by the American press.

Attention Robins, Spring Made It!

Sunshine seeped through heavy clouds yesterday, after days of downpour, drizzle and damp, and mild temperatures combined, to strengthen the feeling that spring really had made it.

Officially the long-awaited event took place at 8:22 a.m.

Dwellers hereabouts had been scrutinizing calendars in anticipation of the happy arrival. This condition was brought about by a winter of record-breaking severity, with snow, sleet, ice and a deep-freeze long to be remembered even by the most hardy.

So, spring is here, albeit we may yet experience a helping or two of foul weather, New England being what it is, and winter such a tenacious season.

But, the zing of the battered ball and the thud of the felled spheroid is wafted northward from Winter Haven, always an authoritative overture to spring, to be climaxed only by the sight of the first red-breasted robin.

Yes, spring is here and longer and happier days are ahead—at least, warmer and sunnier, we hope.

Merits Praise

Editor of The Graphic:

Recently some publicity was given to the newly formed Explorer Post that is being formed by the Newton Police Department.

I was involved in the organization of the Post to the extent that during the planning process, I attended some meetings with Captain William Quinn who is the man responsible for starting the Post.

As a Scouter of Norumbega Council and as a Newton resident and parent, I felt that I should write and tell you how Captain Quinn impressed me.

To begin with, I guess I expected Captain Quinn would be an intelligent police officer and because of his rank of Captain, a man who no doubt worked at least a little harder than average in the conduct of his police work. I certainly found this to be true and more. Captain Quinn impressed me as one of the most energetic, dedicated individual I have ever had the pleasure of meeting.

I know that Captain Quinn's basic reason for wanting this unit is to promote friendship and understanding between teen age boys and the men of the Newton Police Dept. With this in mind he recruited the very best men in the department for this project.

We are very fortunate to have this officer in a position of leadership in our Police Dept. and in our city.

On Meadowbrook

Editor of The Graphic:

I submit for your publication the following letter which was sent to but not published by The Herald Traveler:

I was dismayed to read Alice Burke's article on the Newton schools and disappointed that a newspaper of assumed integrity would print a so obviously slanted and one-sided view of so complex a problem as education.

Before one attempts to criticize any educational system, it is imperative to examine its underlying philosophy to determine whether it is consistent with the goals, both immediate and ultimate, that one has for our children and our society.

Meadowbrook Junior High School in Newton is predicated on the idea that implicit in the word "education" is a "leading forth" from each child of his potentialities and developing these potentialities in a manner consistent with a democratic society and directed towards goals that hopefully will enrich that society.

At Meadowbrook the student has a freedom of choice based on his interest and ability, which gives him a sense of his individuality, his uniqueness, and his worth, so that he may learn by self-motivation and not by arbitrarily imposed standards. His success in areas where he shows interest and ability provides the student with the self-confidence needed to pursue studies in other areas and motivates him from within to love learning as an experience of its own, quite apart from economic goals or material success.

In a future destined to become more and more automated, with the concomitant result of more and more leisure time, is it not desirable, even urgent, to fill man's life with inner satisfactions that make for inherent happiness rather than with the ephemeral satisfactions that come with the pursuit of hedonistic materialism?

At Meadowbrook the child, not the subject matter, comes first. This priority of the child is a method whereby the child is led to achieve all the skills of "traditional" education on his own and from which he emerges not only as a skilled person but as a fulfilled one.

RITA S. LONG

P.S.—I have been a teacher in the secondary schools in New Hampshire and Maine, and my evaluation of Meadowbrook is based both on that experience and the notable achievements of my children at Meadowbrook.

Yours truly,
J. FRANK KAVANAGH

Political Highlights -- Bobby Poses Threat

President Johnson probably will beat back the challenge by Bobby at the Democratic national convention in Chicago late next summer—if LBJ is a candidate for reelection.

But Bobby Kennedy will be a formidable adversary for Mr. Johnson. He can get support McCarthy can't get. McCarthy was a rallying point for the public discontent and dissatisfaction with the administration policies in Vietnam. And that's just about all he was.

McCarthy provided the outlet for a protest vote on the Vietnamese War. But he really wasn't taken seriously as a Presidential contender at the outset of the campaign in New Hampshire.

Reliable polls midway through the campaign indicated that McCarthy was running about as well against President Johnson as Governor Romney was against former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. Romney decided his cause was hopeless and got out of the fight.

Then public dissatisfaction with President Johnson boiled to a new high in the shocked reaction to the Communist offensive in Vietnam.

College students by the thousands poured into New Hampshire to put on an extremely effective drive for peace candidate McCarthy.

But was McCarthy's political feat in New Hampshire as staggering as some pundits have indicated or so sensational as to justify the Minnesota Senator's present puffed-up attitude?

It wasn't as far as this onlooker is concerned.

McCarthy, whose name was printed on the ballot, lost a close contest to President Johnson whose name did not appear on the ballot.

His showing was considered spectacular because he was beaten 9-8 when it was expected he would lose 5-1.

The point is McCarthy was defeated by a write-in candidate.

While New Hampshire voters are accustomed to writing names onto a ballot in a Presidential Primary, a write-in campaign is still a difficult undertaking in communities with voting machines.

McCarthy picked up the bulk of the Granite State delegates because an excessive number of Johnson delegate candidates divided the votes.

The Minnesota Senator came out of the New Hampshire Primary as something of a political hero because he did a lot better than he was expected to do. But he did not emerge as a real threat to President Johnson.

Anyone who runs for President, incidentally, must be a consummate egotist. McCarthy has established himself in that category by his own suddenly glowing appraisal of his qualifications for service in the Presidency and his estimate of his prospects of achieving that high office. He was a more attractive candidate when he demonstrated a greater degree of humility.

Robert Kennedy has posed a substantial number of unanswered questions. He also created his own credibility gap when he declared that he intends to campaign in harmony with McCarthy, not in opposition to him.

What many political analysts can't understand is why Bobby Kennedy, who might be elected President in 1972, has mapped an almost impossible fight for himself.

They point out that it is politically unrealistic to believe that President Johnson could be defeated at a Democratic national convention—a defeat which would be tantamount to a rejection by the members of his own party.

And if the Democratic party were so torn asunder, it is highly improbable that Bobby Kennedy could win election, they add.

Robert Kennedy has placed himself in a position where he will be the target for great criticism if a Republican becomes the next President.

Why did he involve himself in a battle he probably can't win?

He apparently feels that the war in Vietnam could result in a holocaust which would mean the end of civilization as we know it.

Robert Kennedy also is much more of a dove than Eugene McCarthy and has stronger and more specific ideas for ending the war than does McCarthy.

Some Democratic politicians believe Kennedy entered the Presidential lists because he was losing the support of college students and other young men and women with whom he had closely identified.

That may have been one of the considerations, but it would have taken far more than that to cause Bobby to risk his political future as he is doing.

To have any chance of making a real fight against President Johnson at the Democratic national convention, Robert Kennedy must roll up impressive victories in California, Oregon and Nebraska.

He would be just about scratched if he falters in any one of the three states.

The rank and file of Democratic politicians liked the late John F. Kennedy and are fond of Senator Edward M. Kennedy. But they have never really warmed up to Robert Kennedy.

About the only thing which would cause them to turn away from President Johnson and take RFK would be overpowering evidence that the President faced certain defeat in the November election and that Robert Kennedy would have a much better chance of winning election.

So far there is no such evidence.

Some extravagant statements have been made in the wake of the New Hampshire primary.

A newspaper editor who appears on a television panel show expressed the opinion that Mr. Johnson is the most unpopular President to hold office in 100 years.

There is no evidence today to support any such assertion although the vote for McCarthy in New Hampshire obviously was an anti-Johnson vote.

However, the experts were saying much the same thing about Harry S. Truman at a corresponding stage in 1948, and he managed to produce a spectacular victory.

Incidentally, in all the history of the United States only one sitting President has been denied nomination by the members of his own party.

He was Chester A. Arthur. He was not elected President. He was elected Vice President on the ticket with James A. Garfield in 1880 and succeeded to the Presidency when Garfield was assassinated in 1881.

Historians say that Arthur amazed both his political friends and foes by the honesty of his administration. He was best known for his civil service reforms to which most of his fellow Republicans objected.

Arthur's honesty and integrity antagonized GOP leaders who refused to give him the Republican nomination for President at their party's national convention in 1884. Instead, they nominated James G. Blaine who was defeated in the election by Grover Cleveland, the first Democratic President elected after the Civil War.

Delegates Who Quit Unsure Whether To Be Glad Or Sad

Some of the top Massachusetts Democratic leaders who declined to serve as delegates to their party's national convention are not certain whether to be sad or glad when they view their action in the cold light of hindsight.

"CALL FOR MR. ROCKEFELLER!"

Their attitude was that they refused to demean themselves by casting a first-ballot vote for Senator Eugene McCarthy, the only Presidential candidate whose name would appear on the Bay State Democratic ballot.

That was prior to the New Hampshire Primary and before Senator Robert Kennedy moved into the picture.

Former Attorney General Edward J. McCormack, nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack, summed up the situation for a number of Democrats when he declared it was a matter of conscience with him.

McCormack, voicing his loyalty to President Johnson at the time, said he was unwilling either to vote for McCarthy or to resort to any of the devices which would enable him to violate the law and not vote at all.

Now the Massachusetts Democratic delegates may find themselves sitting in at one of the most historic conventions their party ever has held.

That is certain to be the case if President Johnson stands for another term. And it also would be quite a conclave if LBJ decided to step out and back Hubert H. Humphrey for the Presidency.

Mr. Johnson will be favored to win renomination on the first ballot at the Chicago convention if he stands for another term.

But if the battle between President Johnson and Senators Kennedy and McCarthy goes more than one ballot, the Bay State delegates then will make the big switch.

When they do, they would have to make a choice between Lyndon Johnson and Robert Kennedy.

Most members of the Massachusetts contingent expected no such soul-searching decision would confront them.

They anticipated a pleasant trip to Chicago.

Whether the call of the roll would even get down to Massachusetts was uncertain.

President Johnson might be renominated by acclamation even if McCarthy did have a handful of pledged delegates.

The fact that they would have to vote for McCarthy if Massachusetts were reached on the rollcall would be understood. All that has changed.

Now their votes for McCarthy may help to send the fight to a second ballot.

If that happens, they will be under enormous pressure from the Kennedy brothers on the one side and the men who run the White House on the other.

The power of the Presidency is great even if the man holding the office is only sure of exercising it until next January.

Some of the Democratic chieftains who quit as delegates are now privately happy that they will not be caught in the middle of a Johnson-Kennedy fight.

Others regret they acted so hastily. They'd welcome the furor, the excitement and the opportunity to trade their votes.

Headlights And Highlights From Newton South High

By KATE SOLOMON

The senior class at Newton South High School has finalized plans and is set to work, along with the other students at South, for the annual spring Arts Festival, which will last five days, from May 7-11.

Tuesday, the first evening, three or four, students will present one-act plays which will be presented. Mr. Ernest Chamberlain, of the theatre arts department, will produce the plays.

Wednesday evening will have a wide variety of the arts demonstrated, from an art exhibition, the music of a few rock and roll bands, to the ministrations of folk artists.

The parents' annual PTSA elections will take place Thursday evening along with a full formal concert featuring the Newton South band, orchestra, and concert choir.

Friday evening the festival will offer a short program on chamber music, under the direction of Mr. David Levinsohn, and modern dance under the direction of Miss Ruth Crawford. Following the program will be a square dance, complete with professional country musicians, and a square dance caller, which will be produced by Mr. Samuel Buselle.

The final evening, Saturday, the festival will offer an evening of music and drama, produced by English teacher, Mr. Jonathan Slater. His classes will present a dramatic reading set to music of selections from Edgar Lee Masters' "Spoon River Anthology." This will be followed by Mr. Slater's adaptations of portions of "Huckleberry Finn," with music and modern dance. And finally, the story of the Creation, Chapter one and two of Genesis, will be presented with orchestra, speaking chorus, and dance.

The music has been especially composed for this evening by Mr. Louis Weingarden of the Juilliard school of music, in New York. He also wrote the music for "Spoon River," and the adaptation of "Huckleberry Finn."

Mr. Weingarden recently received the highly coveted Prix de Rome, worth $15,000, awarded by the Paris conservatory of music to composers of promise and merit.

Beth Poplin, a associate editor of Denebola, was named as one of the forty national finalists from 2,500 students, in the Westinghouse Science Talent Search. And Richard Primack was named a semi-finalist in the search.

The forty finalists, from seventeen states, went on an expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. There, a board of judges selected ten winners who received four year scholarships ranging from $4,000 to $10,000. And Beth along with the remaining thirty were awarded $250.

While in Washington, D.C., she met scientists from the National Institutes of Health, and other scientific centers in the area. Beth was interviewed by judges, among whom was Glenn Seaborg, head of the atomic energy commission and finally she met Senator Charles Percy, Senator Edward Brooke, and Richard Nixon.

After returning from the trip Beth said "the best part of the entire trip was meeting kids from all over the nation."

Professor Archibald Cox, one of the nation's leading labor experts and a professor of law at Harvard University, spoke to an interested group of students on the topic of Freedom of Speech, and his application to our time.

Professor Cox said the first amendment of the Bill of Rights, freedom of speech, eased the struggle for religious and political freedom. The amendment was written in terms of what the congress may do concerning the matter but the individual states could restrict the freedom of speech.

He then sighted some conflicts in the freedom of speech in American history starting with the Alien and Sedition laws, World War I draft cases, and the McCarthy era in the fifties.

Professor Cox declared that the "prime purpose of speech is to secure the opportunity for debate, without which the Democratic government could not operate." He then listed the different kinds of speech, religious and political; books, drama, science, etc.; picketing and speech inducing action; offensive speech, obscene language, and teaching to overthrow the government.

He went on to say, the problems confronting the Supreme Court grow out of the problems of the day. The most pressing questions of freedom of speech grow out of, racial relation problems, the Vietnam War, and the draft. He then gave examples of the three problems.

When speaking about the racial difficulties Professor Cox said Rapp Brown, of the student non-violent corps, spoke in Cambridge, Maryland, about the wrongs that Negroes suffered, and he fired the Negroes and incited them to riot. The night following the speech the Negroes of the city did riot, and the Maryland state authorities brought a criminal prosecution charge against Brown for inciting a riot.

The constitutional question was: Was Brown exercising a right of the first amendment or does the first amendment mean that congress shall make no laws to abridge the freedom of speech, or just when it can.

Professor Cox stated that you have to take risks if you are going to tolerate speech. Speech is forbidden when it presents clear and current danger. Applying this to Rapp Brown's case he would be convicted, but it allows moral restrictions on political speeches which the Supreme Court would have to take into consideration.

Concerning the Vietnam war, the present Selective Service act says it is a crime to help advise others to refuse induction into the armed forces.

Dr. Benjamin Spock and Yale chaplain William Solane Coffin were charged with conspiring to counsel, aid and abet against the draft.

Two questions are raised from this, were they exercising the right under the first amendment, and did they have a right? The question is whether the words used were used in such a nature as to create a clear and present danger, that they will bring about evils that Congress has a right to prevent.

If the words they used were not constitutionally protected, "I urge, you men not to register," then they could be convicted. However, Professor Cox said, suppose one said "don't register, go to Canada," he could be prosecuted. Then suppose the same man delivered a moving speech about the moral and evil wrongs with the war, and as a result people went to Canada.

"There is a difference between the two speeches, and we do not want to forbid speech attacking policy, but we don't want to do the reverse. Every speech that has a consequence may be forbidden, but we do not want to forbid all speech. A purpose of speech is to convince people, to do things that you are really suggesting to them.

Clear and present danger suggests "urgency," which applies to all people who disregard the draft. The draft is tied in with the previous case, Vietnam and Dr. Spock.

Professor Cox then quoted Justice Brandeis by saying, "if there is time for reflection between the speech and the action, then the state has the right to deal with it, and if there is not time between the speech and the action then the speech is constitutionally protected." With this as law Dr. Spock would be free except, he urged people to turn in their draft cards.

Professor Cox speech was then followed by a short question and answer period.

Final Chamber Music Event Is Due April 7th

The Parents Association of the All Newton Music School will be closing the current season of its Chamber Music Series by featuring the "Early Music Quartet" which devotes itself to the vocal and instrumental music of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance, composed between the eleventh and sixteenth centuries.

This third and last concert of the series will be heard on Sunday evening, April 7 at 8 p.m. in the Elizabeth Fyffe Hall of the All Newton Music School, 321 Chestnut street, West Newton.

Founded in 1960 by musicologist Thomas Binkley, the "Early Music Quartet" consists of specially trained artists, who have devoted years of study to renovating these early works in the authentic spirit of the age. Their instruments are either exact copies of the old ones or reconstructions based on iconographic material, literary sources, and still existent related instruments.

This quartet has revived the timeless musical essence and now may see it accepted on its actual merits: on an equal footing with the far better known compositions of the Baroque, Classical, Romantic and Modern Periods.

After setting up headquarters in Munich, the ensemble spent its first year building up an extremely comprehensive repertoire. Since 1961 they have been touring in performances all over Europe and its festivals, the Far and Near East, and South America.

This concert is open to the public and tickets are available from the office of the All Newton Music School or from the Concert Committee Chairmen, Mrs. Arthur E. Vershbow, 332-5171; and Mrs. Floyd H. Gilles, 969-6591. A limited number of student tickets is available. Proceeds from this concert is for the benefit of the school's scholarship fund.

Profile Of An Athlete

By BRUCE KOPELMAN

and LEWIS FREEDMAN

Jim Baker Of Harvard

(The third in a series of interviews with top track stars in the United States today.)

James V. Baker is rapidly becoming the most popular American import of a British product since the Beatles. (At least in Boston, anyway.) The six foot, 155-pound Harvard cross-country and track star still returns home to Northfleet in Kent County every summer.

Baker is one of the strongest, versatile runners to hit Cambridge in a long time. Still in his sophomore year, Baker is already the owner of a 4:05.9 mile, 8:48.4 2 mile, 2:14.8 1000-yard run, and a 1:51.6 leg of a 7:28.1 mile relay. The 24-year-old Baker, however, is strongest in cross country. His seven straight dual-meet victories paced the Crimson Harriers to an unblemished 9-0 slate. This includes a 25:19 5-mile at Vancourtland Park, New York.

Despite all his outstanding individual performances, Baker cites his greatest track thrill as being part of Harvard's 7:28.1 relay team. "Coming within 1.6 seconds of a world record is not something you do often."

Jim Baker has been running organized track for the last 10 years. "I first became interested in track," he said, "when I was around 12 years of age in secondary school. I think it is the highly competitive side of the sport which attracts me most."

Replying to the question of how he stays in shape out of season, Baker said:

"Whilst at Harvard there is really no problem about keeping in shape between seasons because there is no break." Cross-country runs from September 1 to November 27, indoor track from December 9 to March 16, and outdoor from March 31-June 1. "Once cross-country is over we move indoors till March, then go outdoors after spring vacation. There is really no time to get out of shape. In the summer I try to run as much as possible, but I also like to swim and play tennis. If I am home in England, I compete for a London club." This is in contrast to high school track where there is a break of 1½ months between cross-country and indoor track and a 2-month lay-off between indoor and outdoor track.

When questioned on the NYAC boycott of last month and the proposed Negro boycott of last month and the proposed Negro boycott of the Olympics, Baker stated, "On the boycott of the NYAC games, I am sympathetic with the Negro athletes, however, I do not respect the right of any club to set up its own rules of admission, even if color is one of them. This does not mean to say I would join the NYAC if invited. I would not."

"I do not agree with the proposed Negro boycott of the Olympics. I do not think this is the best way for the Negroes to get what they want and the idea of bringing politics into sport does not attract me at all."

Jim Baker is currently majoring in French at Harvard. Next year, however, he is planning to transfer to the Harvard Business School. Asked in what way this would affect his track career, he responded with, "I do not expect to find time to continue running as seriously as this year. However, I feel I will always remain in the sport in some capacity whether as an official or a coach. I expect I will continue running for fun for a long while to come."

Newton Girl Is Touring England In Sports Event

Lois Perlman, daughter of Rabbi and Mrs. Samuel Perlman of Huntington road, Newton, is participating in a unique sporting venture with the Cambridge School of Weston, during their spring vacation.

Along with 30 boys and 15 girls from the school miss Perlman is touring England where they are playing soccer, rugby, basketball and girls' lacrosse against English schools including the famous Rugby School.

The Cambridge School, a small, co-educational, independent boarding and day school, began pioneering rugby in the U.S. when it decided that high school football had become too professional and too demanding for academically oriented students. This decision was a difficult one for the former headmaster, the late Adolphus Cheek, a captain of Harvard and All-American quarterback.

Soccer and rugby are played at the school as they are in England, fast fluid games without substitution. They will compete against English schools of all types from the state-sponsored comprehensive schools to the starved "public school," like Rugby and Eton College, which are actually private and strictly "upper-class."

The tour, in process now, began March 13 and continues to April 1.

Red Cross Drive For Blood Aid To Cooley's Anemics

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Newton during the month of April when an intensive donor drive will be conducted throughout Massachusetts.

More than 50 regional chairmen have been named who will co-operate with the state organization and local Red Cross Chapters in an effort to obtain blood donors for a quota of 500 donations. Special appeals will be made to local companies, fraternal, religious and social groups.

The Red Cross is cooperating in this drive with the Cooley's Anemia Blood and Research Foundation for Children, Inc., established just over a year ago to help fight this incurable childhood blood disease often requiring transfusions every three weeks to keep its victims alive. Parents of Cooley's Anemic children find it increasingly difficult to obtain volunteer blood donors on a continuous basis.

For these victims as well as to replenish blood supplies for the Massachusetts hospitals campaign is being conducted.

When questioned on the NYAC boycott of last month and the proposed Negro boycott of last month and the proposed Negro boycott of the Olympics, Baker stated, "On the boycott of the NYAC games, I am sympathetic with the Negro athletes, however, I do not respect the right of any club to set up its own rules of admission, even if color is one of them. This does not mean to say I would join the NYAC if invited. I would not."

"I do not agree with the proposed Negro boycott of the Olympics. I do not think this is the best way for the Negroes to get what they want and the idea of bringing politics into sport does not attract me at all."

Jim Baker is currently majoring in French at Harvard. Next year, however, he is planning to transfer to the Harvard Business School. Asked in what way this would affect his track career, he responded with, "I do not expect to find time to continue running as seriously as this year. However, I feel I will always remain in the sport in some capacity whether as an official or a coach. I expect I will continue running for fun for a long while to come."

Our Man D. K. Directs South Sweatsuit Set

By BRUCE KOPELMAN

Donald K. Shelton is one of the reasons why life with the sweatsuit set at Newton South runs smoothly.

Our man D. K. is an art teacher at Warren Junior High and doubles as head coach of the Newton South indoor track team. A former timber-topper, Mr. Shelton stays in condition by practicing with his team.

Equally versatile in the art field Shelton draws, paints and illustrates. His major interest is in art history toward which he hopes to work for his doctorate degree.

As a schoolboy, Donald held Boston city records in both the 50-yard low (6.5) and high hurdles (6.7), the 45-yard high hurdles (6.0), and the 120-yard high hurdles (15.2). (The last two records were also Massachusetts state records.) Donald also leaped 5 feet 6 inches in the high jump and broad jumped 20 feet 1 inch.

From 1949 to 1953, Mr. Shelton attended Virginia State College where he raced to a 10.1 hundred and a 51-second quarter mile. He also recorded the fine times of 15.6 in the 120-yard high hurdles and 24.6 in the 220-yard high hurdles. He attended Virginia State College through an athletic scholarship and was captain of the track team in his senior year.

After graduation, Shelton continued his track career for Uncle Sam. While in the 101st Airborne Division he set records in the 120-yard high hurdles (14.9) and the 220-yard low hurdles (22.6). His 54.2 clocking in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles earned him a U.S. Army-European record. In addition, he blazed to a 49.8 in the quarter mile, establishing personal records.

As an officer in the 11th Airborne Division, Mr. Shelton coached and competed on the division team. Under his tutelage his division artillery team was 1956 Division Champion and his 101st Airborne team captured top laurels in the Army and A.A.U. finals in the midwest for three straight years, 1958-60.

While in the service, Shelton competed against Ralph Boston. He comments:

"Ralph was a one-man track team, consistently winning five events: the broad jump (25 feet), high jump (6 ft. 2 in.), high hurdles (14.5), low hurdles (22.0) and the pole vault (14 feet). I ran my best in the 220 lows against Ralph (22.6)."

His last seven years of active competition were a combination of coaching and running. "I enjoyed both equally well; however, since my competitive days are over, coaching is the closest thing to competition I can attain."

From 1963 to 1966 he helped coach Warren Junior High to three successive city championships in track and field. When asked which level he preferred to coach, junior high or high school, Shelton replied: "Coaching in high school is more rewarding than in junior high because boys are more conscientious, willing to work harder, and are more appreciative of the efforts of the coach. However, workouts are harder, and more planning is involved in high school track. The rules, techniques, and savoir-faire are stressed along with physical preparation for competition."

Shelton doesn't believe his coaching is affected by not teaching at South, "but the contact with individual boys during school hours is minimized."

Mr. Shelton noted that "the spirit among the majority of the boys on this year's team has been extremely high, and I must say that this is unusual where, in my opinion, the overall interest in track is very low in your school."

"This year's team had determination, spirit and resourcefulness; but you don't win meets on these alone. We had a consistent winner in only one event and we lacked the necessary depth in the others; this coupled with the lack of a six-foot high-jumper and key injuries to our very promising 2-miler and 300-yarder made our outlook very gloomy. However, I was much impressed by the initiative and hard work that was put out during training and at meets."

Coach Shelton predicts that next year's team will be better balanced. "I am looking for good performances in the high jump, mile, the 1000, 600 and 300 yard runs, and the hurdles. The dash men and shot putters should be improving and if we can field a good 2-miler we'll be in business."

Shelton evaluates the outdoor track team differently. He believes that the "outdoor team will be much larger and better balanced. Having many more track and field men

Champ Team Gets Lettermen Back at Newton

Newton Junior College Baseball Team, last year's Massachusetts Junior College Baseball Champions, greeted 20 candidates for the team at last week's organization meeting. Coach Rollins is quite optimistic about this year's prospects as 5 lettermen are returning from last year's squad.

Back is Dick Paulino at third, also Jim Curley who played shortstop last year but will probably move over to second this year, Tom Arbuckle last year's regular catcher, Tom Grondin an ace relief pitcher who saved 5 games last year, and Ed Messina an outfielder. Paulino, Curley, and Grondin are this year's tri-captains.

Among the newcomers who look like they might help considerably are pitchers Warren Dean, and Tony Ciccia from Newton plus Paul Hoban the 1967 Newton South Captain.

"With the strong nucleus of returning veterans and the addition of some talented newcomers, I feel we have an excellent opportunity to successfully defend our championship. Naturally we are going to miss Jim McLaughlin who won 5 games last year. Joe Carolina who helped in 2 big games last year with key hits, and Bob Cerra last year's captain. But the attitude of the kids is great, they are confident and know the other teams have to beat us."

Newton is a member of the Massachusetts Junior College Baseball League made up of Newton, Burdett College, Bryant & Stratton, Graham, Jr. College, and Newbury School of Business.

METCO Urges Tuition Reduction In Newton School Busing Plan

Mrs. Katherine Jones, a West Newton resident and Chairman of Newton's Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunity (METCO), led the discussion at Thursday night meeting (March 14) of that group on decisions pertaining to future members and tuition of the children involved in the two-year-old busing program.

The Newton METCO Committee requested an opportunity to appear before the Newton School Committee in a letter to Dr. Charles Brown, Superintendent of Schools, to make its position known on continuation of the innovative program and "tuition waiver" when it comes before that committee.

"METCO youngsters comprise about four one-thousandths of one percent (.004) of Newton public school children," said Mrs. Jones. "Yet this small portion of youngsters has created a cultural interchange whose benefits have been immeasurable to both the white host community and the black urban areas." Mrs. Jones explained that Wellesley has reduced its tuition to METCO pupils to a charge figured as closely as possible to the actual out-of-pocket expense to the town. Newton METCO has asked for a similar procedure in the Garden City.

Instituted under Title III of the National Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (89-10), the METCO busing program involved 50 pupils whose tuition, instructional materials and transportation were federally funded.

Last June 12, the Newton School Committee approved the enrollment in the Newton public schools of 26 more elementary school students from Boston as tuition pupils for the school year 1967-68, funding subsequently being provided by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under provisions of Chapter 506, Acts of 1966, to cover the cost of tuition and transportation.

At this time, eight elementary schools and Warren Junior High School have METCO students. The elementary schools are Clafin, Countryside, Davis, Horace Mann, Hyde, Oak Hill, Spaulding, and Williams. Grades 1 through 7 are represented, and students have been placed where vacancies permit additional placement, not to exceed 25 per class.

A volunteer program of host parents (who provide lunches and "second homes" during school hours), back-up host parents, social workers, tutors has smoothed the way for the METCO plan in Newton.

"Suburban communities," Mrs. Jones stated, "must make a commitment to the education of urban youngsters — and METCO provided this opportunity. Communication channels have opened; scopes have broadened. Even before the President's Commission issued its dramatic findings on white racism, METCO had one answer — at a people-to-people, child-to-child level."

At the same meeting, Mrs.

Jones announced that Tufts University Psychiatrist Dr. Alvin Poussant had addressed a group of public school teachers earlier in the day at the Mason Rice School. Teachers attending have METCO youngsters in their classes.

Topic of discussion was the adjustment of Negro children to their suburban school environments.

The Newton Public Schools and METCO Committee have been consulted in the consideration of a Great Neck, Long Island, busing plan, Mrs. Jones announced. The Committee of Great Neck Citizens and Officials of the School Department recently visited Newton to discuss the Garden City's approach to METCO. Representing the Newton School Department was Dr. Edward Landy, Assistant Superintendent; for the Newton School Committee, Mrs. Norma Mintz; for METCO, Mrs. Nina King and Mrs. Katherine Jones.

Representing METCO in leading a discussion for a Newton High School class recently were METCO Commit-

A Mini-Dance Work Shop At Newton Library Mon.

The third in the series of Mini-Talks at the Newton Free Library is set for Monday, March 25, at 7:15 p.m. with Norma Canner and Harriet Klebanoff, authors of "And A Time To Dance," presenting a Mini-Dance Workshop.

An exhibit of photographs from the newly published book will be shown at the Main Library through April 9. The two art forms, dance and photography, have been cleverly combined by the talented duo, with Mrs. Klebanoff's pictures complementing the creative movements of Norma Canner's modern dance.

Mrs. Klebanoff of Lexington, a former teacher at Franklin School in Newton, began her photography career through her training in art and the accident of taking family travel and baby films. She began reading, experimenting and taking courses at B.U. and M.I.T. as well as the DeCordova Museum and has perfected her craft.

"My work with the Department of Mental Health, and particularly with Norma Canner, has provided me with a perfect opportunity to work in areas in which I am most familiar," commented Mrs. Klebanoff.

"We have tried to let the art of photography speak for the art of dance and dance for photography. You can see tee activists Mrs. Gershen Rosenblum and Mrs. Thomas Morris. They presented the METCO history and its goals prior to answering students' questions.

From 1957 to today Norma Canner has been working with retarded youngsters in dance experiences. AND A TIME TO DANCE is a direct result of many lectures and workshops she has given where teachers and mothers asked her for specific details of her techniques. Her new book is not only a moving experience for any reader, but it is also a clear-cut manual for anyone interested in using dance as a therapy tool with her own child, in a regular pre-school or kindergarten classroom, or with retarded youngsters.

In her book, Mrs. Canner says, "I used to think that only special people had the need to express their creative feelings. I didn't know that anyone could dance, that people of great differences could communicate through movement, sharing their joys and pleasures, their angers and frustrations."

It is clear that Norma Canner and Harriet Klebanoff are sharing with the world, through AND A TIME TO DANCE, their joys and pleasures.

Belmont Church Setting For Boyce-Burke Wedding

One of winter's loveliest bride is the former Miss Sheila Marie Burke, whose marriage to Kenneth Ingram Boyce was solemnized recently at St. Joseph's Church in Belmont.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund P. Burke of Belmont. Mrs. Irene Boyce of Newtonville is the groom's mother.

The Rt. Rev. Joseph Regan celebrated the 11 o'clock nuptial mass. The Fantasia's

Lido Room was the scene of the reception.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a skimmer gown fashioned of traditional white satin. The molded bodice had a wide stand-up neckline and elbow length sleeves while he smartly styled skirt terminated in a cathedral length train.

Her mantilla was made of imported Spanish lace. She carried a bouquet of white orchids with Stephanotis.

Mrs. Mary Starratt of Burlington was her sister's matron of honor. Miss Maureen Healey of Arlington and Mrs. Joanne Berger of Belmont were the other attendants. Identically attired, they wore mauve satin empire dresses bodiced with plum colored velvet topped with floral headpiece of mauve and plum carnations with heather. They carried similar flowers.

Joseph Codispoti of Waltham served as best man. The ushers were Edmund Burke of Belmont, brother of the bride, and George Celis of Woburn.

A graduate of Emmanuel College, the bride is a teacher in Burlington.

Mr. Boyce is a graduate of Northeastern University.

When they return from a trip to Nasseau they plan to make their home in Woburn. (photo by Bradford Bachrach)

Feldman With Helicopter Unit

"It gets rather hairy flying low level in the middle of the night, but it sure is worthwhile when ole Charlie is on the receiving end of the big tube," comments First Lieutenant Gerald A. Feldman, of Newton, who is one of the "Rat Patrol".

They are a counter-mortar patrol that has "kicked the skids, lit the fires, pulled the pitch and gone out on the prowl for enemy mortar positions" the past few weeks. It is their special mission to fly low level over the perimeter defensive positions, always at night, in mountainous terrain with no moon and a lot of intestinal fortitude.

PLEASE
ME!

My name is Larry Eisen and I live at 152 Washington St., Newton Corner. I am a Friendly Four and a half year old boy and I desperately need help with my "patterning".

My mother says that if you will come to my house once a week for forty minutes I have an excellent chance of leading a normal life. Anyone can learn to "pattern". It's a simple procedure in which my head, arms and legs are moved in positions like swimming for five minutes at a time, with a half hour rest in between.

Study Tours In Europe Arranged By Ex-Teacher

Mrs. Hugh W. Crawford of Wellesley Hills, a parent, and former teacher of the Newton and Wellesley Public Schools, is recruiting a group of interested students of French, for a six week summer study program in Grenoble, France, from June 28th to August 9th, 1968, under the direction of ISA (International Studies Association) of New York City, New York. Miss Carol L. Pope also of Wellesley is the regional-coordinator in this area.

ISA is a non-profit association of high school teachers and students located at 175 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Mrs. Crawford has had a year's study at the University of Paris, the Institute at Tours, a summer at Middlebury College, and at Harvard School of Education. She has also traveled extensively in France, the British Isles, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Belgium and the Scandinavian countries.

The study programs conducted at renowned universities in six European countries, offer students from the elementary, intermediate, and advanced group, the opportunity to learn first hand about the language, culture, history and literature of the different European countries.

Participants will reside at university residences and will attend four weeks of varied courses offered by the universities' summer programs. Classroom work will be complemented by contact with other students coming from all over Europe, lectures, visits to historical and

Math Art Exhibits At Free Library During This Month

The close relationship between art and mathematics is explored this month at the Newton Free Library in a novel display of geometric art creations by mathematics students of Miss Maria Rizzo, teacher at Warren Junior High School.

The student work shows that art and mathematics are quite closely related. Miss Rizzo says, "All around us we see math in the beauty of nature and in the creations of man. The students at Warren have tried to incorporate the mathematical concepts and techniques into their own creations. For the most part, geometrical ideas have been used. However, there are other mathematical ideas in the students' work."

cultural sites, weekend excursions, and finally, by a two-week tour of the country escorted by American Express.

Students between the ages of 15 and 21, who are interested in learning more about the program can get in touch with Mrs. Crawford for available brochures, by calling 235-2490, or writing to 17 Oakland street, Wellesley Hills, Mass. 02181.

Mason, Dianne Rigby, Heidi Schiller, Randy Deats, Debby Berko, Judy Batista, Mike Hurwitz, Peggy Braasch, Jane Bloom, Paula Wren, John Barksdale, Cathy Curby, Gary Stone, Seth Hellerstein, Susan Schofield, Kris Huncardie, Eric Wilker, Peter Alewicz, Alan Larrabee and Dave Solomon.

Miss Maria Rizzo is a dynamic young teacher who says math is fun and who communicates this enthusiasm to her students. A resident of Wayland, she earned her B.A. at Jackson and her M.A. at Tufts. She says, "The logic, the inherent structure of math is fascinating and exciting. If the enthusiasm can be shared, then more mathematicians can be developed."

A companion group of math books is displayed with the unique mathematical art work. Among the books are The Pleasures of Math (Goodman); The New Math For Parents (Heimer and Newman); Math and Aftermath (Hooke and Shaffer); Puzzles and Pastimes (Bakst); and More Numbers (Friend).

The entire math-art exhibit will remain on display through the month of March.

Rehabilitation Talk To Zonta Club Of Newton

The Newton Zonta Club heard an address by Sister Mary Christine of St. Margaret's Convent of Boston, at their monthly meeting on March 14 at the Highlands Restaurant in Newton Centre.

Sr. Mary Christine related to the group details of their order's work in rehabilitation of released women prisoners. She explained the need of these women, both while awaiting trial, and upon release from prison, for a place to go and for occupation during long periods of inactivity.

Women 17 and older detained at the Suffolk County Jail may be held from 1 month to a 1 year due to the overloaded courts. The Sisters have introduced sewing, knitting, arts and crafts as well as movies and games to them. They have a corps of 30 volunteers who help to make these women feel that there is something worthwhile in life. Frequently they provide clothes for these women who often have only the clothes which they were wearing when arrested.

The Sisters also realized the need of a place to go when released from prison since these women may be crippled by their fear of the future. They are given hope and a haven while seeking employment in a house obtained for this purpose by the Sisters. This home can maintain 8 girls at a time for their period of rehabilitation and they may stay as long as a year.

Volunteers for this work may contact the St. Margaret's Convent at Louisburg Square in Boston.

New members of the Newton Zonta Club are Mrs. Barbara Grant, Mrs. Ruth Lucas and Miss Julouse Paulsen. The Waltham and Framingham clubs were guests at this meeting.

Concordia Collegiate Choir To Sing At Lutheran Church

The choir of Concordia Collegiate Institute, Bronxville, New York, will be heard in Newton Centre on April 3, at 8:00 p.m. in a concert of sacred music sponsored by the Lutheran Church of the Newtons, the Rev. Robert L. Griesse, pastor.

The Concordia Choir, under the direction of Dr. Ralph C. Schultz, is appearing on its annual concert tour, performing in Lutheran Churches and schools in upper New York State, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut. The choir's season will conclude with a concert in Carnegie Hall in New York City on May 5.

The program takes its theme, A New Song, from the opening line of Psalm 96: "O sing to the Lord a new song," beginning with a setting of these words written some 300 years ago by Heinrich Schuetz. The theme is developed in three sections with music drawn from the works of great composers in the past as well as from contemporary music literature.

The music in the first section is based on texts from the Psalms, featuring especially Bach's motet No. 6: Praise The Lord, All Ye Nations. The second section is based on Lutheran Chorales and the final group is drawn from carol literature, including portions of Britten's A Ceremony of Carols. The emphasis throughout is on the Christian's joyful response to God's grace in Christ.

The Choir's fifty-five members are a cross section of various programs in Concordia Junior College and are preparing for full time church service careers, for other pro-

Watershed Assoc. Records Opposition To Stadium

Frank E. Whitmarsh, president of the Charles River Watershed Association, Inc., recently notified Senator James A. Kelly, Jr., Chairman of the Committee on State Administration, of the Association's opposition to the stadium bill H. 3879 filed by Newton Representative Paul F. Malloy. Senator Kelly has assured CRWA by letter of his opposition to this bill.

Last year CRWA opposed a similar plan by William A. Lincoln's Commonwealth Stadium Associates for a stadium complex at the same location astride the Needham-Dedham line in the Cutler Park MDC Reservation wetland.

The Metropolitan Area Planning Council's Summary Program for the Charles River says, "The marshes in Cutler Park are the last natural open area in the lower portion of the Charles River. They are large enough to provide a good wildlife habitat, and should be carefully conserved for flood protection flow equalization and nature study."

In view of the flood experience of 1955, when much of the Cutler Park flood plain was under as much as seven feet of water, according to the 1956 Turner Report — CWRA agrees with the MAPC recommendation.

The Metropolitan District Commission, recognizing the necessity of protecting this flood plain, took Cutler Park by eminent domain in 1962 as part of its flood control system which extends from South Natick dam to Watertown dam.

CRWA is of the opinion that in the event of future floods, the role of Cutler Park in delaying flood run-off, will be even more critical for West Roxbury, Dedham, Needham, Newton, Wellesley, Waltham, and Watertown.

This is because of the numerous constrictions downstream from Cutler Park — which the Charles has experienced since 1955. Flood control channelization below Kendrick street bridge; industrial and flood plain construction in Needham and Wellesley; dumps in flood plains in West Roxbury, Newton, Waltham, and Watertown; and the widening of Route 128 have squeezed this section of the river's channel.

Therefore, CRWA will continue to oppose any type of development which would reduce Cutler Park's capacity to slow up flood run-off. The Association is pleased with the denial in February by the Boston Zoning Commission of a petition for multi-family housing on a Saw Mill Brook wetland portion of historic Brook Farm on Baker street just south of the Newton-West Roxbury boundary.

At their March meeting in Dedham, the CRWA Directors unanimously supported the position of the Needham Conservation Commission that Cutler Park be allowed by the MDC to remain essentially in its natural state — with improvements limited to better maintenance of existing roadways, primarily for MDC police vehicles, town fire apparatus, and pedestrians; provision of a small parking area to eliminate park visitors' use of parking spaces belonging to the business firms on Kendrick street.

For several years past, Cutler Park has been used for Massachusetts Audubon Society's bird walks. This year the spring migration walks are directed by Mrs. Robert Pratt (444-5202) and Mrs. Davis Spaulding (444-9059) on Mondays at 8:30 a.m. beginning on March 25. Newton residents may join the walks and meet at Cutler Park behind the Georgia-Pacific building on Kendrick street.

METCO Tuition Review Asked

Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of Newton schools, said last week that when the Newton School Committee reviews the METCO program this spring it will probably have to make decisions regarding numbers and tuition.

Members of the Newton Coordinating Committee of the Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunities, in an informal letter to Dr. Brown in January, requested that when the time came for the School Committee to talk about METCO, they would like a chance to make their position known on these matters, particularly their questions as to a "tuition waiver."

The Boston headquartered Council has sent a memo asking about numbers in order to make plans for the next school year.

The subject of reduced tuition has come up because Wellesley reduced its METCO pupil tuition, arriving at a charge figured close to the actual out-of-pocket expense to the town. Since it was done, Dr. Brown said, the Newton Coordinating Committee has asked that Newton do something similar.

Just recently, while the candy sale was going on, the Spanish Club sponsored two teachers to sing Spanish songs. Miss Kosh, the head of Speech Clinic at NHS and lead singer in numerous musical plays, and Miss Nemetz, a student teacher in Spanish, were the singers. Miss Kosh was accompanied by a pianist and Miss Nemetz accompanied herself on the guitar.

Sometime in April, a woman from the Career Center will come to talk to the Spanish Club. She will explain to the members what opportunities are open for jobs and careers in Spanish speaking countries, especially in Latin America.

Last fall, the Spanish Club gave a Spanish dinner at Newton High School. The club bought the food, cooked it in the NHS Home Economics Department, and served it to the thirty or so members present that night.

The Spanish Club Christmas Party was highlighted by a homemade Pinata. The Pinata resembled a South American bull and was filled with all sorts of candy.

Publication Competition

The Newtonite and the Newtonian are two completely separate publications. The Newtonite is the school newspaper. The Newtonian is the school yearbook.

However, the two publications came together three Wednesdays ago, March 5 for a basketball competition: Newtonite seniors vs. Newtonian seniors.

No one who had ever played for a Newton High basketball team was allowed to participate in the game. Girls were encouraged to play.

Latin Newspaper

The Latin Club has already sponsored the film "Ulysses," a college bowl contest, and a play. Its latest endeavor is to put out a Latin newspaper, a paper written entirely in Latin.

The newspaper, entitled "Novum Oppidum Signum" is run by Dwight Dewsnap and Steve Ringer, with student teacher Miss Branch as the advisor. The title of the paper is translated "The Newton Standard" and was suggested by Steven Ringer.

The Latin newspaper includes articles discussing the dress code ("Maxima Toga vs. Minima Toga"), a "Dear Julius" column, and an article entitled, "How to cheat on a Latin translation."

There will be a short vocabulary section at the back of the newspaper to help the reader. The paper itself will be distributed free of charge to all Latin students.

PTA Council Eyes School Bus Safety

"Just how safe are school buses?" was a question raised at last Thursday's meeting of the Newton PTA Council which was chaired by Bernard I. Kaplan, president.

In the interest of public safety and accident prevention, teachers, principals, PTA presidents and parents voted unanimously to request that the School Committee "investigate promptly and issue a public report on the safety conditions in connection with school buses in Newton."

Meeting as guests of the Mason-Rice School, the Council was welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Rottenberg, PTA co-presidents and Miss Elaine Panaretos, principal. Among the notables attending were Dr. Charles E. Brown, Superintendent of the Newton Schools and Assistant to the Superintendent, Jonathan Daube; Richard Durkin, President of the Newton Teachers Association; School Committee member Edwin Hookridge; Alderman H. James Shea Jr., and Mrs. Malcolm Green of the League of Women Voters.

American and foreign schools were compared by American Field Service students who are living in Newton this year as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeBettencourt, 27 Sterling street, West Newton; and Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Baruch, 130 Dudley street, Newton Centre.

Contrasting the small, all-girls, parochial school she attended in Bogota, Colombia with her current experience as a student at Newton High School, Patricia Chica-Avella studied a much wider variety of courses but finds that Newton pupils delve into each subject more deeply. Kirsten Sorensen used to attend school six days a week, including Saturdays. In Copenhagen, Denmark, the pupils memorize many more facts and dates and enjoy fewer informal discussions with their teachers than they do at Newton South High School.

Kirsten also noted the wide range of extra-curricular activities in Newton that make school life into a more complete experience than the less social program offered in Denmark.

Making an appeal for host families for next year, Leonard Canner, President of the Newton AFS Chapter, talked of the friendship and good will spread by the program throughout the world. Students from Turkey, Austria, and France are also currently studying in our high schools, Mr. Canner said.

Describing the plans for Newton High School, Superintendent Charles Brown said the architects are pondering whether to rebuild or to rehabilitate one or more buildings depending on factors of cost and educational suitability, and also how to phase the work without interrupting the students' education.

Mrs. Gershen Rosenblum of the Council's Building Committee presented time schedules and building plans for various Newton Schools and urged all Newton residents to show an interest by learning the facts and keeping in personal contact with their ward aldermen.

Guest speaker John Penny, Chairman of the Newton Recreation Commission described to the Council the recently installed aqueduct which keeps the water fresh for swimming at Crystal Lake. He described city programs for dance, archery, crafts, basketball, and sailing and he talked about the swim instruction for retarded children at the Sydney Hill Country Club. All junior high school gymnasiums are kept open on Saturdays and during school vacations throughout the school year, he said. Among his future homes for Newton recreation Mr. Penny mentioned indoor swim pools for both high schools, a golf course and an ice skating rink at the Cold Springs Playground, and a small nature museum and ski area at Edmunds Park.

For example, Newton's share of the MBTA deficit will be greater than in 1967, but the Garden City's share of Middlesex County costs may be slightly lower than a year ago.

The tax rate estimate is based on the belief that the Alderman will appropriate $800,000 from surplus funds. This would be the same as last year.

Reports have been circulated that the School Committee may cut about $150,000 from its budget as a result of a reduction in the funds the city will get from the State. That would amount to about 44 cents on the tax rate.

A factor which will help slightly in holding down the tax rate is that the State on July 1 will assume welfare costs now paid by Newton and other cities and towns.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas told the Graphic yesterday that he intends to join with other city and town officials in fighting the reduction in State funds distributed to many local communities, including Newton.

He said he is doing so on the basis of two considerations. One is that Boston is receiving about $7 million more from the State than last year. The other is that Newton has been requested by State tax officials to include on its 1968 tax bills a notation that it received $1,890,276 from the sales tax this year, $216,271 more than last year.

Basbas declared that he and representatives of other cities and towns will meet with State tax officials to present their case and make their protest as soon as an appointment can be arranged.

In what is probably proving to be the most prolonged effort in the history of the city of Newton, the Board of Aldermen after two lengthy sessions is still engaged in trying to pass a record budget for operating the city government this year.

The Board will meet again tonight at 7:30 p.m. to complete, hopefully, passage of the budget which it appears will not fall very short of the $37,124,827.41 recommended by the Finance Committee.

In an all-day session last Saturday the Aldermen spent about four hours debating the 8 per cent across the board salary increases for city employees agreed to by Mayor Basbas in collective bargaining.

A motion by Land Use Committee Chairman Franklin N. Flaschner to cut the 8 per cent to 6 per cent was defeated by a 17 to 56 vote.

Flaschner argued that the Aldermen represented the interests of the taxpayers and did not have the dual obligations to both city employees and the citizens forced on the mayor. He felt direction from the Aldermen might aid the mayor in further negotiations. The proposed salary rise is out of proportion with the cost of living rise, Flaschner maintained.

However, the majority of the board felt that salaries were low in comparison to those offered by industry and other communities and went along with the 8 per cent raises.

A resolution introduced by Alderman Louis I. Egelson urging that wage and salary negotiations for next year be based on cost of living increases except to correct possible inequities was approved by the board along with the 8 per cent increases by an 18 to 3 vote with Aldermen William E. Hopkins, Alan S. Barkin and David W. Jackson opposed.

Also on Saturday $6,000 was trimmed from the budget for an annual report by department heads printed for information of the Aldermen.

The Aldermen restored $3,000 to the budget for an item having to do with public building maintenance.

While the city is making extensive public improvements in the Upper Falls community over the next three years, the project's Housing Inspectors will be visiting all housing units in the area to assure compliance with the minimum housing standards outlined in Article II of the State Sanitary Code.

The Housing Inspectors will also make appropriate referrals to building, plumbing and electrical inspectors if their advice is required. A detailed evaluation of each housing unit will be made by the inspectors. If there are any areas of noncompliance, the housing inspector will advise the owner and occupant of the housing unit and will turn his report over to the Rehabilitation Specialist.

The rehabilitation specialist, who is an expert in the field of residential construction, will translate the deficiencies into a work program and will prepare a detailed cost estimate of the work which will be required to bring the housing unit into full compliance. The rehabilitation specialist will provide the owner or occupant with a list of approved contractors who can do the required work. He will not recommend any single contractor. He will continue to advise the homeowner during the construction period to assure that all work is being done properly.

The rehabilitation specialist will then turn over the projected costs and work program to the financial specialist who is a man skilled in both residential real estate and financing. The financial specialist, in consultation with the owner or occupant, will determine which financing procedure is most advisable for the particular case involved. Because the Upper Falls Improvement Area is a Concentrated Code Enforcement Area, several federal assistance programs are made available to area property owners.

Another matter that drew prolonged discussion was the proposed addition to the Police Department of a deputy chief, three lieutenants, two sergeants and 10 patrolmen.

The board finally approved all the new positions with the exception of five patrolmen.

A motion by Alderman Louis I. Egelson to reduce the proposed number of new lieutenants from three to two and to eliminate one of the present captain's jobs when a deputy chief is named was defeated by a 22 to 1 vote.

Egelson was the sole supporter of his amendment when it came to a vote.

Alderman Sidney T. Small pointed out that the beefing up of the police force in the last couple of years has proved beneficial to the city.

Alderman William P. Matthews noted that the recent increase in the number of patrolmen makes a larger number of higher echelon officers necessary.

The total package of police force officer additions will cost the city about an additional $44,000 a year, Finance Committee Chairman Winslow C. Auryansen reported.

The reduction of the number of new patrolmen from 10 to 5 meant the slicing of $26,622 from the proposed 1968 budget for salaries, $1,000 for overtime and holidays, and $1,000 for uniforms.

Alderman Edward C. Uehlein pointed out at about 12:15 a.m., Tuesday at the conclusion of the second budget session that the Finance Committee, of which he is a member, must have done its job thoroughly since in all its deliberations the board so far had only succeeded in cutting from the budget what would amount to a 12-cent savings on the tax rate, apart from the economies proposed by the Finance Committee.

"Housing" Theme For AJC Meeting

Emma Lazarus Chapter, American Jewish Congress, will devote its March meeting to a presentation of "Housing in the Urban Crisis" with Mrs. Sadelle Sacks, director of Fair Housing, Inc., as discussion leader. The meeting will be held at the Newton Highlands Women's Club, 72 Columbus Street, Newton Highlands, Wednesday evening, March 27 at 8:15. Mrs. Leonard Kogos, president of the chapter, will preside.

Mrs. Sacks will discuss problems arising out of inadequate housing, in particular in the ghetto areas and what has been and what should be done to alleviate conditions. An open forum will follow. The meeting is open to the public.

erty owners to make improvements to their homes to meet minimum code standards. It is the job of the project financial specialist to advise owners and occupants of this assistance.

First, if the family income is below $3,000, or in some cases when housing expenses exceed 25 percent of total family income, an outright grant up to $1,500 may be made to owner-occupants of single and two-family homes if they are required to rehabilitate their homes.

Second, FHA rehabilitation loans at 3 percent rates for a three-to 20-year period are available to owners of property in the Upper Falls area. These loans, which may run up to $14,500 per unit, may be made to finance repairs and improvements needed to meet code minimum standards.

Third, when a homeowner wishes to go beyond the minimum improvements required under the codes, both the rehabilitation and financial specialists will attempt to provide a reasonable level of service to all parties. This assistance may include architectural and rehabilitation advice as well as assistance in securing conventional financing through local banks.

In addition to the financial and rehabilitation specialists, the project staff includes a neighborhood advisor. The neighborhood advisor serves as a permanent liaison between the project and the residents of the Upper Falls Improvement Area. He will be available to advise individuals and groups in the area about the project and what it means to them, and in turn to advise the city and project staff of the wishes of the neighborhood.

Mayor Basbas noted that each member of the project staff is a skilled professional whose only task is to ensure success in the achievement of the project goals—neighborhood improvement. In addition to the full-time project staff of six persons, Mayor Basbas said there are seven members of a "related services" team available to the project. These people include the assistant city solicitor, the senior planner, and building, plumbing, electrical, fire and sanitary inspectors.

The project is undertaken by the Executive Department of the city and will be administered by a project coordinator who is to be an administrative assistant to the Mayor. At the present time, Planning Director James A. Miller is acting as project coordinator, pending the appointment of an administrative assistant. Mr. Miller has been deeply involved with the program since its inception and has carried it through the planning and scheduling stages and has overseen the establishment of the project staff and the site office. Close coordination with other city department functions will be achieved through a project coordinating Committee composed of concerned department heads who will meet regularly and evaluate program progress over the three-year period.

Seniors Turn "Rhinoceros" As Annual Play Scores Hit

By KATE SOLOMON

"RHINOCEROS" has come and gone. Rhinoceros buttons, rhinoceros cookies, rhinoceros heads, rhinoceros-shaped signs . . . people turning into rhinoceroses on stage . . . conformity vs. individuality . . . the concerted effort of eighty students and teachers — all has past now. The NHS senior play, RHINOCEROS, was March 15 and 16, and now is only a memory.

The cast for RHINOCEROS rehearsed every day after school since January 10. They rehearsed four days during February vacation. On Monday and Tuesday of last week they rehearsed until 11 p.m. The cast gave two magnificent performances and were rewarded with two near sell-out crowds.

RHINOCEROS is the story of one man, Beranger, who fights against the masses. It is a catching, yet humorous and "absurd" portrait of that human folly conformity, and by the end of the play practically the entire town has followed each others' footsteps and has turned into rhinoceroses. Yet Beranger, the sole human being left, continues to resist. It is a painful, sometimes almost hopeless struggle for him, but he does not conform.

The costumes and set for the play was purposefully black and white. According to Mr. Gibbons, the faculty director of stage sets, this was to give the play the effect of a television show. The audience was an observer, the actors' problems would never happen to them, the actors themselves were "absurd." Yet the audience became involved for it too was susceptible to the allurements of conformity.

The publicity for RHINOCEROS was quite thorough and imaginative. A six-foot by three-foot rhinoceros was hung on the roof of Building III. Signs were posted in all thirteen parts of Newton and in such places as Harvard Square and Brookline.

Five hundred rhinoceros buttons were manufactured and distributed. The only prerequisite to ownership of these buttons was an oath to wear them every day for two weeks and to explain to whom ever asked that they stood for the Newton High senior play. The Celtic star, Bill Russell, among others, accepted a rhinoceros button.

The rhinoceros campaign inside Newton High began four weeks before the play. For the first week, the Publicity Committee put up signs all over the school saying, "RHINOCEROS is coming!" The second week they replaced these signs with pictures of rhinoceroses. Then, for the last two weeks before the play, they put up rhinoceros posters which gave all the pertinent information about the play.

The latest posters were big rhinoceros heads with about ten pictures on them of the cast and stage crew at work. These posters were placed in each of Newton High's six Common's Rooms as an attempt to increase ticket sales. Roni Sherman, the Publicity Chairman, felt that many students, after looking at the posters and recognizing familiar faces, would then proceed to buy tickets to the play.

Tickets to the play cost $1.25 and were sold at the door. They were also sold in the Newton High cafeteria for two weeks prior to the performances, and at three public stores: Washington Park Drugstore in Newtonville, Hubbard Drugstore in Newton Corner, and Books and Pages Bookstore in Newton Centre.

The play RHINOCEROS was a relatively difficult play to perform. One actor had to turn into a rhinoceros on stage — suddenly becoming as violent and gruff as a beast. Another actor had to portray his emotions and feelings when he was the only human being left, when all he saw around him were rhinoceroses. A third actress had to become thoroughly grieved and hysterical when a rhinoceros ran over her cat. . . RHINOCEROS is humorous only if it is performed correctly. And the senior cast succeeded in making the play amazingly funny.

Kathy Gurd and Neil Silverman played the two lead roles in the play; Daisy and Beranger. John Ziergiebel played Dudard, Andrew Golub played Jean and Fred Swartz played Botard.

The part of Mrs. Bouef was played by Gail Winnick, Glenda Levell played the housewife, and Jon Fleishman was cast as the logician.

The waitress was played by Sue Hurray, Neal Gorfinkle played the Grocer, Donna Ross was cast as the Grocer's Wife, Barry Tatemian played the Old Gentleman, Jeff Simons played the Cafe Proprietor, Alvin Krinsky played Mr. Papiilon, and Mark Whitehouse was cast as the Fireman. Eric Malins originally had a part in the play, but because of an injury was unable to perform.

Not only did the cast work hard on the play for two months, but so did the Directors, the Committee Chairmen, and the Committee Members. In any play, especially one as startling and unique as RHINOCEROS, the people "behind the scenes" are vital to the play's successful production.

Mrs. Judith Brier, a Newton High English and Theatre Arts teacher was the play's Director. Douglas Treem, an NHS senior was the Student Director and Mr. Donald Mitchell was the Consultant for the play.

Jim Weaver, along with senior class advisors, Mrs. Sally Martin and Mrs. Ruth Levine, were the General Managers. The Publicity Committee was headed by Roni Sherman and Tamar Shapiro; the Ticket Committee by Ginny Schulman; Linda Salomone, and Mr. Breshnahan; and the Program Committee by Karen Schepiser, Jon Shuman, and Mrs. Arovos. Marcy Menitove designed the cover of the program — rhinoceros silhouettes surrounded by the words rhinoceroses reprinted several times.

Roni Sherman and Miss Brilliant were Chairmen of the Costume Committee. Ken Appel, Steve Covitz, Mr. Gibbons, and Mr. Ryan of the Stage Crew, Mike Bogen, and Mr. Gibbons of the Props Committee, and Mike Schwab and Mr. Gardner of the Sound Committee.

The Refreshments Committee was headed by Barbara Case, Judy Sudhalter, and Miss Krebs, the Make-Up Committee by Tina Takayangi and Mrs. Levin, and the Ushers by Amy Cohen, Neil Silverman, and Mrs. Levine.

Phil Goldstein designed the rhinoceros buttons and outlined the rhinoceros head for the posters. Bob Kasajani performed the silk-screening.

RHINOCEROS is over. Two months of energetic work and devotion have come to an end. Before the play, the vibrant enthusiasm of the participants was unanimous. Now the enthusiasm belongs to the audience. . .

Accident Prevention To Be Theme Of Chamber Meeting

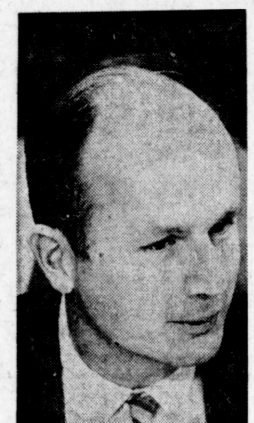

Ways to reduce the number and costs of accidents both on and off the job will be discussed next Tuesday at the Newton Chamber of Commerce's program in "Accident Reduction: It Makes Sense to Save Dollars". The program will begin with coffee at 10:30 a.m., followed by a presentation and then luncheon, all at Valle's Restaurant, Newton Centre.

Bruce Campbell, executive vice president of the Massachusetts Safety Council, will present the program, which is aimed at improving accident prevention programs.

In an announcement regarding the program, it was pointed out that 1 in 4 persons suffer an accident yearly; 52 million persons were injured last year, and 2 million persons were hospitalized, requiring some 22 million bed-days and the services of 88,000 hospital personnel. To care for the accident victims requires more than the necessary services for the 4 million babies born annually in this country or the care necessary for all heart disease victims.

The meeting is open to Newton Chamber of Commerce members, their guests and others who have been invited to attend. Stafford E. Davis, Executive Vice President of the E. C. Hilliard Corp., West Newton and Chairman of the Newton Chamber of Commerce's Public Safety & Health Committee is in charge of arrangements. For further information, please call the Chamber office, 244-5300.

Gun Training Course Held For Police

The Newton Police Department Defense Weapons Training program is being held at the department firing range. As part of the "In-Service" training program, each man is to receive individual instruction and as much practice as is necessary to bring each officer beyond minimum qualification standards.

Captain William F. Quinn stated that "the weapons issued to a police officer are for his personal protection, and the protection of the community, and the criminal using firearms has an advantage of use, but that as a life-saving measure, each officer must know and use his weapons with a skill that can overcome the criminal's advantage."

Head Range Officer, Sergeant Neal Dwyer, stated each man will remain under instruction until his proficiency approaches that of an expert rating. Dwyer went on to state that any weapon is valueless unless the user is qualified. Assisting Dwyer as instructors are: Sergeant Richard J. Nugent, Patrolman John F. Lovely, and Patrolman D. Fraini.

Along with firing, Dwyer and staff accepted the rules of safety, their use as defensive weapons and the selectivity of use.

Dwyer, Nugent, Lovely and Fraini are all qualified by the National Rifle Association and the Municipal Police Training Council as instructors and all are former champions in pistol competitions.

Field Service Sets Up Drive For Funds Here

In this critical year for peace, the Newton Chapter of the American Field Service is now commencing its annual fund-raising drive and invites contributions by the general community.

VOLPE PREDICTS NOMINATION OF JOHNSON, NIXON

GOVERNOR VOLPE yesterday predicted President Johnson would be nominated at the Democratic national convention. The governor also said Richard M. Nixon has the Republican nomination sewed up. Volpe, considered a possible vice presidential candidate, told his weekly news conference he has had "many, many offers of support" while traveling throughout the country in recent weeks.

He said reports that Massachusetts Republicans were switching their registrations to independent and Democratic so they could vote for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in the April 30 primary were "entirely exaggerated."

SEVENTY PER CENT of Brandeis University's senior males say they will try to avoid induction into the armed services. Forty-four seniors said they would leave the country to avoid the draft, according to a poll conducted and released yesterday by the college newspaper, "The Justice."

Of the school's 204 senior males, 180 responded to the poll. The paper said 65 seniors indicated they would seek some sort of deferment, while 16 said they would go to jail rather than be drafted.

MASS. HIGH COURT UPHOLDS MURDER CONVICTION

HOLDING THAT THE Massachusetts wiretapping statute was constitutional, the Massachusetts Supreme Court yesterday upheld the first degree murder conviction and life sentence of a Worcester man. Robert C. Glavin was convicted in Superior Court Jan. 15, 1967, of murdering Wilfred C. Capaldo, a bartender.

Glavin's court-appointed attorney, Arnold Olsson, claimed the constitutional rights of his client had been violated by a tap on the telephone of a woman friend.

A JET AIRLINER and a light plane collided almost head-on in the air last night near the St. Louis, Mo., airport. Two persons were killed. The Ozark Air Lines DC9, on a flight from Chicago to St. Louis with 44 persons aboard, landed safely despite damage to its wing, fuel tank and one engine.

The light plane disintegrated after the collision and crashed at the end of a road north of the airport in suburban Hazelwood, Mo. Police said two bodies were found near its scattered wreckage.

ABRAMS FLIES BACK TO SAIGON FROM CAPITAL TALKS

GEN. CREIGHTON ABRAMS briefed President Johnson and his ranking military, diplomatic and intelligence advisers yesterday on the outlook in Vietnam before flying back to Saigon, still the top contender to succeed Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

Secretary surrounded Abrams' unannounced two-day visit to Washington that included no less than three meetings with the President, who is reviewing the entire U. S. war effort. Johnson characteristically maintained the suspense surrounding his choice of a new U. S. commander in Vietnam by withholding any comment on the matter.

SENATE PANEL OK'S WIRETAPS IN CRIME PROBES

THE SENATE JUDICIARY Committee yesterday voted to authorize court-approved wiretapping and eavesdropping in criminal investigations despite administration pleas to limit "bugging" to national security cases.

Cracking a six-month stalemate which impeded President Johnson's major anticrime measures, the committee voted 10-1 to permit wiretapping under court-order and court-supervision in the investigation of major crimes.

LBJ TELLS CONGRESS TO STOP 'FIDDLING' ON CIVIL RIGHTS

PRESIDENT JOHNSON called on Congress yesterday to stop "fiddling and piddling" and approve a civil rights bill with its controversial open housing provision.

At the same time, House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford said he had rejected pleas from presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon and GOP Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York that he work for immediate House passage of the civil rights bill, including open housing.

85 PER CENT WAR EXCESS PROFITS TAX REJECTED

THE SENATE REJECTED yesterday a plan to impose an extra 85 per cent tax on businesses making what its authors said were excess profits from the Vietnam War. "If more taxes are used to finance a regrettable venture into Vietnamese affairs," said Sen. Frank Church, (D-Idaho), "let us collect those taxes from the interests that are getting fat off the war."

But the Senate voted 74 to 18 to defeat the plan proposed by Church and another war critic, Sen. George McGovern, (D-SD).

GOV. WALLACE HAS BLOOD CLOT IN HER LUNGS

COMMUNIST MIG's are avoiding dogfights over North Vietnam to preserve a deadly counterpunch for use against massive U. S. raids expected when the winter monsoon ends in a few days, American pilots reported yesterday. Some said Hanoi's air force was laying a trap for U. S. jets.

With the air war heating up, troops of the U. S. 25th Infantry Division joined by South Vietnamese forces reported killing 29 Viet Cong yesterday, the second day of bitter jungle combat near the village of Trang Bang 27 miles northwest of Saigon. There was no report on U. S. losses.

CZECH LEADER PLEDGES SUPPORT TO MOSCOW

At the same time, the official Czech Communist newspaper condemned an East German statement on recent developments in Czechoslovakia as "gross interference in our internal affairs."

City-Wide Tribute Seen For Alderman

Preparations are being finalized for the testimonial dinner honoring Alderman Wendell R. Bauckman on the 25th anniversary of his service to the city at the Sidney Hill Country Club next Sunday (March 31), according to Mayor Monte G. Basbas, general chairman of the event.

"The tremendous, spontaneous response to this undertaking truly indicates that Newton is a city with a real heart. The many individuals, civic organizations and business firms that have reserved tables have to be especially commended," said the Mayor.

Aldermen Ire School Board With $100,000 Budget Snip

A tug-of-war over a $100,000 appropriation for a possible elementary school lunch program continued on two fronts Monday night — at a meeting of the School Committee and

A "hot line" or open telephone was maintained between the two bodies during their respective deliberations.

School Committee Chairman Manuel Beckwith declared the action of the Aldermanic Board in even temporarily deleting the $100,000 from the school budget "could not go unnoticed."

The controversy started when the Board of Aldermen last Thursday night knocked the $100,000 lunch program item out of the school budget.

At their meeting on Monday night the School Committee members intimated that the matter would be taken to court if the $100,000 were not restored to the school budget.

The School Board also postponed action on a $150,000 reduction it had planned to make in its budget because of the prospect of a staggering increase in the city's tax rate.

In the Aldermanic chamber on Monday night the Aldermen partly backed down in the school budget row.

A motion by Alderman Jason Sacks to reconsider the cut of $100,000 in the school budget was approved by a vote of 11 to 8.

By a vote of 15 to 4 the Aldermen then approved a motion by Alderman Melvin Dangel which would put the $100,000 in the city's budget reserve pending a decision by the School Committee on whether or not an elementary school lunch program will be started.

A resolution also was adopted declaring that it was the sense of the Aldermanic Board that the $100,000 would be appropriated if and when the School Committee decides to introduce an elementary school lunch program.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas expressed regret at the action of the Board of Aldermen in eliminating the $100,000 from the school budget.

The Mayor said that while he did not agree with the rate of increase in the school budget and had so informed the School Board members, he, nevertheless, realized that the School Committee members were elected by the same voters as were the Mayor and Aldermen.

Basbas said the State laws give the School Committee autonomous authority over the school budget.

Shea, who has been twice elected to the Newton Board of Aldermen declared:

"If I am elected State Representative, I pledge that all my capabilities will be directed toward meeting these standards, and that I will attempt to develop the highest possible level of judgment in analyzing and deciding questions of public policy."

"I intend to render the best possible legislative service for all my constituents without regard to partisan limits. To give the people of West Newton, Newtonville, Nonantum, Newton Corner and Newton Centre an indication of the kind of legislative service I will render, I am taking the following stands on these public issues," Shea stated.

Volpe Moves A Step Closer To 2nd Spot on GOP Ticket

Governor John A. Volpe may have moved another step closer to the Republican Vice Presidential nomination when Governor Nelson Rockefeller made his surprise announcement that he would not seek to become the GOP candidate for President.

Most sound political observers believe there is a good possibility Volpe will be tapped to fill second place on the Republican national ticket if Richard M. Nixon is the GOP Presidential standard-bearer.

Right now it is difficult to visualize how Nixon could fail to emerge as the choice of the Republican national convention. With Rockefeller and Governor George Romney both out of the picture, Nixon has virtually a clear field.

While there will be some favorite son candidates for the Republican Presidential nomination, and some token opposition to Nixon is almost certain to develop, it is really too late for any GOP challenger to make an effective fight against Nixon.

School Lunch Idea Gets Mothers' O.K.

A survey of working mothers of elementary school children in Newton and their attitudes towards a lunch program in the city's schools indicated that a high percentage were in favor of the program, according to a report presented to the Newton School Committee on Monday night by Dr. Edward Landy, assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services.

Dr. Landy said the survey was made at the request of the Working Mothers Committee and he praised them for their help in tabulating results.

One questionnaire was sent to each family with children in the elementary schools, regardless of how many children they had in the schools.

There are 8,101 children in the elementary schools and there were 4,437 replies to the questionnaires. Dr. Landy said this represented at least a 70 or 80 per cent return considering that many families have more than one child in elementary school.

The questions and the responses follow:

sary to the support of your family? Yes: 613; no: 767.

Check level of training. High school: 212; junior college: 156; 4 year college: 277; graduate school: 310.

Approximate hours worked, morning only: 248; afternoon only: 89; morning and afternoon: 579; other: 36.

Would you like to work at a different time than you do now? yes: 533, no: 696.

If the answer is yes, would a school lunch program help you? yes: 516; no: 150.

Final Budget Action To Be Taken Tonight

Final action on the city budget of $36,933,580 was expected tonight by the Newton Board of Aldermen.

The Board came close to passing the full budget, which reflects an increase of $3.7 million over last year, at last Monday night's fourth "read-out" session, but action was postponed until tonight.

In four meetings, the Aldermanic Board cut $43,122 from the budget. Some $6500, which had been sliced at previous sessions, was restored at Monday night's meeting.

About $3500 was put back into the Water Department account for the fluoridation program and $3000 was restored for a contributory Blue Cross and Blue Shield plan for 15 women traffic supervisors on the police force.

The 15 women in question have no other way to get the insurance. The money was placed into Budget Reserve until an ordinance can be drawn up to control the amount of spending, and earmarked it only for those women whose husbands do not have some sort of health insurance.

Mayor Appoints Staff For Code Enforcement Program

Mayor Monte G. Basbas this week announced the appointment of the professional staff of the Newton Upper Falls Concentrated Code Enforcement Program. This staff will be housed in the Upper Falls Improvement Area site office located at 386 Elliot Street at the corner of River Avenue. Their functions will be to administer the housing inspection, rehabilitation, financial and neighborhood advisory services of the 3-year, $736,000 cooperative program of neighborhood improvement.

In announcing the opening of the site office last week, Mayor Basbas noted that the program's major purpose was "to provide to the residents of the community the technical and financial assistance to assure that each of the neighborhood's 877 housing units meets or exceeds the standards specified in the Housing Code."

To meet this challenge, the City of Newton has been successful in assembling a project staff with substantial professional competence and background in the field of housing and neighborhood improvement. In introducing members of the project staff, Mayor Basbas gave a brief resume of their professional background.

John J. Leonard — Project Supervisor-Inspector — An alumnus of Boston Latin School and Boston College, John J. Leonard has joined the Upper Falls project as Project Supervisor-Inspector. He brings to the project a considerable background in housing and code enforcement. Since February 1967, he has been assigned to the City of Newton Comprehensive Code Enforcement Program as Housing Inspector. During the past year he has been making systematic housing inspections in the Newton Highlands-Thompsonville area. Prior to coming to Newton in 1967, Mr. Leonard was a Housing Inspector for several years with the Boston Office of Neighborhood Improvement.

During the past few years, he has taken a series of courses in Sanitary Code Administration and Environmental Sanitation to maintain his professional proficiency.

William R. McMenimen — Code Enforcement Inspector — Until joining the staff of the Upper Falls project recently, as a Housing Code Inspector, Mr. McMenimen served as Director of Public Health for the Town of North Reading, Massachusetts. Prior to his appointment by the North Reading Board of Health, Mr. McMenimen served 21 years in the U.S. Navy, retiring as a First Class Hospital Corpsman. A 1942 graduate of Rindge Technical High School in Cambridge, he is presently taking advanced courses in Public Health at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Mr. McMenimen is a member of the National Association of Sanitarians, and is a Registered Sanitarian in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Albert A. French — Neighborhood Advisor — A long-time resident of Williams street in Newton Upper Falls, Mr. French has taken the position of Neighborhood Advisor in the project. His active participation in neighborhood activities at the First Methodist Church, the Cub Scouts, the Emerson and Meadowbrook School PTA's and the Upper Falls Improvement Association uniquely qualify him to be the permanent liaison between the Upper Falls project and the neighborhood.

A graduate of Boston Trade School (1942) and the Cambridge School of Design with an Associate of Arts degree in

1950, Mr. French has been taking evening technical courses over the years in his chosen specialties of illustration, design, communication and technical writing to supplement his 17 years of professional experience.

Albert E. Rodd — Rehabilitation Specialist — Albert E. Rodd, a resident of Framingham, is uniquely qualified to be the Rehabilitation Specialist on the staff of the Upper Falls project. The holder of a Builder's License for over 20 years, Mr. Rodd most recently has served as a Rehabilitation Specialist for the Office of Neighborhood Improvement in the Mayor's office in Boston for seven years. Prior to assuming the O.N.I. assignment, Mr. Rodd operated his own contracting business for over 15 years.

His knowledge of residential construction will be invaluable in his position as Project Rehabilitation Specialist.

Norman H. Deane — Financial Specialist — A combination of an intimate, long-standing knowledge of the City of Newton and an extensive professional background in real estate, finance and appraisal work particularly qualify Norman H. Deane to be the Financial Specialist on the staff of the Upper Falls project. Following a five-year period during which he worked for a consulting engineering firm, Mr. Deane has been in business for himself for over 40 years in Newton. For 13 years he operated his own architectural and general contracting firm. Since 1934 he has been engaged in a real estate practice concentrating on Newton property.

This knowledge of residential construction, real estate, banking and finance make the services of Mr. Deane a valuable addition to the project staff.

Water consumers will be supplied by means of temporary by-pass piping laid on either or both sides of the street depending on the requirements of the area where actual operations are being conducted.

Fire protection will be available both by means of backfeeding hydrants located on side streets close by the subject streets or thru special connections on the by-pass piping.

The contractor (low bidder) is well experienced in this field and has established a reputation in the New England area for rapid, diligent and efficient prosecution of the work.

The second phase of this capital improvement work will take place in the Upper Falls section commencing at the junction of Needham and Oak streets proceeding northwesterly on Oak street to Chestnut street and on Chestnut to a point approximating its junction with Elliot street.

Similar water supply and fire protection arrangements will be established as described for the West Newton-Auburndale project.

If scheduling is maintained, in the absence of unforeseen delays, all work called for in the contract should be completed well ahead of the contract termination date of July 1.

The cleaning and cement lining of these trunk mains is being undertaken to restore and indefinitely maintain their maximum carrying capacity, which has been greatly reduced due to corrosion and tuberculation, a deterioration to which old tar coated cast iron water mains are subject.

Completion of the work will ensure improved water supply conditions for the consumers, greater volume available at higher residual pressures and reduction of "red" water problems.

Auditions Sunday At Meadowbrook For Concert

A group of talented youths will audition at the Meadowbrook junior high school next Sunday in a competition sponsored by the Newton Symphony Orchestra.

The winner will solo with the orchestra at the season's last youth concert on Saturday, April 27.

An outstanding jury has been chosen by the orchestra's Board of Directors to judge the competition. The jury includes Michel Sasson, the Newton Symphony Orchestra music director and violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra; Harry Ellis Dickson, Assistant Conductor of the Boston Pops and Conductor of the Boston Symphony Youth Concerts at Symphony Hall; Ann Gombosi, Director of the All-Newton Music School, and Donald March, Head of Instrumental Music in the Newton Public Schools.

The youth concerts by the Newton Symphony Orchestra are given free of charge and are open to students in grades 2-6 in the Newton Schools. Entrance tickets are required and applications can be obtained in the classrooms.

Newton Wom. To Morgan Memorial Ecumenical Tea

Four Newton area women are among the many Woman's Auxiliary to Morgan Memorial members planning to attend its annual ecumenical program for church club presidents and clergy wives on Friday (April 5) at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries headquarters at 95 Berkeley street, Boston.

Presented in recognition of the interest and affection which has been displayed through the years for City College and for his activity as an alumnus, both in terms of participation and the stimulation which has been given to others to do likewise, the award will be conferred upon him at the 1968 Annual Alumni Meeting in New York's Hotel Roosevelt on Wednesday (April 1).

Rotary Hears Dr. T. Hsieh On Asian War

Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, 86 year old Chinese Scholar, was guest speaker for Rotary International's "World Understanding Week" at the Chestnut Hill Rotary Club meeting recently. Presented by Dr. Irving J. Koffman, Rotary President, Dr. Hsieh's remarks were on "Southeast Asia."

An authoritative interpreter of the ways of the Oriental people in this troubled area, his views on the so-called war in Vietnam were well accepted by the audience.

Born in China and educated in England, the former Consul General of Taiwan and Hong Kong, now resides in Brighton and is the only Chinese Justice of the Peace in the area.

"We cannot win this war since it costs the U.S. $60. per day for each man we have in Vietnam versus only 5 cents per day for each man the North Vietnamese put into the war," said Dr. Hsieh. "Moreover, the only solution to the problem in Vietnam is to supply arms to other nations in the area and have 'Orientals fighting against Orientals' and this will succeed," he continued.

Dr. Hsieh answered questions very skillfully following his talk and was then presented Rotary's Certificate of Appreciation expounding the Rotary's principle of "Service Above Self."

Time To Make A Stand

Thousands of Massachusetts residents learned about inland wetlands the hard way last week when the rains came. The prime asset of wetlands, according to State Commissioner of Natural Resources Robert L. Yasi, is their capacity to store great quantities of water.

Many persons found to their dismay that the homes they purchased on filled-in wetlands turned into large bathtubs with cold running water. The homes had been built on land in areas deemed unfit for construction by the Department of Natural Resources and which should have been set aside for flood plain zoning.

Allen H. Morgan, director of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, has been one of the leaders fighting for years against indiscriminate development of swamps and marshes. He blamed last week's unfortunate situation on "the greed of some landowners and the lack of guts of some town officials."

The Legislature was scheduled to take up the inland wetlands bill this week which would allow the Department of Natural Resources to protect some 300,000 acres of swamp and marshland. Commissioner Yasi has urged the adoption of this bill for two years and it almost won approval in the waning hours of last year's legislative session.

In the light of the events of the past week it would appear in the public interest that the Legislature adopt the inland wetlands bill. It is time a stand is made against those who have no regard for the balance of nature and whose only concern is the pursuit of the dollar.

Iron Curtain Unrest

It is interesting to note the unrest in the Communist ruled countries of Poland and Czechoslovakia and the weak response from Russia. The attitude of the Russian masters has led to conjecture by veteran Iron Curtain watchers whether the Soviets will only move if the situation gets so out of hand that the various governments are in danger of being toppled.

At the root of the unrest is the popular discontent with the status quo. This stems in part from the fact that a new, younger generation, intellectually superior to their forebears, are demanding more freedom of action and thought.

And Russia is not immune to the new virus of freedom which seems to be infecting the young. According to Edward Crankshaw, who is just about the best Iron Curtain watcher, "the younger Soviet intelligentsia is in a fighting mood. The government, bewildered and affronted by an unheard-of situation, can think of nothing better to do than make threatening noises and try to frighten the rebels into submission by arresting a few, holding secret trials, and dishing out exemplary sentences intended as a general deterrent."

"But the young are not deterred," Crankshaw says. "They are inflamed still more by this behavior. They are, on a surprisingly wide front, irresistibly impelled to stand up and be counted."

The most dramatic upheaval has been in Czechoslovakia where last week Antonin Novotny was forced to resign as president of the country. His place was taken by Alexander Dubcek, who is administering a program of internal liberalization. Dubcek, as new chief of the Czechoslovakia Communist Party, over the past weekend met with other Communist chieftains to assuage their fears that his program endangers Czechoslovakia's adherence to the common policies of the Soviet bloc.

In Poland, where students have carried on demonstrations for three weeks, they finally capitulated under pressure from an official ultimatum. However, observers believe the student demonstrations are symptomatic of a major power struggle within the leadership of Poland's Communist Party.

We believe that the Russians will not intervene unless the protests by the young intellectuals degenerate into armed revolt. At least we hope not, because what has gained impetus in the Communist dominated countries is a semblance of freedom of speech — a freedom that can begin to erode the iron shackles of tyranny.

Newton Officer Decorated For Vietnam Rescue

Air Force First Lt. Francis W. Dahl, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Dahl of 47 Central ave., Newtonville, has been awarded the U.S. Air Force Airman's Medal at Perlin Air Force Base, Texas, for heroism at the risk of his own life in saving his aircraft commander, who was trapped in the front cockpit of their F-4 Phantom after it rolled into a ditch.

The plane rolled into the ditch along a taxiway as they returned to Da Nang Air Base, Vietnam, from a combat mission. Their plane had suffered battle damage.

Lt. Dahl was cited for braving intense heat and exploding fuel cells to save the aircraft commander.

Political Highlights

Volpe probably is not as likely a choice for Veep as Nixon himself intimated when he was trying to woo the Governor and his backers.

However, Volpe is one of three prominent Republican figures seriously mentioned by political experts across the United States as possible running mates on the ticket with Nixon. The other are Senator Percy of Illinois and Governor Rhodes of Ohio.

Nixon, who does not need to make any deals or trades for delegate votes in order to gain the nomination, will use just one measuring stick in choosing the Republican nominee for Vice President.

He'll pick the running mate he and his advisers decide can do the most to help him get elected.

This is a matter to which Nixon himself will give the most careful deliberation. It is a decision he must make before he knows definitely who his Democratic opponent will be since the Republican national convention in Miami will be held two weeks earlier than the Democratic conclave in Chicago.

Despite the turmoil in the Democratic party, the uncertainty as to who the Democratic nominee for President will be and the public unrest and dissatisfaction with the conduct of the war in Vietnam, political analysts believe that Nixon faces an uphill struggle in his bid for the Presidency.

They presently anticipate that Nixon would be an underdog in an election fight with either President Johnson or Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

In a close race Nixon's Vice Presidential running mate might make the difference between victory and defeat.

Volpe, in the opinion of this writer, would generate more strength to Nixon than would anyone else being mentioned as a possible ticket mate with the former Vice President.

As a Catholic, an Italo-American and a former card-carrying member of organized labor, Volpe would buttress Nixon in northern industrial states where he most needs help.

Volpe would give Nixon a big lift in all six New England States and would improve his chances in such other states as New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Illinois where there are large numbers of Italo-American voters.

When Nixon sought the Presidency in 1960, he picked a man from Massachusetts to be his Vice Presidential running mate even though he had no chance whatever of carrying the Bay State.

There is much more reason that Nixon pick Volpe this year than there was that he chose Henry Cabot Lodge in 1960.

Some political pundits have suggested that either Governor Rockefeller or Senator Jacob Javits would make a good ticket mate for Nixon and would improve his chances of carrying the great state of New York.

Under the federal Constitution the President and Vice President cannot be from the same state. While Nixon is generally regarded as a Californian, the fact is that he now is registered as a voter in New York, as are Rocky and Javits.

If Volpe should be elected Vice President this year, it would have an important reaction on politics in Massachusetts.

Lieutenant Governor Francis W. Sargent would move up to serve as Governor for the remainder of Volpe's term and automatically would be the Republican gubernatorial nominee in 1970.

That would close the road to the Governorship to Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson—at least in the next state-wide election.

Incidentally, some Republicans, who were dismayed when Rockefeller refused to become an active candidate for the Presidency, might swing behind Governor Volpe if he displayed a willingness to make a real run for the Presidential nomination.

Volpe, however, probably will concentrate his efforts on endeavoring to land second place on the Republican national ticket. His prospects of getting it appear reasonably bright—better probably than those of anyone else.

Wisconsin Vote On Tuesday Crucial For President Johnson

President Johnson is still rated an overwhelming favorite to win the Democratic Presidential nomination—if he becomes a candidate for reelection to another term.

A recent survey by the Christian Science Monitor indicated that the President would swamp Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy if sentiment among the prospective delegates to the Democratic national convention remains unchanged.

However, Mr. Johnson must defeat Senator McCarthy in Wisconsin next Tuesday to maintain his present strong position in the Democratic party, and there is no certainty whatever that he can top McCarthy. Wisconsin is not considered one of the states where LBJ is strong.

A setback for President Johnson in Wisconsin probably would start a drift away from him and would cause many Democratic leaders to begin revising their thinking.

Senator Robert Kennedy's aides already are making some headway in lining up on-the-fence Democratic chieftains.

Their progress has not been great enough to indicate Mr. Johnson's rejection by his own party, but they are certain to achieve much more effective results if the Wisconsin returns show the President to be in political trouble.

Newsmen who have visited various parts of the United States report that public discontent with the war has increased tremendously since the Viet Cong offensive and the Pueblo incident.

They say that many politicians apparently do not yet realize the full depth and extent of this feeling.

Some usually well informed political writers believe, incidentally that President Johnson may have been weighing the advisability of not running for reelection when Robert Kennedy suddenly announced his candidacy.

One reason there may be some basis for that theory is that LBJ is showing the physical and mental strain of the tremendous burdens he has been carrying. He had a massive heart attack while he was a Senator, and it's highly doubtful any doctor is authorizing the long hours he is presently working.

Daddy's Home!

Another is the fact that Mr. Johnson has allowed the Democratic organization to run down to a point where it is not a potent force for his fight with Bobby Kennedy—if there is such a fight.

If it should suddenly develop that President Johnson is not going to seek renomination, the battle for the Democratic Presidential nomination would be between Senator Robert Kennedy and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

While Humphrey would have President Johnson's backing, Bobby Kennedy would be the favorite to win such a struggle.

The guessing here is that LBJ will stand for another term. However, he is an extremely proud man. If he believes the anti-war sentiment is so great as to foreshadow his defeat at the polls, he might decide to stand aside.

Supporters of President Johnson are pinning part of their hope on the expectation that the status of the war will change in such a manner as to increase his popularity. That may prove to be a matter of grasping at straws.

Meanwhile, next Tuesday looms as a crucial day in Wisconsin for Lyndon Johnson.

Stop-Nixon Drive Futile; Major McCarthy Achievement

A stop-Nixon drive being attempted in the Republican party will get nowhere. Some GOP figures apparently have forgotten the lessons of 1964 when Barry Goldwater sewed up the Presidential nomination while a handful of leaders in his party were figuring out ways of stopping him.

Thought for today! If Senator McCarthy doesn't accomplish anything else in this campaign, the people owe him a debt of gratitude for the number of shaves and haircuts already forced upon his collegiate supporters in New Hampshire and Wisconsin.

On School System

Editor of The Graphic:

Before a new superintendent is appointed, the Newton School Committee should re-evaluate some aspects of the school system that concern many parents. I feel we elected members who should represent the interests of all the voters and be able to do more than pass on the budget.

Being the most innovated and experimental school system is not a complete blessing for the students. Many experiments are failures, and are dropped, some continue for a year or two and are phased out. Some are continued in spite of the fact that they do not benefit the majority of the students. A Moratorium should be called on new experiments while the teachers use what they have found to be the best for their students. Let the University schools do the experimenting, under constant supervision with Control groups and objectively evaluated, before they are brought into our classrooms.

Newton has always had fine teachers who kept up with all the new trends and gimmicks in education. For years teachers have attended Harvard and other summer schools to study the newest in education. Newton schools were excellent before they became an experimental station. Education should be evolutionary rather than revolutionary.

A recent book, Learning to Read, by Jeanne Chall, a professor at Harvard, is the result of years of research. She has found phonics the best method of teaching beginners how to read. This in itself could put a stop to some of the bizarre innovations that are mere time wasters for our children. In spite of all the wishful thinking many children do not want to read and will do best in a traditional class with methods that have been proven sound. What is the advantage of the ungraded classroom with wall to wall carpet?

Dr. Blaine of Harvard has recently stated that, "The first ingredient needed if human life is to be other than chaos, is discipline." The first grade is the best place to start this training.

Fewer teachers with more experience would save money in the long run and above all give out children the benefit of their training.

Several teachers have told me they feel they are over exposed in Newton. The Madison avenue approach has been an advantage to those seeking greener pastures, but often at the expense of the students.

These are a few of the problems an interested School Committee should look into and have knowledge about, before they hand the reins over to a new Superintendent.

DANA M. PARKER

Hits School Board

Editor of The Graphic:

I sat at a school committee meeting last night (Mar. 25)

I witnessed another case of youngsters about to be led to mental extermination.

Six men and a woman voted to allow the Meadowbrook Junior High School to compound the tragedy inflicted on its current enrollment and prepared to welcome new victims.

In the face of the history of the Newton School Department to refuse to submit to evaluation of Meadowbrook by breaking promises of performance, by delaying the start of evaluation until evaluation becomes meaningless, by discussing projected evaluation conducted by its own staff, the Newton School Committee voted its dictatorial approval of continuance of flagrant and open defiance to sanity.

In the face of open public indignation the committee voted to allow Dr. Brown to arrange for a survey to choose an evaluating agency. If established patterns are followed, an agency will be chosen, a survey will be made and a report will be delivered in time for opening of school NEXT YEAR.

I deplore the refusal of the School Committee to demand immediate action. I deplore the lack of initiative demonstrated by the school committee in asking the school department for information rather than developing information through its own resources. The School Committee adopted a new code of ethics last night. I challenge the committee to apply this code in practice. I challenge the committee to learn the truth about Meadowbrook.

The School Committee welcomes the public to its meetings. I urge the public to attend to hear the learned disseminations of trivia and the evasions of real issues.

"Kismet" At Weeks Junior High Two Nights Apr 3, 4

Would you like to be transported back in time to ancient Iraq, when Bagdad was a young and prosperous city, teeming with activity, mystery, romance, and magic? The John W. Weeks Junior High School of Newton can arrange such a trip.

This enchanting journey can be made April 3 or April 4, beginning both evenings at eight o'clock p.m. (8:00 p.m.) in the Weeks auditorium, through the musical "Kismet," by Forrest and Wright.

The story takes place within twenty-four hours, and begins in the marketplace of Bagdad. Hajj, a poor poet, is trying in every imaginable way to procure some money for himself and his daughter, Marsinah. He oscillates between poor man and rich man as fate's quirks change his position in life in a matter of minutes. It is so too with his daughter, but both accept these radical changes with the Arabian saying "Kismet," which means "That's fate!" In the end fate is kind, leaving them in the positions of their hearts' desires.

The musical will be performed two nights (April 3 and 4), and the five main roles will be sung and acted by different students each night.

One night will be: Lisa Kaufman as Marsinah, Kathy Falk as Lalume, Jimmy Smith as the poet, Danny Kumin as the Caliph, and Matthew Scott as Omar.

The other night will be: Gay Gordon as Marsinah, Sheryl

Silin as Lalume, Jerry Shrair as the poet, Robert Blaser as the Caliph, and John Houghton as Omar. Both nights, Richard Sobol will play Wazir of Police, Paul Schays will play Iman. Dancers, smaller parts, and orchestra will also be played by the same people both nights.

The producers are Margaret Dobler and Helene Frank, with Debbie Budd as stage manager. Faculty advisors are Mr. Smith, Mr. Crowther, Mr. Syder, and Miss Bell. Choreography is by Mrs. Bruyn. The desert scene, shown as a movie, was filmed on location by Mr. Smith.

view of citizen concern he was requesting that an independent agency be employed to evaluate Meadowbrook and to assess the records of students there in comparison with those attending the other junior high schools in the city.

Blum expressed the belief the study and the results would be "reassuring."

Douglas's motion, which the School Committee unanimously adopted, said "to implement an external evaluation of Meadowbrook by an agency outside of the Newton School Department," the superintendent in conference with people knowledgeable of testing and evaluation procedures, "provide the School Committee with a list of institutions capable of providing such an assessment."

Some members voiced the opinion that the study now going on at Meadowbrook should be completed and if, after it is completed, results are not satisfactory to the community or to the School Committee, then plans could be made for another survey.

However, after discussion, members agreed that since the request had been made by the principal, it should be honored.

The present study is being made under the supervision of Charles Goff, who has been affiliated with the Meadowbrook program. He has the assistance of outside consultants from universities in the area. The cost is being borne by the federal government under Title 3 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, Dr. Brown explained.

A general nation-wide program which involves some 30 schools across the country, including Meadowbrook, is being coordinated by the Kettering Foundation.

A request that such an evaluation be completed by June 30 so that recommendations could be implemented by September was introduced by Committeeman Alvin Mandell and received a favorable committee vote after the words, "if possible," were added.

Chairman Manuel Beckwith said the two studies could supplement each other.

A second resolution introduced by Committeeman Alvin Mandell asking that the School Committee "immediately request the State Commissioner of Education for an in-depth study and report of the Meadowbrook program" failed for lack of a second and was not voted upon as a result.

Mandell said the principal advantage of the state study was that it would be free and would take only three days to complete.

Committeeman Douglas pointed out that in his motion he purposely used the general word "agency" to include exploration of such groups as the state department.

Free Films For Kiddies Now At Branch Library

The films are free, and fun, at the Auburndale Branch of the Newton Free Library, started Wednesday, March 27, at 3:45 o'clock when the Library expanded its young people's film program to include Auburndale.

The Nonantum Branch has been the experimental movie spot for the past seven months. Capacity audiences of Newton youngsters from kindergarten age to sixth grade have been enjoying such films as THE RED BALLOON, BIRDS OF AMERICA, and SIR FRANCIS DRAKE.

At each film program Mrs. Virginia Tashjian, Assistant City Librarian, speaks briefly about related subjects and offers the youngsters a selection of books appropriate to each film. THE RED BALLOON, featuring French and English versions of the story, books about Paris (the locale of the film), and other magical books about children all over the world.

The new program is offered to the young people of Auburndale with the cooperation of the Newton Boys' and Girls' Librarian Miss Ann Golding, Auburndale Branch Librarian Mrs. Marie Simpson and Auburndale

Boys' and Girls' Librarian Mrs. Dinah Huse.

The first showing on March 27 will last about an hour, and the program includes THE CHAIRY TALE, an experimental film aimed at older boys and girls; THE CAMEL TOOK A WALK, a modern cumulative folk tale for very young children; and BIG MEN IN SPORTS for the in-betweeners.

Young Auburndale area readers were invited to get their free film tickets in advance on Monday and Tuesday, March 25 and 26, at the Auburndale Branch Library. Auburndale movie time will regularly be at 3:45 on the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month, ending for the season on Wednesday, May 22.

It is anticipated that young people's film programs will be regularly scheduled at other Branch Libraries of the Newton Free Library throughout the City.

Headlights And Highlights From Newton High School

By KATE SOLOMON

It is not often that the entire Newton High student body is dismissed before one o'clock p.m. In fact, this usually happens only twice a year: on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving and on the day before Christmas Eve. Thursday, March 21, was the third time.

Last Thursday, all NHSers left the high school at 12:10 p.m. Teachers were having a faculty colloquium scheduled to begin at 12:45. The purpose of the colloquium was to discuss, in the presence of the entire faculty, the past, present and the future of the Faculty Senate.

The Faculty Senate was created last year as an organization independent of the school administration. Its overall purpose is to improve Newton High education by establishing better communication between the faculty and the administration, the faculty and the community, and among the faculty itself.

This year, the Senate has submitted recommendations concerning student evaluation forms, cafeteria problems, the mini-skirt rule, the coat regulation prohibiting students from carrying coats to class, study halls, and the new high school.

At the meeting Thursday, Mr. Thomas Wolfe, the president of the Faculty Senate and English Teacher at Newton High, delivered a short speech underlining the achievements and problems the senate has thus far encountered. Following his introduction, the faculty divided into groups of eight to ten teachers, each group being headed by a member of the Faculty Senate.

Every discussion group was intentionally made up of teachers from different departments so as to achieve a cross-section of opinion. The groups were told to discuss any aspect of the Faculty Senate they chose. Topics ranged from student-teacher relationships and the effect of a senior, to cafeteria problems and discipline measures.

The Student-Faculty Talent Show Pitter-patter go the canes as they clank lightly on the stage. Tap, tap go the shoes as they move deftly about. The old-fashioned straw hats shine brilliantly under the yellow stage lights. Vaudeville... the 1890's... burlesque comedy. The Student-Faculty Talent Show will be here Saturday, May 4.

The show will begin at 8:00 and cost ninety-nine cents per ticket. The profits will be used for the Student-Faculty Talent Show.

NEW SPORT AT SOUTH — The old, rough, tough Indian game of lacrosse is being taken up at Newton South high school this year with Mike Schaffer, a graduate student at Boston University as head coach. Schaffer was B.U. team captain for two years and the coach for one. He is seen in the photo catching a pass from a student, while other neophyte players wait to go through the drill. The players had to buy their own sticks and balls, and get gloves from members of the hockey squad. They were issued helmets and pads. Asst. Coach is the soccer coach, Mr. Merrill. South is expected to have a tough initial year because all the teams they are scheduled to play, except Newton high school, are private schools which have been playing game for years.—Belson

Teresi Of BC To Coach South Weight Events

By BRUCE KOPELMAN

The Newton South outdoor tracksters will have the benefit of three knowledgeable track mentors this spring. In addition to head coach Richard T. Geist (distance men, 440 and up) and Donald K. Shelton (hurdles and sprinters) Boston College senior Joseph C. Teresi will tutor the weight men.

During his sophomore and junior years at BC Teresi was an outstanding hurdler. This season, however, Teresi was beset by a rash of leg injuries, including a pulled hamstring muscle. Teresi had been an indoor and outdoor track participant, running the 60-yard high hurdles and 120-yard high hurdles, speeding to a 15.4 in the 120-yard event. In spring track Mister Teresi raced to a 58.0 clocking in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles. In his junior year Joe anchored BC's third place shuttle-hurdle relay team in the NEAAU championships.

Joseph Teresi is a Dean's List student, majoring in accounting. He plans to attend Albany Law School next September.

Joe began his track career as a sophomore at Vincentian Institute in Albany, New York. He helped lead the track team there to three straight league and county championships, by running a 16.0 in the 120-yard hurdles as a junior and slicing .2 seconds off as a senior. Teresi comments: "At VI, track is a very big sport and draws many participants. It is considered one of the best track schools in New York state, outside of New York City and Long Island.

When questioned about his experience in the track field Teresi stated, "Coaching at South is the first experience I have had as a coach. Although I've had little experience, I find that the rewards are very gratifying. The boys are easy to work with and have the desire needed to become good trackmen. High school runners today must have patience with themselves to continue with hard work and perseverance. First-place medals do not come easily in track, but are the results of work and more work."

In response to the question of why he became a coach of weight events rather than concentrating on his specialty, he said, "Although I was a hurdler in college and high school I find that the weight events are even more challenging than the running events. They involve much more body movement and form. Good form is what is basically needed to be a good weight man. A person who has excellent form will be at an advantage over a person who throws on pure strength. I took the job to coach the weight events because I have a lot of background knowledge of what these events consist of. Most of this came from my college roommate, Jim Kavanaugh, who placed second in the NCAA 35-pound weight competition this year. Chris Lane, assistant track coach at BC, convinced me to apply for the job."

Mister Teresi evaluates the coming season: "Newton South has the potential of having a very good season. The boys are working hard, and the weight men show much promise."

Mister Teresi expressed his attitude towards the proposed Negro boycott: "I feel that it is a shame that the boycott stands in the way of the 1968 Olympic ideal of fraternity and a amateur competition. Even with the threat of a boycott I feel that the United States' chances of doing well will not be hindered. We have such great potential in Olympic athletes that I doubt if it will hurt us.

"To me, track is one of the best sports to compete in because it gives a fellow a chance on an individual basis. The rewards and self-satisfaction are well worth the effort that one puts into the sport."

Shea -

"I advocate single member districts to carry out the one man one vote concept, and I support a smaller membership in the House of Representatives. I also oppose any constitutional or statutory limit on length of sessions," the Newton Alderman declared.

"Because the human resource is our greatest asset, I support administrative and financial measures to achieve quality education and equal educational opportunity for all," Shea asserted. "I favor measures to strengthen state supported institutions of higher learning, and support a sound program of state supported junior colleges."

"I oppose a lottery as a means of providing state revenue and support a graduated state income tax," he added. "I endorse comprehensive long range planning for conservation and development of water resources and will vigorously support measures to reduce air and water pollution."

"I will encourage efforts to establish a proper role for regional planning, and I will work increasingly to achieve decent living conditions in all state institutions, especially the Fernald School, Metropolitan and Boston State Hospitals," Shea said.

Shea, who testified in August of 1967 before the legislative committee on State Administration, further stressed his support for civil service reform. He also indicated his belief in the need for local control of billboards, his support of efforts to strengthen the Consumers' Council and his desire to make home rule more effective.

Alderman Shea is married to the former Anita McDonald of Plainfield, N.J. Mrs. Shea, a college instructor, is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Tufts University and holds a master's degree in Biology from Boston University.

Alderman Shea is a lifelong resident of Newton and was educated in the Newton public schools, including the Underwood, Bigelow and Newton High Schools. He majored in Political Science and minored in Economics at Tufts University. Shea attended the University of Virginia Law School and presently he is doing graduate study in Political Science at Tufts.

He serves on the City Planning, Public Buildings and Franchises and Licenses Committees of the Board of Aldermen and has been active in numerous civic, charitable and political activities. He is a member of the American Political Science Association.

Shea is the sponsor of two bills now pending before the State Legislature. One calls for public auction, instead of negotiated sale, as the means of disposing of excess municipally owned real estate. The second measure

Profile Of An Athlete

By BRUCE KOPELMAN AND LEWIS FREEDMAN

Tommie Smith of San Jose State

Tommie Smith, is currently the owner of the six world records. The former San Jose State speedster has set standards in the 220-yard dash (no turns), 19.5, the 200-meter dash, 20.0, the 200-meter dash (no turns), 19.5, the 200-meter dash (no turn), 20.0, the 440-yard run, (2-lap track), 46.2, and the 440-yard run (1 lap), 44.3.

Needless to say, the United States is counting heavily on Smith in the upcoming summer Olympics in Mexico City, but Smith, now competing for the Santa Clara Youth Village has different ideas on the subject.

Smith attended the Black Youth Conference, held December 23-25, 1967, and voted in favor of the following five-point program.

1. "The NYAC must immediately cease practicing segregation..."
2. "The all-white teams from Southern Rhodesia and South Africa must be barred from the Olympics..."
3. "...an additional Negro coach must be added to the Olympic coaching staff..."
4. "...at least one Negro must be placed on the United States Olympic Committee itself."
5. "...Muhammad Ali must be reinstated as heavyweight boxing champion of the world."

At this moment Smith plans to boycott the Olympics, but—"If my brothers and the majority of the outstanding Negro Olympic prospects can not concur in this resolution and are not prepared to accept such action, then I will go on to fulfill my ambition to become an Olympian."

Otherwise, he feels that, "the proposed resolution, if upheld, would be beneficial to all Black men."

Tommie Smith does not belong to any "Black Power" organization. He just wants the rights which are granted him in the constitution. "What is right is right." He realizes that a boycott would be an enormous blow to the U.S. Olympic hopes, but his purpose is not to embarrass his country, only to gain the rights that he as a human being feels that he is entitled to.

Smith has said that he would give up his right arm to win a gold medal in the Olympics. "I have dreamed of it (the Olympics) all my life. If I give it up it will be painful to me..." "But I have searched my conscience and I am acting as I believe I should act."

Spearheaded by the boardwork of David Youngblood and the cool playmaking and long set-shooting of Warren Bechtold, the Newton South faculty scored a stunning upset in battling to a 55-55 tie against the Lion varsity, March 22.

The faculty displayed some surprisingly sharp passing and excellent teamwork in running up a 15-9 first quarter lead. In an unusual reversal of roles, the varsity's purpose seemed more to entertain the large crowd, rather than to win, and the faculty appeared very determined to come through with a victory.

Al Berkowitz displayed some fancy headgear early in the game, including a motorcycle helmet as each boy tried to top the other in garish dress.

The faculty built up a surprising 39-28 lead in the third period but the outgoing seniors, Herb Snyder, Lee Casty, Dore Gilbert, Bob Levine, Bob Saltberg, and Berkowitz, (Seniors Paul Brissette and Ken Issacs did not play) retaliated to turn the fourth quarter into a tight see-saw battle.

Mister Youngblood's consistent shooting, 24 points, and tough rebounding, however, spoiled the finale for the varsity.

At the end of regulation time, the varsity issued a challenge for an overtime, but the faculty beat a quick retreat to the showers.

Tennis Ladder Being Formed In Newton Area

Paul Natale of 26 Atholstone road, Newton Centre, is now forming an informal tennis ladder in the Newton Area. The purpose is to introduce the players to other comparable local players to facilitate prearranged matches and to stimulate varied and interesting competition. 16 to 20 players will be a good working number.

Ladder matches can be played anywhere and anytime. Members are not restricted to Newton residents but should make an effort to play once a week. This program is not an effort to replace current practice but simply to supplement it.

Advantages to joining the ladder are the arrangement of impromptu matches at convenient hours; you can be challenged by four players below your position to maintain competition; and a pool of players from which to create matches (or drills) so as never to be without a partner.

There are no dues, meetings or prizes. Challenger will supply balls and winner reports results should go to Mr. Natale. Rankings will be continuously available to all members to assure matches of players of similar skills.

Those interested should contact Paul Natale, 969-3335.

Headlights And Highlights From Newton South High

By JAMES SHULMAN

The three classes at Newton South High School are pulling together the loose ends for their final plans and projects during the spring.

Plans for the senior prom began at rather a slow pace in the fall, but the pieces are certainly fitting into place now. After the controversy about the site of the senior prom died down, the class was faced with the problem of entertainment, decorations, and refreshments.

Eric Wolf, senior class vice-president, and chairman of the prom, has organized committees to deal with problems. Although, the class response has been rather small, progress is steadily being made.

The entertainment committee, headed by Bruce Olans and Bunny Shuman, has been functioning well since January. They have investigated many bands, with Jerry Bernard, the leading candidate. In addition, plans are being formulated for the other entertainment which will help keep the class at the prom.

Janis Arnoff, and her hospitality committee has been investigating the many possibilities for refreshments. Also, they are lining up chaperones and sending invitations to the faculty.

The decoration committee is probably the most enthusiastic of all the committees. Carla Galombe and her group have visited the prom site, Chestnut Hill Country Club, several times to get ideas for decorations and theme.

As of yet the theme of the prom has not been chosen. The class committee is hoping to involve more students with the prom before the theme is chosen. However, the committee hopes to make the decision before April vacation.

The prom committee is hoping the prom will be an activity wholly supported and enjoyed by the entire senior class.

The junior class has chosen "Aggression" as the topic for the first junior symposium at Newton South. The symposium will consist of movies, lectures and discussion pertaining to the theme.

The purpose of the symposium was well described by Junior Class President Cliff Greene: "The symposium should enable the students to think about themselves and to find out what makes them tick."

The juniors will get a chance to learn in a relaxed, intellectual atmosphere, and to get involved with a question which involves them personally.

The teacher-student Symposium Committee is well along in its planning. The committee has worked quickly and efficiently with the students and teachers debating over the symposium. "It's very inspiring to know that the teachers really care. School is made up of the faculty and the students and it is great to see both working toward a common goal," said a member.

The faculty is led by Mr. Socrates Lagios, and made up of about ten faculty members. Jerry Mann, chairman of the Committee, is very pleased with the Symposium's progress. He commented: "The juniors have never had a Symposium before, and, by the looks of things, the first Junior Symposium in Newton South's history will be a really exciting event."

The tentative plans for the symposium call for a day in which the topics will have no classes. The students will meet in the auditorium to watch a movie pertinent to the theme, and then several speakers chosen for their ability to communicate and not just for their reputations, will voice their opinions on the movie and the problem of aggression. A discussion by students, complete with moving microphones to facilitate the asking of questions, will follow the speeches.

Then the class will break up into small groups and meet in free rooms with members of the faculty to further investigate "Aggression." The students will proceed to lunch, which will hopefully be the last lunch period, where the juniors can carry on their discussions leisurely with one another. After lunch, the whole class will again convene in the auditorium. The speakers, a panel of teachers and students, will serve as a sounding board and will attempt to make relevant conclusions concerning the problems.

One of the basic problems of a class council is the lack of communications with the students. One solution for this problem is a newspaper containing valuable items concerning the class activities. With this in mind sophomore class president Louis Miller formed the sophomore newspaper committee, with Jon Scheff and Richard Shamban chairmen. Its aim is to create a unified class and to inform about class activities.

In the first issue of the paper, The Sophomore Forum, the political composition of the sophomore class was discussed. The Forum informed the sophomores about the purposes of the committees. The new newspaper discussed the then forthcoming computer dance in great depth, which served as an advertising sales pitch for the dance. Due to the conscientious work of the Forum's staff, the first issue was for all practical purposes a success.

In the upcoming issue of the Forum the committee has decided to take a personal opinion poll. The staff will distribute a questionnaire to all sophomores, on current events, specifically the Vietnam war and the draft.

It is not quite true to say the sophomore class is the only one to experiment with a class newspaper, but the Forum is the first newspaper to have a policy of not lecturing to the student body on poor attendance at class activities. It is very easy to lecture a student body on its shortcomings, but constant criticism defeats its purpose.

Under the masthead of The Sophomore Forum is the inscription, "Entertainment for Sophomores." It is not a catch phrase, but it states the mood through which the Forum achieves its purpose.

Lewis Freedman and Beverly Stone have been selected as co-editors-in-chief of the next DENEbola staff. Their staff includes Jimmy Shulman, news editor and Newton Graphic correspondent; Jonathan Kaplan, assistant news editor; Jimmy Katz, editorial editor; Harry Footer, assistant editorial editor; Janet Rosen and Paul Taylor, copy co-editors; Jacqueline Connors, co-editor; Bruce Konekman, business manager; Roger Belson, photography editor; Nancy Glazier, art editor; Barbara Solomon, exchange editor; Ricky Stich, theatre columnist; Robin Hirsch, sports editor; Debbie Wolfson, girls sports editor. Advertising and circulation editors will be announced at a later date.

Varied Agenda Listed For Memorial PTA In Schedule

The last meeting of the Memorial School P.T.A. will take place on Thursday, April 4, at 8:00 p.m. Martin Walsh, physical education director, will present a program in which third, fourth, fifth, and sixth graders will demonstrate gymnastic skills.

During the business portion of the meeting, the Nominating Committee will present the proposed slate of officers. The annual cake sale will follow the meeting.

The P.T.A. Ways and Means Committee, in conjunction with the Oak Hill Park Association, is planning a gala square dance to be held on Saturday, May 4, at the Mount Ida Junior College Gymnasium.

Chuck Beamis, a former Brookline teacher of many Park residents, will be the caller. The profits from the dance will be divided between the two sponsoring organizations.

The Library Committee is planning a book order with the funds received from the Book Fair.

The Creative Arts Committee will hold an International Festival on Wednesday, April 10, in the gym. At this time, the students of Memorial will have the opportunity to speak with people from all over the world.

These guests from foreign countries will discuss the customs of their native lands, demonstrate native clothing and offer samples of food prepared in the native traditions.

The kindergarten class is a very active group this year. A shop program is held on Friday mornings and is enthusiastically acclaimed by the children. The kindergarten mothers meet once a month, on Wednesday mornings, at which time Dr. Eldridge has arranged for guest speakers to discuss various aspects of a four to five year old child's growth and development.

The guest speakers have included a social worker, a psychologist, a speech consultant and a teacher. While the mothers attend these meetings, a baby-sitting service has been offered for the pre-school age children.

The very qualified baby-sitters have included Mrs. David Campbell, Mrs. Robert Cherep, Mrs. Ronald Miller, and Mrs. Calvin Perry. The mothers may contribute any amount of money they wish for this baby-sitting service.

All proceeds are then given to the fund for the music listening equipment.

Another source of revenue for the music listening equipment has been the sale of Valentine bouquets. The material for the bouquets was purchased through George Fishstein. Several mothers from the Creative Arts Committee then gathered together for an entire day and prepared beautiful bouquets. The bouquets were sold to the fourth, fifth, and sixth graders.

Miss Elizabeth Cusick, the school psychologist, has arranged for a group of mothers to meet with Mrs. Shirley Spears, school social worker, on Wednesday afternoons to discuss child growth and development. The mothers have been very appreciative of the opportunity to discuss their ideas and problems with specialists in child behavior.

Twenty-five Newton principals met at the Memorial School Library in February. The Room Mothers, headed by Mrs. Charles Rudnick, graciously served refreshments.

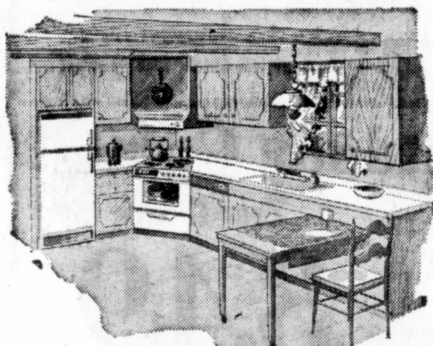

The Newton P.T.A. Council has brought to the attention of the Safety Committee that there has been two rather serious accidents during this school year. Parents are reminded to adhere to the traffic rules and regulations.

Malcolm Peabody Seeking GOP Congress Nomination

Malcolm E. Peabody, Jr., of 25 Chestnut Hill Rd., Newton, has announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the revised 3rd congressional district.

Peabody, brother of former Democratic Governor Endicott Peabody, will contest with former Congressman Laurence Curtis, also of Newton, for the right to run as the Republican nominee for Congress in the new district which includes Newton.

He graduated from Groton School in 1946, from Harvard College with the B.S. degree in 1950 and from the Harvard Business School in 1952. Peabody served as a second lieutenant in the Air Force in the Korean War after his graduation from the Harvard Business School.

His brother, ex-Governor Peabody, now holds a high position in the Johnson administration.

"I am running for Congress because I think I can help," Malcolm Peabody stated.

"These are sad and bewildering days for our country. The number and scope of crises America faces exceed any within past memory," he said.

"In foreign affairs, we confront the single greatest crisis since World War II. In Vietnam, we are being strangled by a war we are not winning. We are estranged and isolated from our traditional allies, and worst of all, we are fighting for a country and a people who will not fight themselves," Peabody continued.

"Here at home, the greatest fiscal crisis since the early 30's threatens the businessman's profits and the workingman's paycheck," he declared.

"Add to those: the greatest crisis in urban and rural poverty since the depression; the greatest racial crisis since the Civil War; the greatest crises of all time in air and water pollution, use of narcotics, the growth of organized crime, and in understanding between generations; and it appears that our entire society has become unstuck.

"To compound our anxiety, these crises come at a time when we must literally begin to build a second America, to house, educate and employ the 180 million more Americans who will populate our country by the year 2000 — a task which will strain all our moral, political, and economic resources to the limit," Peabody asserted.

"I run as a Republican not only because it has been the party of my choice since I first registered to vote, but because I am convinced that the Republican party here in Massachusetts and in an increasing number of states, offers the young, the concerned, and the creative the best opportunity to devise and put into effect solutions to our problems," Peabody said.

"The Democratic party, once the party of ideas, has become the party of the Status quo — afraid of the changes which the 70's and 80's must bring if we are to forge a free society and a society which offers opportunity, work, and the good life to all.

"But though I run for Congress in the New 3rd District as a Republican, I seek the support of Independents and Democrats as well, who regard the crises we face as both a challenge and an opportunity. Like them, I have faith that we can solve these problems. In short, I run for Congress because I want to play a constructive role in the future of my county, my district, and my party," Peabody stressed.

Spring Vacation Trips Are Planned For Local Kiddies

The Spring Vacation Program was announced today by the Newton Community Services Center. This program, part III of the Vacation Trip Program is designed to give children a first-hand look at the world around them, through tours of industry and businesses in the Boston area.

The trips are divided into two groups: Half-day trips and full day trips. Section A, designed especially for children in Kindergarten through Grade 3, will tour an ice cream factory and a Shoe Co. as part of the half-day trip program.

On Monday, April 15, between 9:30 a.m. and 11:45 a.m., youngsters will watch one of the largest manufacturers of ice cream in the country, seeing pasteurizing, blending, mixing, covering, flavoring, and freezing of ice cream in bulk, pint and quart sized containers. Samples, of course.

On Thursday, April 18, between 9:30 a.m. and 11:45 a.m. these same children will watch Stride-Rite shoes being made from scratch. Green Shoe Co., the largest shoe company in the world under one roof, offers this outstanding tour to our children: mass production with 75 different machines and hand operations including cutting of leather (from a whole side of steer), sewing, stitching, vamping, edge trimming, heeling, lasting, finishing, inspecting, etc. — all on conveyor belts.

Section B, for children in Grades 3-6 is also part of the half-day trip program and will allow the kids to find out how cars and hot dogs are made.

On Monday, April 15, between 1:00-3:00 p.m., the youngsters will tour Armour & Co., where they will watch beef and pork being divided and packed as bacon, hot dogs, sausage, chops and bolony.

On Thursday, April 18, between 1:00-3:30 p.m., these same children will tour the General Motors Corporation, Chevrolet Division, where children will watch a thrilling tour showing the entire process of assembling an automobile.

Full day trips are opened to children in Grades 2-6 only, and combine theatre and a tour of interest. They include lunch (children bring their own). On Tuesday, April 16, between 9:45 a.m. and 3:40 p.m. kids will enjoy a gay musical version of the age old classic Rip Van Winkle, performed by the Charles Theatre.

Afterwards they will be treated to a full tour of the Schrafft's Candy Factory, where they will watch cooking, dipping and packaging of chocolates and hard candy. Samples, of course.

The second full day trip will take place on Wednesday, April 17, from 10:00 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. This day is geared to a complete look at the fish industry: Kids will watch the unloading of boats by fishermen at the piers; they will participate in a mock auction bidding for fish to gain an understanding of how fish lots are bought; they will tour a fresh fish operation (filleting, skinning, etc.), and finally they will gain a first-hand look at one of the largest manufacturing and fish processing plants in the world: A & P National Fish Headquarters.

This tour will let kids watch how fishsticks, fish dinners, clam chowders and soups, shrimp cocktail, etc. are processed and packaged. There will be a picnic, too, at Castle Island Park where the children will be free to explore the castle walls, and playground and the day will end with the Boston Children's Theatre production of Rumpelstiltskin.

The trips will be led by Mrs. Murray Janover, holiday trip director and a former elementary school teacher of Brookline; the assistance of parents supervising will be needed. Groups will go by bus if the numbers are large enough; otherwise station wagons will be used to transport the children.

The deadline for registration is Friday, 12 noon, April 12. Parents who want their children involved in this unusual program should contact the Center for a brochure immediately, as spaces fill early.

Votes For Ombudsman

Rep. Joseph G. Bradley of Newton was among 14 Democratic legislators who called last week for the creation in Massachusetts of the office of Ombudsman. The Ombudsman would head a department specifically equipped to handle the complaints of citizens on administrative matters.

Aldermen -

"The action could create a greater gap in the understanding between the Aldermen and the School Committee," he observed.

The School Committee on Monday night approved a lengthy statement read by Committee member Francis Frazier and voted to send copies to the Mayor and to the Board of Aldermen.

The statement restated "the powers and duties of School Committees in Massachusetts as defined by law and reasserted by the courts."

The statement pointed to three actions taken within the last two weeks by the aldermen and indicated they were an interference with the responsibilities and powers of the School Committee.

The first event discussed was the resolution referred by the aldermen to the board's Education Committee calling upon the School Committee to request the State Board of Education to conduct a survey and evaluation of the program of education at Meadowbrook Junior High School.

"In this regard," the statement said, "the laws of the Commonwealth are very clear in assigning the responsibility for public education to the School Committee and the School Committee alone."

The second event referred to in the statement was the vote taken by the board to reduce the 1968 school budget by $100,000 allocated to cover the anticipated costs of the pending elementary school lunch program.

Frazier pointed to a court case involving the city of Pittsfield in which the court stated: "Proper subject matters of the estimates (of school committees) include not only sums necessary to meet fixed obligations definitely binding on the committee, but also the sums that they estimate are required for the proper performance of their proposed plans in connection with the general purposes to be carried out by the provisions of General Law 71, the expenditures in connection with which could not in many instances be contracted for with certainty in advance of actual need."

The statement went on: "The larger question here, of course, is the matter of who controls the school budget. Once again, the law is abundantly clear in this regard, not only in respect to appropriations for instruction but also for such other functions as are deemed necessary by the School Committee for the operation of a school program. The Committee is authorized by law to operate a school lunch program, and is authorized to budget funds for this purpose."

If the matter should go to court and a favorable decision for the School Committee is rendered, the penalty involved is 25 per cent of the deficiency which the city would have to pay.

The third event mentioned was the motion adopted by the Board of Aldermen asking the Committee to task for "not adequately recognizing the needs of all the citizens as it could have done by showing greater restraint in the magnitude of the increase it voted."

In response to this action the statement quoted from a letter from the Chairman of the School Committee written when the 1968 budget was transmitted to the Mayor.

The letter pointed out that the committee recognized the dilemma faced by communities all over the nation in finding the proper balance between meeting "known educational needs and the city's ability to provide the financial support necessary for such a program."

"No one is more acutely aware of the financial problems we face than the members of the School Committee, and no one is more anxious to face them in a responsible way. It is our feeling that our real dilemma this year finds its focus in the fact that rather than receiving increased support from the state as many were led to believe would happen, the city of Newton is receiving over a million dollars less than it received last year. Obviously, this trend must be reversed, and we, therefore, urge the citizens of this community and specifically the members of the Board of Aldermen to join the School Committee and the Mayor in petitioning the Great and General Court to redress this imbalance. Too much is at stake for us to do otherwise," the statement concluded.

Apprehension over this year's Newton tax rate clearly motivated the action of the Aldermen in deleting the $100,000 from the school budget last Thursday night.

The budget cut was voted despite the feeling of some aldermen that it might result in a court fight.

The money deleted from the budget was supposed to pay

School Board Cuts $150,000 From Budget

The Newton School Committee pared its budget by a previously promised $150,000 Tuesday bringing the total to $16,974,858.

The cuts included $51,000 for instructors' salaries; $30,000 for pupil transportation; $24,000 for school plant operations; $40,000 from the cafeteria account and $5,000 from the athletic account.

The Board of Aldermen meets tonight to discuss a school lunch appropriation of $100,000 which has been a bone of contention between the two groups for the past week.

It is not known whether the action of the School Committee in cutting $150,000 from its overall budget has resolved the hassle.

for an elementary school lunch program, if the School Committee decides to implement the present pilot program now going on in three schools, and its report along with the School Committee's decision is expected to be made by June.

Alderman William H. Wolf, who presented the motion to the Board of Aldermen, said that "in view of the fact that the School Committee has not yet determined whether these funds will be necessary or expended," appropriation should be delayed until a final decision is made.

That motion was amended by Alderman William Bruce.

In the essence what the aldermen finally agreed to was to delete the $100,000 for the present and to ask the School Committee to present the request for the money again if and when they decide to inaugurate the lunch program.

The $100,000 would cover the costs from Sept. to Dec. 31 of 1968.

By law the school budget is separate from the rest of the municipal budget and is not ordinarily subject to change by the legislative body.

In a court battle several years ago the Supreme Court ruled in favor of the Newton School Committee after they brought a lawsuit stemming from the deletion of funds for out-of-state travel by certain members of the School Department. The city, in addition, was required to pay a 25 per cent penalty.

Alderman Franklin N. Flaschner, in discussing the $100,000 budget cut, said "at the rate of increase in the school budget each year, this is the right time to make an issue of the matter even though our position is weak."

The motion with the amendment was passed 12 to 7 with six members absent. Those in favor included Alan S. Barkin, Melvin J. Daniel, Louis I. Egelson, George L. Hicks, William E. Hopkins, David W. Jackson, Jason Sacks, William H. Wolf, Edward Uehlein, Robert Tennant, Franklin N. Flaschner and William L. Bruce.

Last Thursday was really the night for the School Committee to come under aldermanic fire.

A resolution by Alderman David W. Jackson took the committee to task "for not adequately recognizing the needs of all the citizens as it could have done by showing greater restraint in the magnitude of the increase it voted."

Jackson was referring to a nearly $2 million increase this year in the school budget.

The resolution asked that the School Committee re-examine its 1968 budget to determine if all of the 66 new positions voted were really necessary.

The same aldermen in favor of Wolf's motion agreed with Jackson's, with the exception of Tennant who voted no, and Alderman Joseph M. McDonnell who voted yes.

During the previous two budget meetings the board cut from the Finance Committee's recommended budget of more than $37 million, $6,000 for an annual report by city department heads and restored to the budget $2,000 cut by the Finance Committee for an item having to do with public building maintenance.

The aldermen also cut five new recommended patrolmen positions on the police force and the money for their salaries, overtime and uniforms, all of which

EIL Sponsors Concert By Vienna Boy's Choir

A capacity audience attended the Sunday (March 10) performance of the Vienna Choir Boys in Symphony Hall, Boston, and listened to the boys sing selections by Haydn, Mozart, Schubert, and Strauss among others.

The concert, arranged and sponsored by the Experiment in International Living, was another of the organization's projects to promote international good-will and understanding.

A non-profit group with no political or religious affiliations, its method of operation is to create better understanding through person-to-person contact.

Not only have many Newton boys and girls gone to foreign countries under their programs to live as members of a family, but every year, Newton hosts open their homes to visitors from abroad who visit us in the same manner.

Newton Youths To Travel With The Experiment

William J. Kelley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Kelley of 61 Hancock Street, Auburndale and James L. Wolbarsht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Wolbarsht of 125 Winslow Road, Waban, are among a group of American youths going abroad on the 1968 summer program of The Experiment in International Living.

They will live for a month as the "son" of a family abroad and will travel in the host country, usually accompanied by members of their host family, for the second month. This firsthand opportunity to develop friendships, to learn the customs and traditions of another country and to participate in the daily life of an "adopted" family is the heart of every Experiment program.

William Kelley will visit Nepal and James Wolbarsht has chosen Austria-Czechoslovakia as his host country.

Prior to departure on their summer program the participants will attend the School for International Training on a 165 acre campus in Brattleboro, Vermont. They will have intensive language training and courses in the history and culture of the countries they plan to attend.

Health Dept. Has Flooded Cellar Tips

The health department has received many inquiries recently concerning the possible health dangers from flooded cellars.

Dr. Edward J. Sawyer, Commissioner of Health for the City of Newton, advised the following:

If the cellar has been flooded by rain, melting snow, backing up of storm water from drains, brooks, etc., the public health danger is slight. All that is necessary is that the cellar be pumped out, drained, and made thoroughly dry by heat or ventilation.

Any materials stored in the cellar, excluding food and drinks that have become undated, which have become wet or soaked should be taken out and dried.

If there is suspicion that the water in the flooded cellar has been contaminated with sewage or other pollution, the cellar and other material affected should be treated with a disinfecting solution such as the following:

Add one quart of household bleach to one gallon of water. Apply the solution to walls and floor with a broom or scrubbing brush.

Democratic Leaders Head McCarthy Drive In Newton

The Newton drive to get out the vote for Senator Eugene McCarthy will be spearheaded by four long-time Democratic party regulars.

Joseph McDonnell, Chairman of Ward 1 Democratic Committee; H. James Shea, Jr., Ward 3 member of the Board of Aldermen; H. Michael Mann, Chairman of the Ward 3 Democratic Committee and Dr. Melvin Taymor, Ward 3 Democratic Committee member, are the organizers to get out the largest possible vote for Senator McCarthy.

McCarthy backers say a possibility exists that a write-in campaign will be mounted by supporters of President Johnson. Therefore, it may not be a totally uncontested primary, they declare. The size of the McCarthy vote "is a significant factor which has gone far beyond dissent", they add.

The drive to get out the vote will have three facets—a Ward 7 Democratic Committee member, H. Michael Mann, co-chaired Richard Douglas's successful bid for Newton School Committee in 1967. He is a professor of economics at Boston College. Dr. Melvin Taymor was an early supporter of John F. Kennedy. He chaired his wife Betty Taymor's campaign for State Representative in 1934. Dr. Taymor teaches at Harvard Medical School.

Newton Housing Seeks Names And Rental Unit List

The United States Department of Housing and Urban Development "has approved the Newton Housing Authority Leased Housing Program. Initial approval will be limited to housing for the elderly in this program to provide housing in private accommodations for low-income families.

The Housing Authority is seeking listings of apartments or names of elderly persons or families who are paying too great a proportion of their income for rent. Families who are eligible for the leasing program will pay the normal rent which they would pay in an elderly housing development and the difference between the tenants rent paying ability and the normal rent for the apartment will be paid by the housing subsidy, which in a regular development is used to amortize the cost of construction.

Citizen cooperation in this community effort will enable the Newton Authority to materially improve the dignity of low-income families in Newton.
